McIntosh and Wilson Trial Begins Today

CAPE GIRARDEAU AP - A defense motion to quash extortion indictments against two southeast Missouri men was dismissed today as their trial began in U.S. District Court.

Joe Dale Wilson, 23, of Portageville and W. R. McIntosh, 45, of Sikeston are charged in federal warrants with extortion and use of interstate facilities with intent to commit a crime of violence.

They are accused of holding Henry Faye Tanner at the now defunct Wil-Mar Advertising Company office in Sikeston where shotgun blasts and blood were found the night of April 23, 1965, by Sikeston police.

A third man, the now deceased Walter Richardson, Jr., was also indicted in connection with the extortion.

The three were arrested the following Saturday night by Federal Bureau of Investigation authorities and were placed in the U.S. Jail at Jackson. They were released the following day on $100,000 bond.

Selection of the jury began after Judge Roy Harper overruled a defense contention that the government did not properly define Missouri statutes, consequently improper designation put the case in a different category.

Wilson and McIntosh, associated with Wil-Mar Advertising Co. in Sikeston, were indicted May 18, 1965, and pleaded innocent.

William Tanner is president of Pepper Sound Studios, Inc., in Memphis.

A Daily Standard reporter-photographer, Leo L. Schade, was subpeonaed Friday as a witness to identify pictures that he photographed the day after the alleged extortion.

Gemini Astronauts Have Safe Splashdown

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Cernan made the most accurate landing in the U. S. man-in-space program. They parked Gemini 9 less than two miles from the aiming point and only about three miles from the main recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Wasp, and in the view of millions of television watchers.

"On the money" splashdown came at 10 a.m. EDT after a flight of 3 days, 21 minutes, during which Gemini 9 circled the globe 45 times and traveled nearly 1.2 million miles.

While thousands of sailors, wearing their Sunday best, cheered, the Wasp maneuvered alongside and retrieved the astronauts and space craft from the sea 50 minutes after splashdown.

Stafford and Cernan acknowledged the cheers with waves and thumbs-up signals. Both appeared relaxed and in excellent physical condition.

Command pilot Stafford, whose cool, on-the-spot decisions played a key role in the mission, steered the space ship to a touchdown within sight of the carrier and on-deck television cameras, which relayed the dramatic picture via the Early Bird satellite to millions of U. S. homes.

On deck, the spacecraft's hatches were re-opened and the smiling astronauts stood up, waved at the sailors and the TV cameras and shook hands with Navy and space agency officials.

They then shook hands with one another and Stafford rubbed his three-day - old beard and laughed.

The 17-piece ship's band struck up "Anchors Aweigh" as the astronauts headed for a two-hour examination.

The Wasp also retrieved Stafford and Walter M. Schirra Jr. after the Gemini 6 flight in December.

Capt. Gordon E. Hartley, the Wasp's commanding officer, said he put the ship a little short of target just in case Stafford carried out his threat to fly "right down the smokestack."

Stafford, making his second flight into space in six months, was aided in the textbook landing by Cernan, who used the spacecraft computer to help calculate the maneuvers as Gemini 9 sped back through the atmosphere.

He had an assist from an easterly wind that helped blow the craft back toward the carrier.

A helicopter was overhead within seconds and Navy frogmen leaped into the water to attach a flotation collar to the bobbing craft.

The divers reported Stafford and Cernan gave the "thumbs up" signal through their spacecraft window as it bobbed in the four- to five-foot waves.

They appeared in excellent condition, the divers reported.

The astronauts elected to stay in the spacecraft until the Wasp came alongside.

The spacecraft hatch was opened nine minutes after touchdown and Stafford and Cernan stood up. Stafford shook hands with the swimmers.

It was a successful and dramatic end to a flight which had its ups and downs, with one problem after another plaguing the mission before and after the launching.

Duirng 72 hours and 21 minutes in orbit, Cernan and Stafford circled the globe 45 times and traveled nearly 1.2 million miles.

Their fiery return to earth started 160 miles above the Pacific Ocean near the international dateline when the craft's four retro-rockets fired with a jolt at 9:26 a.m. EDT.

The braking action slowed Gemini 9's 17,460-mile-and-hour speed by 300 miles and the craft, caught in the grip of earth's gravity, began the meteoric plunge back through the heat barrier of the earth's atmosphere.

Mission Control Center reported after the landing that the communications through the 34-minute re-entry period were better than on any of 12 previous U. S. man - in - space flights.

Only during a four-minute period when 3,000-degree heat shrouded the spacecraft in an ionization curtain was contact

Westover Named Prexy At Three Rivers JC

POPLAR BLUFF -- Dr. H. Tudor Westover, president of Flat River Junior College for the past nine years, has accepted the position of president of Three Rivers Junior College here, it was announced.

Dr. Westover has been a member of the Missouri Advisory Committee on Junior College Education since 1961 and has served as vice president and president of the Missouri Association of Junior Colleges. He is 50 years old.

The new president will begin his duties July 15. The position pays a minimum annual salary of $17,000 plus transportation expenses.

Dr. Edward M. Palmquist, a University of Missouri official and chairman of the Commission Accredited Schools and Colleges, said in a letter to Dr. Westover:

"It would be a virtual impossibility to open a program in Poplar Bluff in the fall of 1966 which would fulfill even minimally the standards established by the University of Missouri for the accreditation of junior colleges."

Without proper accreditation by the university, students could not transfer to other colleges and retain the credits they have earned.

Already working in his spare time for the college, Dr. Westover requested and was granted permission to apply for a $5,000 matching federal grant to buy library books for the college. The school, if the grant is approved, would buy $10,000 worth of books and supplies and then would be reimbursed 50 per cent ($5,000).

In other action, the trustees voted to ask for bids from eight banks in the college district for a rate of interest to be charged

Crop Decision Expected From Congress

By O. C. Miller
Ozarks News Bureau

WASHINGTON D. C. -- Congress is expected to decide next week on the question of planting a substitute crop on cotton lands which has been washed out by the heavy spring rains.

Briefly the situation is this: The House passed a bill providing that the farmers who did not get their cotton seed in the ground before the rains came could plant another crop on the land under the disaster provision. They could then get the payments just the same as the farmers who had planted the seed and had them washed out.

Rep. Paul Jones introduced a bill, and argued for the provision on the floor of the House. A bill with this provision was passed by the House.

In the Senate a fight on the bill broke out. Senator Symington urged that the farmers who did not get their seed in the ground be given the same rights as those who did, and got the seeds washed out.

He said 30 percent of the land was prepared for the planting but did not get the seeds in the ground. Under the law these could not take advantage of the disaster provision, and plant the cotton acreage in another crop such as soybeans. He also told the Senate that in 25 percent of the land which was planted, the seeds were washed out. These under the law could plant the substitute crop, and get the federal paments.

Senator Symington urged that the disaster plan also apply to the 30 percent that did not get the seeds in the ground. They should be able to plant the land in another crop, and also get the payments.

Senator John Williams of Delaware got an amendment to the Senate bill providing that no payments in excess of 10,000 could be made to a single person.

Rep. Paul Jones said he was badly disappointed that the Senate added the provision.

The conferees will meet soon to iron out the differences between the two bills.

WOODLAND SERENITY

Where does one search for serenity in a world of tension and turmoil? Where can one experience an interlude of peace when man ruthlessly sets self-interest above the common good? There are always places and opportunities to step aside from the traffic rush of life if one will.

When the beauty of June is a benediction on the countryside and the green tide is full on the fields, uplands and hills, one of the sanctuaries is a woodland where a man can walk among friendly trees and absorb the serenity of nature's sanctuary.

The great boles of oaks and beeches, maples and hickories resemble the columns of a cathedral; the interlaced branches above are a roof that closes off the distractions of man-made society.

It is peaceful, quiet and brooding in the soft light. Here and there where shafts of golden light reach the leaf floor, the illumination reminds one of the light that shines through church windows.

In a woodland one can feel the distractions fade. The therapy of the outdoors heals scars that come from elbow-rubbing friction in the marketplace.

Woodland birds make music. One may see a clump of flowers in an open glade; perhaps a mother partridge leads her brood of beady-eyed chicks among the trees. The world today is much with us, and getting and spending we waste our power.

But if one will, when the frustrations multiply and weariness comes, he can walk woodland aisles and recharge the heart.

SPOTLIGHT ON SMOKING

If automobile manufacturers feel put upon by Congress and Ralph Nader, they could derive some comfort from the recent experience of the tobacco industry. The American Cancer Society and the President's Advisory Committee on Smoking and Health have both branded cigarette smoking a definite health hazard. Cigarette packages are now required by federal law to carry a warning message. And yet more Americans are smoking more cigarettes than ever.

Still another review of the effects of the tobacco habit is in the offing. A three-day conference, described as the First International Congress on Smoking and Health, will open in New York City on Sunday, June 5. President of the Congress is E. W. Alton Ochsner, M. C., past president of the American College of Surgeons and of the International Society of Surgery. Other participants will include Dr. Paul Dudley White, Linus Pauling, and former Rep. Walter H. Judd (R Minn.).

It is doubtful that the congress will produce any new and startling conclusions, or that smokers will swear off tobacco if it does. Cigarette sales slumped somewhat after earlier health warnings, but they soon rebounded. Prevention rather than cure of the smoking habit would seem to be the best approach to the problem. Katherine B. Oettinger, head of the federal Children's Bureau, recently reported that some 4,5000 youngsters between 12 and 17 years old begin smoking every day.

LAW ENFORCEMENT TODAY is being degraded, purposely in many instances, by the widespread and indiscriminate use of the term "police brutality."

This practice is called a guilt-by-language process by some individuals. They may be right. For example, the word "juvenile" has been associated with "delinquency" so often and so long that now, when used alone, it has a disagreeable connotation to much of the public.

"Police brutality" conjures up visions of hulking men in uniform clubbing and beating innocent people. Rarely, however, does the term fit the circumstances to which it is applied. It is used in wild accounts of enforcement officers' lifting limp demonstrators who block busy thoroughfares, in references to oral commands by policemen who disperse potential troublemakers, in depicting efforts by officers to halt violations of the law, and in describing any number of other sworn duties performed by policemen.

We know there is a calculated and deliberate attempt by some groups to inflame hositlity against law enforcement by charging "police brutality" without cause. To a large degree they have succeeded. The term is bandied about in all media of communication without serious consideration as to its true meaning or its harmful effect on a profession which is charged with enforcing the basic rules of civilized living.

I agree with a growing number of responsible news editors, public officials, and law-abiding citizens that it is high time to get this "pet slogan" into a better perspective. We do not deny there have been instances of misuse of force by enforcement officers, but such incidents are not as prevalent as the public has been led to believe. A general and accepted principle of the law has been that an officer may use such force as is necessary to make lawful arrests, protect his life, and perform other special duties. Frequently, however, the choice is not his to make; he HAS to use force or be maimed or killed and have the rights of all the people trampled by those who have no respect for law or due process. Even then, his best efforts often are not enough, as evidenced by the appalling number of officers assaulted and killed each year.

Policemen have the same basic rights as others. There is no reason why they should be singled out for ridicule by invalid blanket accusations. The public, the press, and law enforcement itself should launch a concerted drive to stop the semantic indictment of police. Allegations and incidents should be reported and described in realistic, impartial, and truthful terms. If an officer is assaulted while making an arrest and uses undue force to subdue the person, then call it "undue force." If an officer uses profane language to a citizen, then describe it as profane language. If an officer is thought to be biased or prejudiced in his treatment of groups or individuals, then the complaint should so state. But the constant cry of "police brutality" as a catch phrase, exploited and used as camouflage for illegal conduct, is dead wrong. It is a stigmatization of police by rote.

David Lawrence writes, in U. S. News & World Report: "It would appear that, when diplomacy fails and wars are in progress, we can only seek divine guidance. We must mobilize the spiritual forces of mankind. These include not only the far reaching influence of the Pope but the cooperation of the leaders of all religions in Asia as well as on other continents, so that the points of agreement and disagreement may be candidly discussed with each other. POWER AT THE TOP

The proposal that a portion of federal income tax revenues be returned to the states, so that they can do needed things for themselves instead of having to look to Washington for help, isn't likely to get anywhere in the foreseeable future. It is a highly complex and controversial matter.

But the mere fact that so revolutionary an idea is urged by responsible people is in itself a biting commentary on what has happened to the American system of government.

BOSTON AP -- Henry Hite, who travels from city to city, always calls for his hotel reservations far in advance and asks for twin beds "end to end."

"This never fails to startle reservation clerks," Hite said on a recent Boston visit. "Eventually I explained I stand 8 feet 2 in bare feet.

"In a normal bed I'd be two feet out of it. That's a pun, son."

Hite says that in most hotels workers bolt together twin beds lengthwise and seamstresses sew sheets and blankets together, again end to end.

Hite travels around the country for a meat - packing firm Wilson, making personal appearances in supermarkets. He gets home to Chicago as often as he can to spend a little time with his wife and visit his clothier and shoemaker.

His wife, the former Maria Bertoll, a onetime Chicago dancer, stands 5 feet 3. "This is no gag," says Hite. "We've been happily married for 30 years."

Hite's clothier uses 8½ yards of material for a single suit "and you just don't go into a bootery and ask for a size 22

Another problem is movies, which Hiz enjoys. One time, he says, "a woman in the seat behind me tapped me on the shoulder and asked me to please sit down. I'd been sitting there for a half-hour."

Hite was born Henry Mullins in Atlanta, Ga., 51 years ago. He has seven sisters and five brothers, none of whom is over 5 feet 11. His mother was 5 feet 4 and his father 5 feet 8.

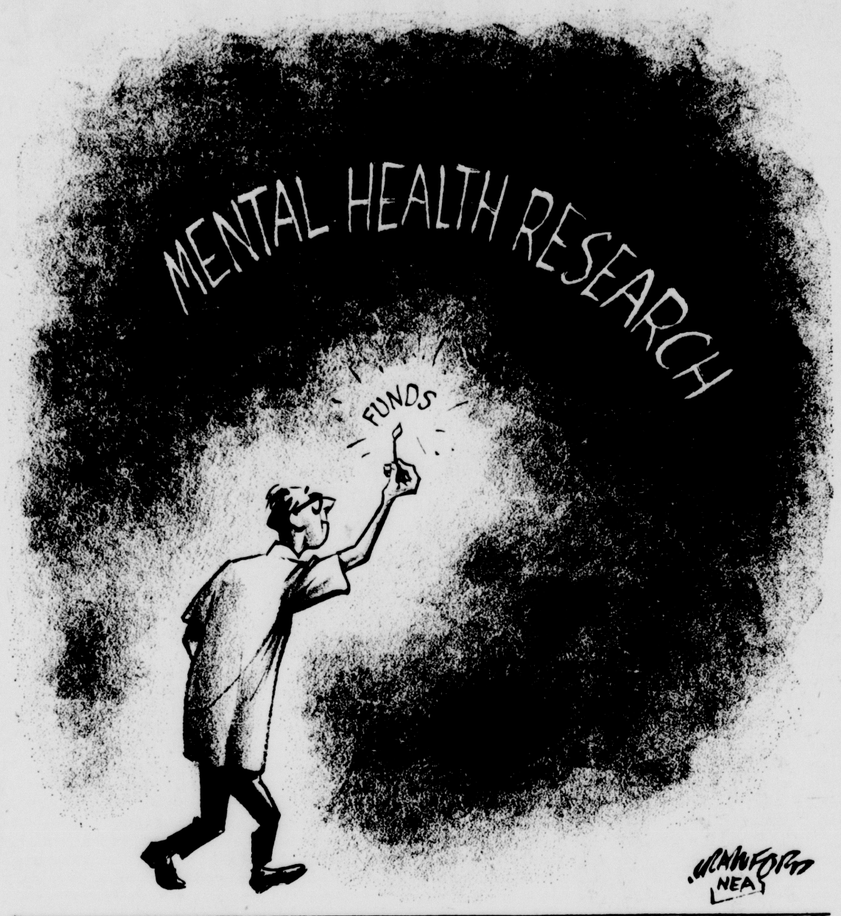

Hite says that by the age of 12 he already was 7 feet 2 "but I stopped growing at the age of 16. For a while I was growing an inch a week. I'd go to bed in long underwear and get up in the morning in shorts."

He adds: "At the age of 11, my family took me to a specialist for a pituitary operation, but I wouldn't go through with it because I was told the hair on one side of my head wouldn't grow back in. And now look, I'm bald anyway."

Hite played high school basketball and football in Atlanta. His teams never lost a game.

"In basketball," he says, "I used to shoot down into the basket and in football I made a first down every time I tripped."

The Hard Way

The founding fathers established a central government of severely limited powers. It was to do what only a central government could adequately do such as to provide for the national defense. The states and local governments were strong and independent entities, entrusted to meet the varying wants, needs and problems of their populations.

The formal structure of state and local government remains. But the foundation has been largely whittled away by legislative acts, by administrative decisions, and by judicial interpretations. In more and more areas of our national life, Washington calls the tune, and all must dance to it.

This is costly in dollars -- the vast administrative bureaucracy must be paid. It is costly in a more important coin -- that of diminished or destroyed state and local rights, obligations, responsibilities, and power of decision. Unless a halt is called, the end result can only be a federal welfare state in which the individual is only a number and all power is concentrated at the top.

SUPPOSE!

Suppose every farmer and rancher was required by law to join and pay dues to a farm and ranch organization. Or suppose every parent of school children was required to be a dues paying member of the PTA. Or suppose every fisherman and hunter was legally compelled to join a game protective association.

These ridiculous ideas, as the Arizona Farm Bureau Federation has pointed out, contain the same logic as that used by labor groups and others who are now seeking repeal of that section of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits the states, if they so choose, to enact Right-to-Work laws.

Twenty of the states have done that. They thus have said, in effect, that it is up to each individual worker to decide whether he wants to join a union or not. He cannot be compelled to join -- on pain of unemployment -- and his employer cannot prevent him from joining. In other words, it is up to the union to demonstrate that its services are worth their price.

If the right to join or not to join any organization is not a fundamental right, what is?

STIFLING COMPETITION

A recent report of the Interstate Commerce Commission provides some interesting and highly significant information concerning the extent of federal regulation of the various modes of transportation.

The railroads and the airlines, it shows, are 100 per cent regulated. But only 33.8 per cent of the motor carriers are regulated, along with a mere 11.1 per cent of the water carriers, including coastal, intercoastal, inland waterway and Great Lakes traffic.

This points up the problem faced by the railroads -- the most efficient movers of freight that man has yet devised -- in competing for traffic with other kinds of transportation. And the solution to that problem does not lie in extending and stiffening regulations. It lies, rather, in a relaxation of regulatory laws and policies, many of them ancient and obsolete, which will permit all the carriers to make the most of their own particular inherent advantages in seeking business.

This is the essential point made in high level study after high level study, in presidential messages to Congress, and in the editorial stand of just about every newspaper which has commented on the matter. Existing regulations simply stifle the forces of competition, to the disadvantage of every shipper and consumer in this land. And inaction by Congress seems to be the road block to progress.

GOOD CAUSE TO SWEAR BY

One project that is bound to draw at least cursory attention is Conrad Cormier's profanity pot.

Each year barber Cormier installs the pot, or bowl, in his shop in Hartford, Conn., and turns cusswords into charity.

The format is simple. Anyone who cuts loose with a naughty word in the shop during Lent has to put a dime in the pot.

This year the Crippled Children's Hospital in Hartford received $101 in swearword revenue -- a record high. Last year the hospital got $79.95.

Most of the 1966 increase, Cormier explains, came from the Cassius Clay fight.

"It brought in $15 all by itself," he reports contentedly.

The way things are going at home and around the world, there is little reason to believe the barbershop discussion group will contribute a lesser amount to the hospital next year.

The cussword fund may, in fact, reach another all-time high -- especially if taxes are raised and Clay keeps talking.

So congratulations to you, barber Cormier, for helping a worthy cause and at the same time perhaps slowing down profanity a bit.

A heck of a good idea, sir!

VACATIONERS FOR FREEDOM

The youth of America will be on the move this summer. Increasingly, for young Americans summer vacation means travelling across America to areas of this magnificent country so far unfamiliar to them. This is great for them and for us, for to know their country better is to appreciate it more.

The young vacationers can enhance their pleasure and serve the cause of liberty by becoming Vacationers for Freedom. This is not a grinding chore; it is a stimulating experience. It is an opportunity for youth to show the way to their lagging elders.

Vacationers for Freedom can sing and they will be ~~heard~~, they can speak and their words will be heeded. It is vital that our nation's youth get involved, deeply and personally involved, in the effort to drive home the freedom message. Freedom's enemies work unceasingly at their grim assignment of destruction; Freedom's friends must be at least as diligent.

Youth can get more excited about the positive than the negative; more importantly, they can excite their elders to positive action. Their exuberance, enthusiasm and daring have been misused by the destroyers of freedom too long. These qualities in its youth are among America's greatest natural resources; they must be used for America's future.

Young Americans travelling the length and breadth of their land, singing its praises, singing its songs, speaking its marvelous message of liberty and justice for all can stop the enemy cold.

Young Vacationers for Freedom can strike a mighty blow for freedom, for America and American ideals and make the summer of 1966 a very memorable one. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The surveyor project to explore the moon has been beset by all sorts of snafus. But, with last week's soft landing, at long last it seems to be in high gear.

Previously the space agency's governing board had described the Ranger, which preceded the Surveyor as a "shoot and hope" program, while congress had criticized the project in blistering terms.

However, in early May, American scientists visiting the International Atomic Center in Vienna conferred with Russian scientists, who gave them a report on Luna IX, the Russian capsule which made a soft landing on the moon Feb. 3.

There is only one copy of this report in existence in the United States, and it shows pictures of the Russian landing, accompanied by data regarding the pictures.

Careful study of the Russian report has led American space scientists to the following conclusions:

1. Luna IX was less sophisticated than we originally believed. It took pictures of the moon's surface by ejecting cameras in a cocoon - like box away from the side of the capsule.

2. The capsule itself was not as highly developed as ours. It was made of pliable material which could not carry a man.

Evaluating these studies, space experts have concluded that the United States is not as far behind Russia as previously believed; on the contrary, is probably ahead.

As a result, some scientists believe it may be possible to place American astronauts on the moon's surface prior to 1970, the original goal. They are now aiming at 1968.

MORE DODDISM

The California race for lieutenant governor is attracting attention chiefly because ex-Ambassador Lloyd Hand, LBJ's Chief of Protocol, has gone west to run for the no. 2 spot.

However, the real race is between the President Lieutenant Governor Glenn Anderson, a nice guy with some cases of Doddism in his career, and Tom Braden, a hard - hitting crusader for better education.

Lt. Gov. Anderson when mayor of Hawthorne paid giveaway prices for two city lots acquired by the city for failure to pay taxes. One, purchased on July 22, 1940, for only $10, was "city lot 11, 2nd addition Hawthorne." Ten years later Anderson used the land as security to borrow $8,000, so obviously the land must have been worth more than $10 when he bought it. Whether the mayor of a city should buy land from the city is a matter of some doubt.

Braden, a member of the California board of education and president of the board of trustees of California state college, has been more active in boosting schools than perhaps anyone in the state. He points out that the size of California classes has increased as a result of lessening money for schools, and that the way to improve education is not to talk about sex deviates in the colleges, as right-wing leaders are doing but to get better teachers, build more schoolhouses and vote more money.

Ambassador Hand will be snowed under on election day. The real race will be between Braden and Anderson.

DICK GREGORY CAMPAIGNS

Dick Gregory, the Negro comedian, sent word to Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California offering to campaign for Brown next fall for one week. Gregory said he would urge all California Negroes to vote for Brown's reelection.

This week, however, Gregory is taking the opposite line by campaigning for a Negro candidate against Brown, Dr. Carleton Goodlet of San Francisco, a Democrat who is running in the primary.

Gregory explained that he wanted to encourage the Negro candidate, even though Goodlet had no chance to win, and even America's Conscience Fund, has done a great deal to help rebuild churches and homes destroyed by bombs of bigotry

In California, Brown has such a commanding lead in the Democratic primary that the opposition of Dr. Goodlet will make no difference in the outcome.

However, in the recent Ohio primary, a Negro candidate, Granville Bradley, managed to take 11,000 votes away from Michael Sweeney, the pro-civil rights candidate who came within 500 votes of defeating Rep. Mike Feighan, who voted against civil rights and called Mrs. Roosevelt a "Nigger lover."

In this case, had the Negroes supported a white civil rights candidate they could have defeated an anti-Negro congressman.

MOON MERRY-GO-ROUND

The space agency has decided to build three surveyors in addition to the seven already on hand. All will do the same thing, but each a little more, when launched in preparation for placing an astronaut on the moon. . . Russian Lunar photos indicated a lava-like crust on the moon. It was also concluded that some of the moon's surface is being blown away into space by solor winds. This is deduced from the fact that rocks stick up abruptly as if the wind had blown the surface away from the sides of the rocks . . . Actually, speculation at this stage regarding what's on the moon is like the blind men who examined the elephant. One who felt its tail said, "it's a rope." One who felt its leg said, "it's a tree." And one who felt its side said, "it's a wall." No one will really know exactly what's on the moon until someone gets there.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Bob Kennedy Tests New Image -- Joins With Militants Of Labor in Assault on Big City Machines

CHICAGO -- Look not to Africa for the big game Bob Kennedy hunts.

What he seeks is nowhere on the black continent.

It is rather in the asphalt jungles of the big cities.

He and those who have talked to him in rare private moments are aware that no New Yorker (and he is that now) ever has become president without fighting Tammany Hall at home and the big city machines across the land.

It is on the political logistics chart. The people expect it.

His chance in New York was not ready-made, but was made ready by liberal-labor leader Alex Rose, the two-hatted hatters' union chief. Together they are battling Tammany's choice for a surrogate benchship which handles hundreds of millions of dollars annually in probated wills.

That will be a clangorous, headlined battle. Basically "Bob" will not be hurt by defeat.

When in a recent tete-a-tete Mr. Kennedy asked Alex, ambulatory essence of laborite politics: "What if we lose?" union president Rose retorted.

"Win or lose, you can't lose if you fight the machine. The people will say you're doing the right thing."

Apparently this has impressed the Kennedy camp. It is gunning for the machine, too, here in the city of the big wind. It is challenging Mayor Richard Daley's absolute power. And again the Kennedy people are in coalition with liberal - labor forces.

The site of battle is the grim South Side Second Congressional District, stretching across part or all of the Fourth to the Tenth Wards (excluding Ward Six).

There, young Abner J. Mikva, former law partner of former labor lawyer Arthur J. Goldberg, is challenging the grand old man of Chicago politics, Congressman Barrett O'Hara.

The challenger is 40 years old. The incumbent, now 84, hit the beaches in Cuba three days after Theodore Roosevelt and the Rough Riders.

Rep. O'Hara, an old newsman and labor radio broadcaster, even veteran movie executive of D. W. Griffith days, is the oldest man in the House. For decades he has been close to the AFL leaders and a good friend of Mayor Daley.

As far as labor recollects, O'Hara has voted right all the way down the line. So he has the full endorsement of the Committee on Political Education (COPE).

But now comes young Mikva to fight him in the June 14 primaries for the Democratic nomination.

And with Mr. Mikva came a split in labor's ranks.

A bloc of unionists, led by friends of Walter Reuther and Bob Kennedy, has broken with COPE, though it is the official political mechansim of the American labor movement.

Backing the contender is AFL-CIO Vice President Ralph Helstein, president of the packinghouse workers, who was put on labor's high council only after Mr. Reuther fought for him.

Mr. Mikva is an intellectual with quite a coterie of young lawyers and champions amongst the Washington's intelligentsia. They have been breaking him into capital society through the cocktail route.

Mr. Mikva, an intense fellow, is "Kennedy" all the way, except in hair-do. The Chicagoan has what the youngsters call a modified "butch" haircut.

He's bright. He works hard. So do his militant assistants and supporters, some of whom are transplanted New Yorkers.

To the sophisticated observer here, the national significance is in the Mikva movement's fight against the Daley machine -- for to battle Rep. O'Hara is to fight Daley and Lyndon Johnson, too. The President is fond of O'Hara and appointed him a delegate to the 20th session of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

Thus with characteristic Kennedy daring, the Senator from New York has taken on many veteran machines.

Not only is he bucking the powerful Tammany machine in New York and the traditionally unbeatable Daley juggernaut here, but Robert Kennedy also is tackling the old-line labor leaders in both cities.

They are lining up behind the official Democrat candidate in both megalopsolises. They are putting out the money and manpower. They may even beat Bob Kennedy and his men in both sectors.

But the Senator will have made his point. He will have plunged into gut politics in the open, alongside the militant liberals of the labor movement -- Alex Rose, Walter Reuther, Ralph Helstein and the official reform blocs of the streets of both cities where the intellectuals gather.

Thus we have the making of the newest of the new Bob Kennedy.

Yancey Captures Memphis Open

By BOB GILBERT

Both were there Sunday when he needed them for his record-setting journey to a 15-under-par 265, lowest score on the 1966 PGA tour, and $20,000 in first place prize money.

Roy Stone, a touring caddy, telephoned Yancey at the motel and told him he had only 10 minutes to reach the course to tee off on the final 19 holes.

Roy Sanders, Yancey's caddy during the tournament, talked strategy with the young Philadelphian and suggested the 2-iron shot which Yancey said was his best fairway swing of the day.

Yancey, trailing Gene Littler by one stroke going into the final round, fired a four-under-par 66 for a 265 total, one stroke lower than Cary Middlecoff shot in winning the 1961 title.

"I was putting really well," the 27-year-old Yancey said. He birdied five holes and had only one bogey.

Yancey slept late and then watched television coverage of the Gemini 9 space adventure until 20 minutes before time to tee off. The starting time had been advanced because of TV coverage of the tournament.

"At 11:10, Roy called me and said I was due off at 11:20," he said. "I was never so frightened. I just knew I had blown the whole works."

He reached the tee eight minutes before he would have been disqualified.

Littler, at 270, finished second and won $12,000.

Peters Hurls Two-Hitter At Washington

By MURRAY CHASS

Gary Peters is putting less kick into his work this season and getting more kicks out of it.

Peters, who isn't lifting his leg as high this year, brought his foot down on Washington Sunday, pitching a two-hitter as the Chicago White Sox completed a sweep of a doubleheader with a 12-0 victory. They won the opener 4-1.

The 29-year-old left-hander believes a combination of bad timing and incorrect kicking affected his pitching last year.

Tommie Agee supplied much of the White Sox power, driving in all four runs in the opener with a homer and triple and scoring three runs in the second game. Tom McCraw drove in three runs in the nightcap while Don Buford and Smoky Burgess each knocked in two.

Harmon Killebrew's fifth homer in six games snapped a 4-4 deadlock in the sixth inning and sparked Minnesota past Cleveland. The Twins added three runs in the seventh, two on Rich Rollins' single. Max Alvis and Leon Wagner homered for the Indians.

A double by Sam Bowens and Russ Snyder's single in the 12th inning gave Baltimore a victory in the game suspended Saturday night because of a city curfew.

But the Athletics stormed back in the regular game as Phil Roof drove in three runs and Ken Harrelson and Bert Campaneris two each.

The first helicopter flew not long after the Wright brothers made their first flight in a conventional airplane. In 1907 the first man-carrying helicopter, built by Paul Cornu, made a free vertical flight. But the design of this machine dates back to Leonard da Vinci who drew plans for, and probably built, a small helicopter model.

Braves Bomb Cards

Atlanta bombed the St. Louis Cardinals 14-4, Sunday while Kansas City salvaged the final game of a four-game series at Baltimore, 9-4.

Before the regular Sunday game, the A's and Orioles resumed play in the 12th inning of a 5-5 game that was suspended at midnight Saturday by a Baltimore curfew.

Russ Snyder wrapped it up for the Orioles with a single to score Sam Bowens who had doubled to open the Baltimore 12th.

Rollie Sheldon, who was tagged with the 6-5, 12-inning suspended game loss, remained on the mound to open the regularly scheduled Sunday contest. For a time it appeared that he might be tagged with two losses on the same day as the Orioles jumped him for three runs on five hits in the first inning.

The A's, however, collected two runs in the second, three in the fifth, and put it out of reach with four more in the ninth.

Ken Harrelson had three hits and drove in two runs. Phil Roof also drove in three runs on a double and a single, and Campy Campaneris pushed across two with his first homer of the season in the ninth.

The victory again lifted the A's past Boston into ninth place in the American League by a half game. Jim Dickson, who hurled two innings of shutout ball in relief, received credit for his first decision of the season. The loss went to Wally Bunker.

The Braves sent ten men to the plate in a 7-run fifth-inning, their biggest single inning of the season, before the Cards could record the first out. St. Louis led 4-3 going into the fifth. Al Jackson took the loss, his fourth against four victories.

St. Louis and Kansas City are both idle today.

Cards To Feature Pre-Game Show

Country and Western music will make its debut at the new Busch Stadium on Saturday nite, June 18, when a "Grand Ole Opry" troupe will perform prior to the Cardinals game with Philadelphia.

Faron Young, of "Hello Walls" fame, and Norma Jean, star of the Porter Wagoner TV Show, will headline the "Grand Ole Opry" group.

Waylon Jennings and the Waylors, sensational new recording band, will be an added attraction for the pre-game show and also will perform between innings.

The special pre-game show begins at 6:15 and continues until the game starts at 7 o'clock.

Norma Jean's record "The Shirt" is presently rated as one of the hot country and western singles while Waylon Jennings album recording "Folk-Country" is currently listed as one of the big sellers.

The Philadelphia series may be the biggest series yet in attendance at the new stadium. The Phils play the Red Birds in single games Friday and Saturday night and in a twin-bill on Sunday, June 19.

The double-header is a make-up of the April 12 postponement.

Tickets at all prices are available for all three dates and may be purchased over the counter or by mail at Busch Memorial Stadium, St. Louis, Missouri 63102.

WRONG TARGET

Cardenas Falls Shy Of Record

by MIKE RATHET

Willie Stargell fell one hit shy of a record. But he will get another chance-- without starting over.

Cardenas, Cincinnati's 160-pound shortstop, slammed four homers and drove in eight runs as the Reds split a doubleheader with Chicago Sunday, winning the opener 8-3, before the Cubs took the nightcap 9-5.

By hitting four homers in a twinbill, Cardenas accomplished a feat that hadn't been done since the 1963 season. But he still fell one shy of the five Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals hit in a 1954 doubleheader.

Cardenas won't get another chance, unless he starts another muscle - flexing streak, but Stargell still has a chance to match the National League and major league records for most consecutive hits.

The Pittsburgh slugger was interrupted by the end of the Pirates' 10-5 victory over Houston after collecting five straight hits, including two homers. And he still had a streak of nine consecutive hits intact.

When the Pirates meet St. Louis Tuesday night he'll get a shot at the NL record of 10 last achieved by Cincinnati's Woodie Williams in 1943--and the major league record of 12 last reached by Walt Dropo of Detroit in 1952.

Elsewhere, San Francisco edged Philadelphia 7-6 in 10 innings and Los Angeles and New York split, the Dodgers crusing to a 16-3 victory before the Mets won the nightcap 3-2.

In the American League, Minnesota thumped Cleveland 9-4, the New York Yankees defeated Boston 5-3, the Chicago White Sox swept Washington 4-1 and 12-0, Detroit took two from California 8-4 and 4-1 and Kansas City belted Baltimore 9-4 after the Orioles had nipped the A's 6-5 in 12 innings in the completion of a game suspended Saturday night.

NAIA Tourney In Final Phase

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. AP -- Eight college baseball teams will be here today for the final phase of the annual battle for the title in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Linfield of Oregon, 22-9 and Guilford of North Carolina, 25-6, open the double-elimination affair at 11 a.m. today.

Following the pair to the diamond the rest of the day will be:

2 p.m. -- Lewis of Illinois, 30-4, vs. New Haven, Conn., 28-4.

6 p.m. -- New Mexico Highlands, 34-10, vs. Missouri Valley, Marshall, Mo., 16-7.

8:30 p.m. -- Omaha, 22-6, vs. Southern Louisiana of Baton Rouge, 17-4.

Omaha and Southern are the only teams returning from the 1965 tournament.

Missouri Valley's Vikings are the first Missouri entry in the NAIA championship series since 1957, when William Jewell College made the grade.

Coach Voleny Ashford of the Vikings said he won't "be looking for any pushovers in this tournament."

He added:

"We have two good starting pitchers in Frank Scorfina and Bob Littleton, but we have little depth."

Scorfina, St. Louis, has a 6-2 record this season, while Littleton of Keytesville, has won four and lost six.

The final game is slated for next Friday night, but should the losers' bracjet finalist win, the title game will be played Saturday night.

Big Weekend For Big Eight Track

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a big weekend for Big Eight track athletes, topped by Jim Ryun's near-miss 3:53.7 shot at the world mile record and a 7-1¾ high jump by Missouri's Steve Herndon, best in the world this season and an all-time Big Eight best.

Big Eight athletes won 11 gold medals, five seconds, 11 thirds and had 35 place-winners combined at three major meets — the Compton Invitational at Los Angeles, the district Federation meet at Houston and the Central Collegiate meet at Notre Dame, where Kansas was third with 41.

Herndon's leap was one-fourth inch above the previous best in league history, a 7-1½ by Oklahoma's Ron Till earlier this season.

Oklahoma State's 3:08.6 mile relay at Compton was second best in Big Eight history to the 3:08.5 by Oklahoma this season. John Perry of OSU won the invitational 880 in 1:48.1 at Compton, and his brother Dave, former OSU star, took the open 880 in 1:48.8 in the same meet, with Jim Metcalf of OSU third at 1:49.

Nebraska's Charlie Greene took the 100 meters in 10.3 at Compton and teammate Dave Crook was third in the 440 at 46.6.

Ryun, the amazing Kansas freshman, missed the world mark at Compton because of a relatively slow first quarter. His quarter times were 59.9, 58.6, 60.0 and 55.2. Michel Jazy of France, in running his 3:53.6 world mark last June 9, had split times of 57.3, 59.2, 60.9 and 56.2.

"I'd like to meet Jazy but I understand it's a little hard to do," Ryun said. "I think I could have run faster. I wasn't tired at all at the finish."

Ryun smashed his own American citizens mark of 3:55.3, which had been the 12th best time ever run. Now he's second on the all-time list and still a good bet to become the first American to smash the world mile record since Glenn Cunningham of Kansas did it 32 years ago.

Missouri's Gene Crews set a shot put mark of 59-8½ at Notre Dame, while John Lawson of Kansas won the mile in 4:05.6 and Gary Schwartz of Kansas took the discus in 179-10, a career best.

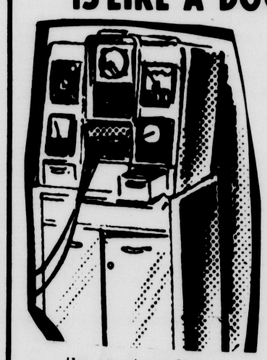

Kansas State's Conrad Nightingale won the mile in a meet record 4:03.4 at the Houston USTFF, while the Oklahoma freshmen tied their own national frosh 440 relay mark of 40.7 and OU frosh Larry Smith took the pole vault in 15-6. Nightingale was third in the three-mile and teammate bill Selbe fourth in the 440 in 47.7.

The USTFF nationals at Terre Haute, Ind., this weekend are next.

A MODERN ELECTRONIC ENGINE PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS IS LIKE A DOCTOR'S X-RAY

When you go to your Doctor for a checkup, he usually insists on an X-ray, to determine the exact condition of the vital organs that control body processes.
An electronic diagnosis of your engine and its electrical system is like an X-ray in that it determines the exact condition of each part and component that controls car performance.
Many vital engine parts are out of sight. It is impossible, for example, to see the action of the distributor points under actual working conditions. However, with our modern Rotunda Electronic Diagnosis Equipment, the exact condition of all such hidden parts is clearly indicated on the oscilloscope screen. Nothing is left to guesswork--nothing is overlooked.
Let our trained diagnosis technicians give you a complete report on every phase of your engine's performance. It will pay big dividends in helping you to avoid future trouble.

Below Normal Rain For June

Below normal rainfall combined with temperatures near the seasonal normal will tend to put a different emphasis upon the moisture situation in the Missouri Bootheel during June. Field conditions are extremely variable as the month begins. Some wet spots have not fully recovered from heavy May rains while drier, better drained or sandy soils are rapidly nearing the point when moisture will be needed.

May rainfall totals over the Bootheel show up some of this variability:

Malden, 6.77 inches; Poplar Bluff, 6.38 inches; Kennett, 6.09 inches; Portageville, 5.45 inches; Sikeston, 10.37 inches; Caruthersville, 4.35 inches; Charleston, 9.98 inches.

Rainfall in June is likely to range between 2 and 4 inches as an average for the Bootheel. Low pressure centers will generally pass well to the west and north of Missouri, while high pressure is expected to dominate the lower Mississippi Valley. Showers may accompany cool fronts trailing southward from low centers. However, these will be less frequent in June than in previous months and they tend to be weaker as we move toward the Summer season.

High pressure will cut off our major source for moisture from the Gulf of Mexico much of the time. Occasional afternoon and evening shower and thundershower activity can be expected as low level southerly winds bring rising warmth and humidity into the Bootheel. This type of activity is not very reliable as far as supplying agricultural needs at this stage of crop development.

Normal rainfall for June over the Bootheel as a whole is 3.96 inches.

Normals for specific cities are:

Caruthersville, 3.36 inches; Fisk, 4.82 inches; Steele, 3.99 inches; Poplar Bluff, 4.38 inches; Dexter, 4.35 inches; Morehouse, 4.11 inches; Parma, 4.08 inches; Kennett, 4.31 inches.

Short term averages for other cities:

Malden, 3.16 inches, Kennett 3.80 inches, Portageville, 3.76 inches, Charleston, 3.86 inches.

With near normal temperatures during June evaporation and transpiration normally dispose of over 2 inches more moisture than is received by rainfall. Since June rainfall is expected to be light, our moisture deficit is likely to run above that figure. This means that moisture stresses can be anticipated during a period of high moisture demand for corn and the pre-bloom stages of cotton. Irrigation systems will be called upon to relieve stresses, particularly on sandier soils.

June normally produces 18 or 14 days with maximum temperatures above 90 degrees over the Missouri Bootheel. Warm, dry weather may cause problems with spider mites, and thrips may work into late planted cotton especially following the wheat harvest. Farmers are advised to keep a look out for such developments, and to contact their County Extension Director for latest recommendations for controls should these pests show up in significant numbers. Conditions favorable for these insects are usually favorable for application of chemicals. Remember that settling rates are slowed by convective air currents during hot mid-day periods. Winds are less likely to be strong enough to cause drift problems during early forenoon and late afternoon.

June rainfall distribution should allow a number of open periods for haying and wheat harvest. Potatoes will need supplemental moisture for sizing. Near normal temperatures are not as likely to limit tuber development as when we encounter excessively hot conditions in June.

Farmers are advised to pay particular attention to daily and five day weather outlooks as a guide to scheduling activities during this month. By June 6th, the ESSA Weather Bureau teletypewriter circuit for Missouri and Southern Illinois will be available to the following radio stations:

KMIS- Portageville, KCRV-Caruthersville, KMPL-Sikeston, KGMO- Cape Girardeau, KBOA - Kennett, KSIM - Sikeston, KTCB - Malden, KFVS - Cape Girardeau (also TV).

Erwin Canham

Canham Becomes President

Erwin D. Canham, who addressed large non-denominational audiences in St. Louis and Kansas City last month, the Christian Science Church today, a members from around the world convened in Boston for their Centennial-Year annual meeting.

Simultaneously, construction workers one block away were beginning land clearance for the religion's dramatic new expansion of its headquarters area, known as The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

These were the climactic events in this year's observance of the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of Christian Science under the leadership of Mary Baker Eddy in 1866.

To the annual meeting, it brought the biggest attendance in the Church's history, flowing over into the adjacent Civic Auditorium and a nearby theater, where the proceedings were carried on closed-circuit television. An estimated 15,000 people were on hand.

Mr. Canham, who is a well-known journalist and Editor in Chief of The Christian Science Monitor, will serve as President for one year while continuing his Monitor duties. He came to the meeting directly from a major world speaking tour, which he will resume next September in Europe. Capacity audiences have greeted the editor in 34 cities and four countries, thus far, to hear his non-denominational public address on "The Spiritual Revolution," which was initiated this year in connection with the Centennial.

"And now we move into the Second Century," began Mr. Canham, speaking before the annual meeting in his new capacity as Church President.

"It is a thrilling moment," but also "urgently challenging," he told the assembly.

"Civilization stands at one of its great crises, perhaps the greatest and most dangerous yet encountered. The world can press forward into the light. Or it can drop back into the darkness.

"False confidence has brought society close to disaster," he said, and summed up three major challenges that must be faced: "destruction of civilization by nuclear warfare. . .unchecked population growth, leading to famine. . .moral destruction of society through sensuality and licentiousness."

These challenges "are to be met successfully nowhere except in human consciousness," he declared.

"The battles to be fought and won are in the hearts and minds of humanity, as individuals strive to understand and apply God's laws. . .the truth of being.

One of the specific contributions of Christian Scientists, he stated, is in bringing out the broad possibilities of "spiritual healing" and spiritual awakening. "There is no problem facing mankind today which cannot be solved through spiritual awakening," he added.

A message to the meeting from The Christian Science Board of Directors noted the "radical changes" taking place in humanity's thinking about "the nature of Deity and God's relation to men."

Read by Clayton Bion Craig, new Chairman of the Board, the message asserted that "the 'God is dead' doctrine certainly does not signify the death of God as Jesus knew Him, or even as Abraham, Moses, Jacob, and the prophets knew Him.

"It does herald the end in human thought of a concept of Deity as a magnified human personality -- and an increasing awareness of the nature of God as infinite Spirit, which Christ Jesus declared Him to be; as omnipresent divine Mind, that mind which was also in Christ Jesus; and the infinite Love which St. John declared constitues the very nature of Deity."

But to overcome and heal the ills that beset our world today, said the message, will require spiritual discipline, "faithfulness to divine Truth and Love. . .bringing to the world a higher concept of God as divine Principle, in the realms of business, government, social service, the political sphere, and in every phase of human thought and action."

Several new steps to improve the church organization and prepare it for "the challenges which lie ahead." were noted by the Directors, as well as in reports to the meeting from different church departments.

Two of the most imprtant innovations mentioned were a new International Department and a new Youth Division for better coordination of the Church's growing operations in these areas.

Similar changes have already added four stories to the proposed height of the new Church Administration Building announced last year as part of the expanded 15-acre "Church Center" now under construction.

The detailed plans call for a 26-story building and other facilities at a cost of more than $8,000,000, with extensive private development on surrounding church-owned land.

The Church Treasurer's report to the annual meeting today noted the establishment of a "Church Center Building Fund," but added that "no specific financial goal has been set, no personal solicition is to be made." Contributions are to be kept on a voluntary basis out of "each member's gratitude."

Other events in connection with the Centennial this year included the publication a few weeks ago of a 100-year report on the Church's spiritual healing experience, titled "A Century of Christian Science Healing"; and a recent ceremony at the Smithsonian Institution accepting a privately-donated marble bust of Mary Baker Eddy into the National Portrait Gallery.

A tribute from Gallery officials stated that "as the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy has earned such recognition" among those who have made "a significant contribution to the lives of their fellow citizens."

Yancey Captures Memphis Open

By BOB GILBERT

Both were there Sunday when he needed them for his record-setting journey to a 15-under-par 265, lowest score on the 1966 PGA tour, and $20,000 in first place prize money.

Roy Stone, a touring caddy, telephoned Yancey at the motel and told him he had only 10 minutes to reach the course to tee off on the final 19 holes.

Roy Sanders, Yancey's caddy during the tournament, talked strategy with the young Philadelphian and suggested the 2-iron shot which Yancey said was his best fairway swing of the day.

Yancey, trailing Gene Littler by one stroke going into the final round, fired a four-under-par 66 for a 265 total, one stroke lower than Cary Middlecoff shot in winning the 1961 title.

"I was putting really well," the 27-year-old Yancey said. He birdied five holes and had only one bogey.

Yancey slept late and then watched television coverage of the Gemini 9 space adventure until 20 minutes before time to tee off. The starting time had been advanced because of TV coverage of the tournament.

"At 11:10, Roy called me and said I was due off at 11:20," he said. "I was never so frightened. I just knew I had blown the whole works."

He reached the tee eight minutes before he would have been disqualified.

Littler, at 270, finished second and won $12,000.

Peters Hurls Two-Hitter At Washington

By MURRAY CHASS

Gary Peters is putting less kick into his work this season and getting more kicks out of it.

Peters, who isn't lifting his leg as high this year, brought his foot down on Washington Sunday, pitching a two-hitter as the Chicago White Sox completed a sweep of a doubleheader with a 12-0 victory. They won the opener 4-1.

The 29-year-old left-hander believes a combination of bad timing and incorrect kicking affected his pitching last year.

Tommie Agee supplied much of the White Sox power, driving in all four runs in the opener with a homer and triple and scoring three runs in the second game. Tom McCraw drove in three runs in the nightcap while Don Buford and Smoky Burgess each knocked in two.

Harmon Killebrew's fifth homer in six games snapped a 4-4 deadlock in the sixth inning and sparked Minnesota past Cleveland. The Twins added three runs in the seventh, two on Rich Rollins' single. Max Alvis and Leon Wagner homered for the Indians.

A double by Sam Bowens and Russ Snyder's single in the 12th inning gave Baltimore a victory in the game suspended Saturday night becasue of a city curfew.

But the Athletics stormed back in the regular game as Phil Roof drove in three runs and Ken Harrelson and Bert Campaneris two each.

The first helicopter flew not long after the Wright brothers made their first flight in a conventional airplane. In 1907 the first man-carrying helicopter, built by Paul Cornu, made a free vertical flight. But the design of this machine dates back to Leonard da Vinci who drew plans for, and probably built, a small helicopter model.

Braves Bomb Cards

Atlanta bombed the St. Louis Cardinals 14-4, Sunday while Kansas City salvaged the final game of a four-game series at Baltimore, 9-4.

Before the regular Sunday game, the A's and Orioles resumed play in the 12th inning of a 5-5 game that was suspended at midnight Saturday by a Baltimore curfew.

Russ Snyder wrapped it up for the Orioles with a single to score Sam Bowens who had doubled to open the Baltimore 12th.

Rollie Sheldon, who was tagged with the 6-5, 12-inning suspended game loss, remained on the mound to open the regularly scheduled Sunday contest. For a time it appeared that he might be tagged with two losses on the same day as the Orioles jumped him for three runs on five hits in the first inning.

The A's, however, collected two runs in the second, three in the fifth, and put it out of reach with four more in the ninth.

Ken Harrelson had three hits and drove in two runs. Phil Roof also drove in three runs on a double and a single, and Campy Campaneris pushed across two with his first homer of the season in the ninth.

The victory again lifted the A's past Boston into ninth place in the American League by a half game. Jim Dickson, who hurled two innings of shutout ball in relief, received credit for his first decision of the season. The loss went to Wally Bunker.

The Braves sent ten men to the plate in a 7-run fifth-inning, their biggest single inning of the season, before the Cards could record the first out. St. Louis led 4-3 going into the fifth. Al Jackson took the loss, his fourth against four victories.

St. Louis and Kansas City are both idle today.

Cards To Feature Pre-Game Show

Country and Western music will make its debut at the new Busch Stadium on Saturday nite, June 18, when a "Grand Ole Opry" troupe will perform prior to the Cardinals game with Philadelphia.

Faron Young, of "Hello Walls" fame, and Norma Jean, star of the Porter Wagoner TV Show, will headline the "Grand Ole Opry" group.

Waylon Jennings and the Waylors, sensational new recording band, will be an added attraction for the pre-game show and also will perform between innings.

The special pre-game show begins at 6:15 and continues until the game starts at 7 o'clock.

Norma Jean's record "The Shirt" is presently rated as one of the hot country and western singles while Waylon Jennings album recording "Folk-Country" is currently listed as one of the big sellers.

The Philadelphia series may be the biggest series yet in attendance at the new stadium. The Phils play the Red Birds in single games Friday and Saturday night and in a twin-bill on Sunday, June 19.

The double-header is a make-up of the April 12 postponement.

Tickets at all prices are available for all three dates and may be purchased over the counter or by mail at Busch Memorial Stadium, St. Louis, Missouri 63102.

Cardenas Falls Shy Of Record

by MIKE RATHET

Leo Cardenas fell one homer shy of a record. He won't get another chance--without starting over.

Willie Stargell fell one hit shy of a record. But he will get another chance-- without starting over.

Cardenas, Cincinnati's 160-pound shortstop, slammed four homers and drove in eight runs as the Reds split a doubleheader with Chicago Sunday, winning the opener 8-3, before the Cubs took the nightcap 9-5.

By hitting four homers in a twinbill, Cardenas accomplished a feat that hadn't been done since the 1963 season. But he still fell one shy of the five Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals hit in a 1954 doubleheader.

Cardenas won't get another chance, unless he starts another muscle - flexing streak, but Stargell still has a chance to match the National League and major league records for most consecutive hits.

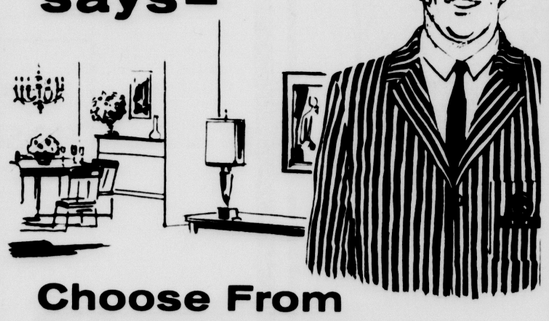

The Pittsburgh slugger was interrupted by the end of the Pirates' 10-5 victory over Houston after collecting five straight hits, including two homers. And he still had a streak of nine consecutive hits intact.

When the Pirates meet St. Louis Tuesday night he'll get a shot at the NL record of 10 last achieved by Cincinnati's Woodie Williams in 1943--and the major league record of 12 last reached by Walt Dropo of Detroit in 1952.

Elsewhere, San Francisco edged Philadelphia 7-6 in 10 innings and Los Angeles and New York split, the Dodgers crusing to a 16-3 victory before the Mets won the nightcap 3-2.

In the American League, Minnesota thumped Cleveland 9-4, the New York Yankees defeated Boston 5-3, the Chicago White Sox swept Washington 4-1 and 12-0, Detroit took two from California 8-4 and 4-1 and Kansas City belted Baltimore 9-4 after the Orioles had nipped the A's 6-5 in 12 innings in the completion of a game suspended Saturday night.

NAIA Tourney In Final Phase

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. AP -- Eight college baseball teams will be here today for the final phase of the annual battle for the title in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Linfield of Oregon, 22-9 and Guilford of North Carolina, 25-6, open the double-elimination affair at 11 a.m. today.

Following the pair to the diamond the rest of the day will be:

2 p.m. -- Lewis of Illinois, 30-4, vs. New Haven, Conn., 28-4.

6 p.m. -- New Mexico Highlands, 34-10, vs. Missouri Valley, Marshall, Mo., 16-7.

8:30 p.m. -- Omaha, 22-6, vs. Southern Louisiana of Baton Rouge, 17-4.

Omaha and Southern are the only teams returning from the 1965 tournament.

Missouri Valley's Vikings are the first Missouri entry in the NAIA championship series since 1957, when William Jewell College made the grade.

Coach Voleny Ashford of the Vikings said he won't "be looking for any pushovers in this tournament."

He added:

"We have two good starting pitchers in Frank Scorfina and Bob Littleton, but we have little depth."

Scorfina, St. Louis, has a 6-2 record this season, while Littleton of Keytesville, has won four and lost six.

The final game is slated for next Friday night, but should the losers' bracjet finalist win, the title game will be played Saturday night.

Big Weekend For Big Eight Track

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a big weekend for Big Eight track athletes, topped by Jim Ryun's near-miss 3:53.7 shot at the world mile record and a 7-1¾ high jump by Missouri's Steve Herndon, best in the world this season and an all-time Big Eight best.

Big Eight athletes won 11 gold medals, five seconds, 11 thirds and had 35 place-winners combined at three major meets — the Compton Invitational at Los Angeles, the district Federation meet at Houston and the Central Collegiate meet at Notre Dame, where Kansas was third with 41.

Herndon's leap was one-fourth inch above the previous best in league history, a 7-1½ by Oklahoma's Ron Till earlier this season.

Oklahoma State's 3:08.6 mile relay at Compton was second best in Big Eight history to the 3:08.5 by Oklahoma this season. John Perry of OSU won the invitational 880 in 1:48.1 at Compton, and his brother Dave, former OSU star, took the open 880 in 1:48.8 in the same meet, with Jim Metcalf of OSU third at 1:49.

Nebraska's Charlie Greene took the 100 meters in 10.3 at Compton and teammate Dave Crook was third in the 440 at 46.6.

Ryun, the amazing Kansas freshman, missed the world mark at Compton because of a relatively slow first quarter. His quarter times were 59.9, 58.6, 60.0 and 55.2. Michel Jazy of France, in running his 3:53.6 world mark last June 9, had split times of 57.3, 59.2, 60.9 and 56.2.

"I'd like to meet Jazy but I understand it's a little hard to do," Ryun said. "I think I could have run faster. I wasn't tired at all at the finish."

Ryun smashed his own American citizens mark of 3:55.3, which had been the 12th best time ever run. Now he's second on the all-time list and still a good bet to become the first American to smash the world mile record since Glenn Cunningham of Kansas did it 32 years ago.

Missouri's Gene Crews set a shot put mark of 59-8½ at Notre Dame, while John Lawson of Kansas won the mile in 4:05.6 and Gary Schwartz of Kansas took the discus in 179-10, a career best.

Kansas State's Conrad Nightingale won the mile in a meet record 4:03.4 at the Houston USTFF, while the Oklahoma freshmen tied their own national frosh 440 relay mark of 40.7 and OU frosh Larry Smith took the pole vault in 15-6. Nightingale was third in the three-mile and teammate bill Selbe fourth in the 440 in 47.7.

The USTFF nationals at Terre Haute, Ind., this weekend are next.

A MODERN ELECTRONIC ENGINE PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS IS LIKE A DOCTOR'S X-RAY

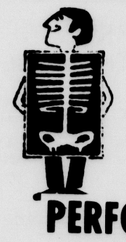

When you go to your Doctor for a checkup, he usually insists on an X-ray, to determine the exact condition of the vital organs that control body processes.

An electronic diagnosis of your engine and its electrical system is like an X-ray in that it determines the exact condition of each part and component that controls car performance.

Many vital engine parts are out of sight. It is impossible, for example, to see the action of the distributor points under actual working conditions. However, with our modern Rotunda Electronic Diagnosis Equipment, the exact condition of all such hidden parts is clearly indicated on the oscilloscope screen. Nothing is left to guesswork--nothing is overlooked.

Let our trained diagnosis technicians give you a complete report on every phase of your engine's performance. It will pay big dividends in helping you to avoid future trouble.

Below Normal Rain For June

Below normal rainfall combined with temperatures near the seasonal normal will tend to put a different emphasis upon the moisture situation in the Missouri Bootheel during June. Field conditions are extremely variable as the month begins. Some wet spots have not fully recovered from heavy May rains while drier, better drained or sandy soils are rapidly nearing the point when moisture will be needed.

May rainfall totals over the Bootheel show up some of this variability:

Malden, 6.77 inches; Poplar Bluff, 6.38 inches; Kennett, 6.09 inches; Portageville, 5.45 inches; Sikeston, 10.37 inches; Caruthersville, 4.35 inches; Charleston, 9.98 inches.

Rainfall in June is likely to range between 2 and 4 inches as an average for the Bootheel. Low pressure centers will generally pass well to the west and north of Missouri, while high pressure is expected to dominate the lower Mississippi Valley. Showers may accompany cool fronts trailing southward from low centers. However, these will be less frequent in June than in previous months and they tend to be weaker as we move toward the Summer season.

High pressure will cut off our major source for moisture from the Gulf of Mexico much of the time. Occasional afternoon and evening shower and thundershower activity can be expected as low level southerly winds bring rising warmth and humidity into the Bootheel. This type of activity is not very reliable as far as supplying agricultural needs at this stage of crop development.

Normal rainfall for June over the Bootheel as a whole is 3.96 inches.

Normals for specific cities are:

Caruthersville, 3.36 inches; Fisk, 4.32 inches; Hayti, 3.99 inches; Poplar Bluff, 4.38 inches; Dexter, 4.35 inches; Morehouse, 4.11 inches; Parma, 4.66 inches; Sikeston, 4.16 inches.

Short term averages for other cities:

Malden, 3.16 inches, Kennett 3.80 inches, Portageville, 3.76 inches, Charleston, 3.86 inches.

With near normal temperatures during June evaporation and transpiration normally dispose of over 3 inches more moisture than is received by rainfall. Since June rainfall is expected to be light, our moisture deficit is likely to run above that figure. This means that moisture stresses can be anticipated during a period of high moisture demand for corn and the pre-bloom stages of cotton. Irrigation systems will be called upon to relieve stresses, particularly on sandier soils.

June normally produces 18 or 14 days with maximum temperatures above 90 degrees over the Missouri Bootheel. Warm, dry weather may cause problems with spider mites, and thrips may work into late planted cotton especially following the wheat harvest. Farmers are advised to keep a look out for such developments, and to contact their County Extension Director for latest recommendations for controls should these pests show up in significant numbers. Conditions favorable for these insects are usually favorable for application of chemicals. Remember that settling rates are slowed by convective air currents during hot mid-day periods. Winds are less likely to be strong enough to cause drift problems during early forenoon and late afternoon.

June rainfall distribution should allow a number of open periods for haying and wheat harvest. Potatoes will need supplemental moisture for sizing. Near normal temperatures are not as likely to limit tuber development as when we encounter excessively hot conditions in June.

Farmers are advised to pay particular attention to daily and five day weather outlooks as a guide to scheduling activities during this month. By June 6th, the ESSA Weather Bureau teletypewriter circuit for Missouri and Southern Illinois will be available to the following radio stations:

Erwin Canham

Canham Becomes President

Erwin D. Canham, who addressed large non-denominational audiences in St. Louis and Kansas City last month, the Christian Science Church today, a members from around the world convened in Boston for their Centennial-Year annual meeting.

Simultaneously, construction workers one block away were beginning land clearance for the religion's dramatic new expansion of its headquarters area, known as The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

These were the climactic events in this year's observance of the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of Christian Science under the leadership of Mary Baker Eddy in 1866.

To the annual meeting, it brought the biggest attendance in the Church's history, flowing over into the adjacent Civic Auditorium and a nearby theater, where the proceedings were carried on closed-circuit television. An estimated 15,000 people were on hand.

Mr. Canham, who is a well-known journalist and Editor in Chief of The Christian Science Monitor, will serve as President for one year while continuing his Monitor duties. He came to the meeting directly from a major world speaking tour, which he will resume next September in Europe. Capacity audiences have greeted the editor in 34 cities and four countries, thus far, to hear his non-denominational public address on "The Spiritual Revolution," which was initiated this year in connection with the Centennial.

"And now we move into the Second Century," began Mr. Canham, speaking before the annual meeting in his new capacity as Church President.

"It is a thrilling moment," but also "urgently challenging," he told the assembly.

"Civilization stands at one of its great crises, perhaps the greatest and most dangerous yet encountered. The world can press forward into the light. Or it can drop back into the darkness.

"False confidence has brought society close to disaster," he said, and summed up three major challenges that must be faced: "destruction of civilization by nuclear warfare. . .unchecked population growth, leading to famine. . .moral destruction of society through sensuality and licentiousness."

These challenges "are to be met successfully nowhere except in human consciousness," he declared.

"The battles to be fought and won are in the hearts and minds of humanity, as individuals strive to understand and apply God's laws. . .the truth of being.

One of the specific contributions of Christian Scientists, he stated, is in bringing out the broad possibilities of "spiritual healing" and spiritual awakening. "There is no problem facing mankind today which cannot be solved through spiritual awakening," he added.

A message to the meeting from The Christian Science Board of Directors noted the "radical changes" taking place in humanity's thinking about "the nature of Deity and God's relation to men."

Read by Clayton Bion Craig, new Chairman of the Board, the message asserted that "the 'God is dead' doctrine certainly does not signify the death of God as Jesus knew Him, or even as Abraham, Moses, Jacob, and the prophets knew Him.

"It does herald the end in human thought of a concept of Deity as a magnified human personality -- and an increasing awareness of the nature of God as infinite Spirit, which Christ Jesus declared Him to be; as omnipresent divine Mind, that mind which was also in Christ Jesus; and the infinite Love which St. John declared constitues the very nature of Deity."

But to overcome and heal the ills that beset our world today, said the message, will require spiritual discipline, "faithfulness to divine Truth and Love. . .bringing to the world a higher concept of God as divine Principle, in the realms of business, government, social service, the political sphere, and in every phase of human thought and action."

Several new steps to improve the church organization and prepare it for "the challenges which lie ahead." were noted by the Directors, as well as in reports to the meeting from different church departments.

Two of the most imprtant innovations mentioned were a new International Department and a new Youth Division for better coordination of the Church's growing operations in these areas.

Similar changes have already added four stories to the proposed height of the new Church Administration Building announced last year as part of the expanded 15-acre "Church Center" now under construction.

The detailed plans call for a 26-story building and other facilities at a cost of more than $8,000,000, with extensive private development on surrounding church-owned land.

The Church Treasurer's report to the annual meeting today noted the establishment of a "Church Center Building Fund," but added that "no specific financial goal has been set, no personal solicition is to be made." Contributions are to be kept on a voluntary basis out of "each member's gratitude."

Other events in connection with the Centennial this year included the publication a few weeks ago of a 100-year report on the Church's spiritual healing experience, titled "A Century of Christian Science Healing"; and a recent ceremony at the Smithsonian Institution accepting a privately-donated marble bust of Mary Baker Eddy into the National Portrait Gallery.

A tribute from Gallery officials stated that "as the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy has earned such recognition" among those who have made "a significant contribution to the lives of their fellow citizens."

Shrine Circus Dates Announced

Loren Willhoft, Chief Rabban of Moolah Shrine Temple, 3821 Lindell boulevard, who has been appointed general chairman of the 1966 Annual Shrine Circus and Fireworks Display, June 29, 30, July 1, 2, 3, 4. The proceeds from the 24th annual circus will be for Shriners Hospital for crippled and burned children, and 25 other local child health and welfare agencies without distinction.

ST. LOUIS -- Hundreds of Shriners from Moolah Temple Shrine Clubs in Eastern Missouri today had launched their advertising and ticket sales campaign for the 24th Annual Moolah Circus and Fireworks Display to be held here at Public Schools Stadium June 29 through July 4, it was announced by Loren Willhoft, circus chairman and Moolah's chief rabban.

"As usual we are counting upon both industry and individuals from all of Eastern Missouri to purchase both program advertising and tickets, and to attend the circus," Willhoft said.

He added that business and industry which is not solicited for advertising or tickets and who wish to participate may get in touch with the Shrine Club in their area, or by writing directly to Moolah Temple, 3821 Lindell boulevard, St. Louis, Missouri 63108.

Taking an active part in the campaign are members from the following clubs, each of which covers a number of towns surrounding the cities mentioned:

Capital, Jefferson city, Three Rivers, Poplar Bluff, Nemo, Hannibal, Tiger, Columbia, Four Rivers, Sullivan, Ecmo, Farmington, Little Dixie, Mexico, Semo, Sikeston, Daniel Boone, Wentzville and South St. Louis County, Kirkwood.

Pointing out that the benefit is held for Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children here, and 25 local children health and welfare agencies without distinction, Willhoft issued an invitation to all residents of Eastern Missouri "to visit our hospital and see first-hand how the funds raised through the circus are employed." The hospital provided totally free care to approximately 4,000 needy afflicted children last year.

Willhoft added that the hospital has 270 children awaiting hospital beds, one of the largest waiting lists in recent years.

Held nightly at 8:15, the circus will emphasize aerial excitement and animal and comedy acts with particular emphasis on acts that appeal to children. A nightly feature will be a balloon ascension.

Symington Directs Increased Medical Service for Military

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., will direct Senate hearings on a bill to expand medical benefits for military personnel, both active and retired.

The military medicare measure was approved by a unanimous 356-0 House vote on May 11 and referred to the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., appointed Symington, former secretary of the Air Force, chairman of a subcommittee to conduct Senate hearings tentatively scheduled to start late this month.

The bill, asked by the administration, would make the benefits effective July 1 and permit medical treatment in civilian hospitals if facilities were not available in military institutions.

Patients would have to meet part of the hospital costs.

The House Armed Services Committee said the measure proposes the same level of health benefits for military personnel and their families that now is available to nonmilitary personnel and their families that now is available to nonmilitary federal employees.

The bill would expand a 1956 military medicare act which limits treatment for active duty personnel in civilian centers.

The measure also would require that 5 per cent of bed space in new military hospitals be set aside for retired personnel and their dependents. It also would authorize a program for care, training and special education of handicapped children of active duty personnel.

The House report estimated cost of the program at more than $1 billion over a five-year period.

There were about 56 registered English language newspapers being published in India in 1964.

Oran High Senior Trip

ORAN: The 1966 Seniors of Oran High School made an all-day Senior Trip to Memphis the middle part of May. The bus left bright and early at four o'clock with a load of eager seniors. Their first stop was in Portageville where they ate breakfast. Upon their arrival in Memphis they headed for the Memphis zoo and lingered until until eleven o'clock.

From there they went to the Pink Palace which is a museum. While their they saw many Indian relics, different types of African animal heads, relics of early America and many more interesting things. The lunch hour found them all at the Plaza enjoying a delicious meal.

Following lunch, they went to the Cotton Carnival where they were to spend the rest of the day. The carnival was filled with exciting rides and games which were enjoyed by all the seniors. During the afternoon some of the senior went to a move or went shopping.

In the evening, there was a parade on the Mississippi River which consisted of beautifully decorated barges with cotton scenes. On one of the barges was the Cotton Queen and King. An impressive sight which no one will forget was the million dollar Yacht that was displayed.

The Seniors had a wonderful time and want to thank Mr. Dennis Wheeler, Miss Darlene Tate, and Mr. and Mrs. John Arbuckle for being their sponsors on this unforgettable day.

JUNIOR HIGH PICNIC

ORAN: The seventh and eighth grade students held their annual picnic with a weiner roast at Jackson Park on Friday eveing. Sponsoring the event was Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Griffin, Dennis Wheeler and Mrs. John Uptain.

Hodges Named Superintendent Of Richland District

CHARLESTON -- Bill Hodges, assistant superintendent of schools for the R-1 District, said today he will resign that position to become superintendent of the Richland (Essex and Gray Ridge) Reorganized School District.

Superintendent W. R. Pierce Jr. who will be leaving July to accept another position, said he understands the R-1 board will meet Friday to interview an applicant for the superintendent's position, and will probably consider Hodges' resignation at that time.

Hodges' resignation is the most recent in a series of administrator resignations this spring. Others include:

-Bill Harris, hired in February as evaluator of federal programs, leaving to accept a position with a junior college in Pensacola, Fla.

-O. W. Farwell, principal of the Eugene Field, Mark Twain, and Wyatt Elementary Schools, leaving to accept a position in Plattsburg.

-Dick Clough, federal program coordinator, who has requested reassignment to the classroom.

Only the Farwell position has been filled. Kenneth House, principal for several years at the Bertrand Elementary School, has been reassigned to the Eugene Field and Mark Twain positions.

Another administrative vacancy exists, that of assistant high school principal. A temporary assignment to this post was made in January, when LaWayne Law was transferred to the Anniston Junior High principalship, but no permanent replacement for Law has yet been found.

Mr. Hodges came to Charles-in 1959 as assistant football coach and started the first guidance and counseling program in the Charleston schools the next year.

In 1964 he became principal at the high school, a position he held until July 1965, when he became assistant superintendent. Mr. Hodges and his family plan to move about July 1.

Matthews School Plans Head Start Program

MATTHEWS -- The Matthews R-5 School District has tentatively been approved for a summer Head Start program, Supt. Lester M. King announced.

This program is primarily designed for economically deprived children in the district who lack the necessary growth and development to make the proper adjustment into the first grade of school, Mr. King said.

Most of the children eligible for the program have registered, he said. To be eligible a child must be six years old by Sept. 15.

The Head Start program and the remedial reading program will begin June 13. Both programs will run for eight weeks, and transportation and hot lunches will be furnished to everyone attending, Mr. King explained.

Classes will be from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. These programs are sponsored by the federal government so there will be no expense to the parents, the superintendent added.

Four buses will cover the district and the pickup time will be about the same time as the regular school buses.

Anyone wishing to enroll a child can come to or call the Matthews school on June 13 at 8:30 a.m., Mr. King said.

Charleston Historical Society Plans Banquet

Members of the Mississippi County Historical Society have announced plans for a potluck banquet for Thursday night, June 9, in the Charleston Methodist Church basement, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Richard Brownlee, director and secretary of the State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia, will be the featured speaker. His services as a speaker and counselor in the formation and operation of such organizations, are in great demand and the Mississippi County society is very fortunate to be able to book Brownlee for the Thursday night meeting. He will be accompanied by his assistant Jim Moss, and both will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Moore while here.

The Historical Society will furnish the barbecue. East Prairians will provide the bread and drinks. Everyone else is asked to bring a covered dish.

In order to plan for the dinner meeting it will be necessary to have a rather close count on attendance. Those who plan to attend are asked to contact any one of the following persons:

Mrs. Audley Brown, Mu 3-6450
Mrs. Joe Ellis Jr., MU 3-4735
Mrs. Sam Jones, NI 9-2294
Mrs. Paul Schneider, NI 9-3110
Mrs. V. Goodin, MU 3-6665
Mrs. Jack Small, OR 5-3261

Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Goodin are from Charleston, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Schneider live in East Prairie, and Mrs. Small lives in Wyatt.

Members of the board of directors met Tuesday night to plan the June 9 meeting. The directors emphasize this is a county-wide organization, and members are solicited in every community in the county. Membership is now over 200, and no concerted drive or campagin has been made. Most of the present members signed up voluntarily and without solicitation. In addition, many former Mississippi Countians now living in other sections of the country, have mailed in supporting memberships.

The directors considered several tentative locations where objects of historic interest may be displayed.

Caruthersville Annexation Vote Set for June 7

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Caruthersville voters will go to the polls next Tuesday, June 7, to decide what Mayor B. F. Rogers describes as "one of the communities most pressing issues," expansion.

Residents will cast their ballots either for or against the annexation of an estimated 800 acres into the corporate city limits of Caruthersville. The area proposed to become a part of the city virtually surrounds the present city limits with only two small breaks.

Mayor Rogers said Tuesday that the territory proposed for annexation will increase the current population by only about 200 or so but that the important factor is that the city needs the additional land for both housing and industrial development in the future.

At the present time, pipe has already been strung to most areas proposed for annexation and the water lines will be laid in a matter of weeks if the proposal carries on Tuesday. Sewer service will be extended to the new territory as soon as possible, having been included in the project now awaiting federal funds.

All the city services will be available in the new area immediately if the issue is passed by the voters, such as fire and police protection. However, taxes cannot be collected on that propoerty until next year under Missouri law.

He said there is no way to tell right now just how much the annexation would increase the city's assessed valuation but indicated that it would not be any tremendous amount. The tax value of the land now is not the primary concern, Rogers added, but the important thing is having it available for future development.

"As it stands now," the mayor continued. "Caruthersville just does not have much vacant property that can be used for new homes or businesses, if the city is to grow and develop as it should there should be such property available in the city limits."

Most of the 800 acres to be annexed with voter approval is unimproved farm land which would be suitable and more valuable for the purposes Mayor Rogers descriged.

Only one property owner threatened serious court action when the proposal was in the hands of Circuit Court Judge William L. Ragland and Mayor Rogers said that was due to an error in the land description. It was settled with a revision of the plan and eliminated the need for any public hearing.

IRS To Mail Notices For Quarter

ST. LOUIS, -- The Internal Revenur Service said today that the mailing of notices for the second installment of the 1966 Estimated Tax is later than usual for this calendar quarter but began last week and is almost complete.

Most of the notices will be in the hands of the post office by June 5, 1966. In some cases, Mr. E. O. Bookwalter, District Director of Internal Revenue Service for the State of Missouri said, where the taxpayer has made an error in his declaration, Form 1040ES, such as an incorrect or omitted Social Security number, there may be an additional delay of a few days before notices are received.

Mr. Bookwalter said that individual taxpayers who filed Declarations of Estimated Federal Income Tax must pay the second installment of tax due in any event on the 1966 estimate by Wednesday, June 15, 1966.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 Years Ago
June 6, 1916

John Sutton and family left Thursday for Illinois where they will make their future home.

One of the most appreciated musical events ever given in Sikeston was the recital in the Malone Theatre Wednesday evening by William Rushing and his pupils assisted by Miss Allie Howard, soprano, who was in splendid voice. Henry Hunter Skillman's selections on the violin received much applause. The hit of the evening, however, was little Miss Evelyn Smith, whose performance was exceedingly good. Those participating on the program were: Glen Hoskins, Helen Kready, Ruth McCoy, Martha Gresham, Kathryn Jewell, Dola Roush, Kathryn Clark, Nica Calvin, Irma Wilson, Miss Howard and Mr. Rushing.

The government thermometer at the Farm Bureau registered 93 in the shade Wednesday and the wind blew a gale. It was a very uncomfortable day.

Cape Girardeau - Plans at headquarters in the interest of the $100,000 campaign for funds with which to build the new Southeast Missouri Hospital are now being completed for the teams campaign both in Cape and the surrounding communities.

Evelyn Klein entertained a group of her friends Wednesday night with a bunking party. The invited guests were: Sue Tanner, Carolyn Weltecke, Alice Van Horne, Patsy Ruth Gntles, Shirley Shainberg, Betty Lou Shankle and Wilma Ruth Shankelford of Washington, Ind.

Miss Alice Walton is now preparing plans for a five-room English cottage Mrs. William E. Northington will build this summer on ground directly north of the Kate Austin house she owns. The house will face North Ranney avenue and will have a stucco exterior. The new residence will be occupied by Mrs. Irma Wilson Allen, who will be a member of the Sikeston school faculty next term.

The new home Mrs. Florence Marshall is building on the southeast corner of North Kingshighway and Lake street is modeled after one Thomas Jefferson designed in 1802 and built in Virginia. J. A. Sutterfield is building it.

THE PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

MONDAY, JUNE 6, 1966

Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee: because he trusteth in Thee. (Isaiah 26:3)

PRAYER: Dear God, grant that we may enthrone Thee in our lives so that Thou wilt occupy first place in our heart, soul, and mind. Teach us that only when we are armed in Thy strength we are able to withstand evil and carry out Thy will; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Patriots who will write letters to friends abroad have again scored a signal victory in the upset election of Joaquin Balaguer. They created world sentiment which overcame the alleged "world opinion" promulgated and exported by the dupes and slaves of communists in the United States. They will be diligent in promoting Balaguer's inauguration and successful administration.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a working man and has always made a modest salary. We have managed to raise and educate our four children by following my mother's rule: "Eat it all. Wear it out. Sew it up. Do without."

Now that the children are on their own, things could be a lot easier financially, except for one thing. My husband goes on a drinking spree every two or three weeks and places long-distance telephone calls to friends all over North America. He calls people he hasn't seen in years, like his old Marine buddies. I can tell by the end of the conversation that some of these people don't even remember him.

Furthermore, I can't get it through his head about the different time zones. We live in Santa Barbara. Last night he called a buddy in Buffalo at 11:00 p.m. and wondered why he didn't get a big hello. He got mad and yelled, "How do you like that jerk -- asleep at 11:00 o'clock?"

I tried to explain that while it is 11:00 o'clock in California it is 2:00 a.m. in New York. He said I was crazy.

It burns me up that I have to hunt for bargains to save a few pennies on canned goods while my husband squanders hundreds of dollars on drunken nonsense that he can't even remember the next day. Please tell me what to do. --VERY ANNOYED

Dear Very: Ask around and determine if any of your local friends have husbands who are similarly afflicted. The boys could form a group known as Telephone Drunks Anonymous. When they get stiff they can call each other up and talk their heads off. This would be a heckuva lot cheaper than calling Buffalo.

If you can't turn up anyone, try waving last month's phone bill before his bloodshot eyes when he begins to go off the deep end. It might help -- depending on how smashed he is.

Dear Ann Landers: I had an appointment with my doctor today and something happened that upset me terribly.

When the nurse left the room I picked up the doctor's chart. I had read only a few sentences when the nurse rushed back into the room, snatched the chart from my hands and shouted, "You are NOT supposed to see this."

I said, "Why not? It's about ME, isn't it?" The nurse did not answer. She went to the doctor and told him that I had begun to read the chart and had gotten angry when she took it away.

The doctor sided with the nurse and I blew my top. I told him if I couldn't see the chart I didn't want to see HIM either. He said, "If that's the way you feel, good-bye."

Please tell me if this is a common practice or if my doctor is just plain mean.
---EAU CLAIRE, WIS.

Dear Eau Claire: I know of no physician who allows his patients to see the charts -- and for very good reason.

A chart contains the doctor's impressions and suspicions. A patient might interpret these notations as a final diagnosis and be unduly concerned.

If you described the nurse's behavior accurately she was unnecessarily rough with you. I think she owes you an apology -- and you owe the doctor one.

Confidential to MARRYING FOR FREEDOM: You may find yourself with LESS freedom than before, "Miss 19." True, your parents won't be able to bug you as in days of yore, but marriage carries with it some crushing responsibilities. What you have in mind could mean a more restrictive type of "imprisonment." Cool it, Sister.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry -- Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NAME GAME — Thanks to Mrs. John C. O'Neal, above, and her husband of New York City, the Agriculture Department's coquettish foreign pest symbol now has a name. The O'Neals came up with "Pestina" to win a naming contest sponsored by the Air Transport Assn. The hitchhiking cutie had been nameless since 1963 when the department began using her to remind travelers that souvenirs from overseas can harbor pests capable of millions of dollars of crop damage.

98,000 Veterans Eligible For Viet Nam Benefits

Washington D. C. -- Missouri has 98,000 veterans who are eligible for benefits from the new Viet Nam G.I. Bill of Rights which went into effect today, according to the Information department of the Veterans Administration.

The vill is patterned after the G.I. Bill of Rights passed near the close of World War II, and was extended by an amendment to include the Korean War Veterans. The Viet Nam amendment to the bill provides several of the same type of benefits to veterans, in the way of assistance in getting an education, and loans for certain type of purchases.

The G.I. Bill as applied to the veterans of the Korean war expired in January 1955. If a person has served for 18 days or longer in the armed forces of his country, and has received an honorable discharge, he is entitled to the benefits. Some of the period of service may be before the Jan. 1955 cutoff date, but some of it must be since that time. It is primarily for Viet Nam Veterans.

Types of Benefits

A veteran is entitled to get $100 per month for schooling if he has no dependents. If he has one, he'll get $125, and if two or more he will get $150 a month. He will get the payments for 36 months of schoolings, or for four school years. Generally he can shorten the period by summer attendance.

The veteran also may get a guaranteed loan up to $7,500 for the purchase of a home, or other property. It follows the G.I. Bill provisions.

If the veteran lives in an area in which funds are not available for loans he may get a $17,500 direct loan or up to 60 percent of the purchase price of the home, or other property, whichever is less.

Veterans also are entitled to other types of benefits such as employment assistance, preference for federal employment, medical and dental care, and burial benefits.

Kiwanis International Furthers Extension

Kiwanis International took another step in its program of international extension this spring as representatives from the twenty-four Kiwanis clubs in Western Europe met in Vienna, Austria, May 21-22 to plan and discuss the eventual federation of the service organization on the Continent.

News of the gathering was received here today by Norval Cannon, Secretary of the Kiwanis Club of Sikeston.

The two-day session, held at the Vienna Intercontinental Hotel, was under the direction of Dr. Werner Bartschi-Rochaix, Bern, Switzerland, President of the European Commission of Kiwanis Clubs.

The President of Kiwanis International, Edward C. Keefe, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, presided over the conference. He was joined by two Kiwanis International Trustees, Harold M. Heimbaugh, Los Angeles, California, and Jack Willis, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Kiwanis clubs sending representatives to Vienna included: Salzburg and Wien, Austria; Brussels, Brussels-Toison d'Or, Charleroi-Ellipse, and Liege, Belgium; Metz and Paris, France; Frankfurt/Main and Bonn, Germany; Amsterdam, Holland; Reykjavik-Katla and Reykjavik-Hekla, Iceland; Drammen, Kolbotn, and Oslo, Norway; and Basel, Bern, Geneva, Lugano, Luzern, Neuchatel, St. Gallen; Thun, and Zurich, Switzerland.

Twelve of these twenty-four European clubs were chartered by President Keefe and Trustees Heimbaugh and Willis prior to or following the conference.

Kiwanis is now established in eight Western European countries. The first club was chartered in Vienna in May of 1963.

Kiwanis International is relatively new outside the United States and Canada. Delegates to the organization's 46th annual convention in 1961 adopted a resolution favoring expansion into other countries. This policy was implemented in 1962 with the establishment of the Kiwanis Club of Tijuana, Baja California, Mexico.

Kiwanis today, one year after the celebration of its Golden Anniversary, has a membership of some 275,000 men in 5,400 clubs in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Western Europe, the Caribbean, and the Far East.

on tax anticipation loans and the rate to be paid the college on time deposits while serving as the depository for the institution.

The tax anticipation loans would provide money for operation of the college until the first tax revenues are received. Such loans are the routine way of financing newly organized colleges, Dr. Westover said. It has been a common practice in other areas of the state.

The eight banks which will be asked for bids are the institutions in Poplar Bluff and the banks at Fisk, Piedmont, Van Buren, Grandin and Doniphan.

A committee of the board was appointed to contact the Poplar Bluff Loan and Building Assn., regarding the use of the old High School Building, 507 Vine St., as a site for opening the college. Board President Bud Holloway named himself, John Garver and Ben Bidewell as members of the committee to inquire about the building, which is adjacent to the Holloway Building.

Bidewell, who was out of town and could not attend last night's meeting, was elected treasurer of the board.

The next board meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 23, at the Chamber of Commerce offices. The meetings are open to the public.

"Have you got us in sight?" Stafford asked as Gemini 9 drifted down on its 84-foot chute.

The aircraft carrier Wasp advised that it did and added: "The whole world has you in sight."

The sailors on the Wasp crowded the deck as the big carrier turned to approach the spacecraft in the water and haul it aboard. They were cheering the astronauts riding in the mild seas.

If we all could live our lives over, we'd probably be the same dumb clucks we are today.

McIntosh and Wilson Trial Begins Today

CAPE GIRARDEAU AP - A defense motion to quash extortion indictments against two southeast Missouri men was dismissed today as their trial began in U.S. District Court.

Joe Dale Wilson, 23, of Portageville and W. R. McIntosh, 45, of Sikeston are charged in federal warrants with extortion and use of interstate facilities with intent to commit a crime of violence.

They are accused of holding Henry Faye Tanner at the now defunct Wil-Mar Advertising Company office in Sikeston where shotgun blasts and blood were found the night of April 23, 1965, by Sikeston police.

A third man, the now deceased Walter Richardson, Jr., was also indicted in connection with the extortion.

The three were arrested the following Saturday night by Federal Bureau of Investigation authorities and were placed in the U.S. Jail at Jackson. They were released the following day on $100,000 bond.

Selection of the jury began after Judge Roy Harper overruled a defense contention that the government did not properly define Missouri statutes, consequently improper designation put the case in a different category.

Wilson and McIntosh, associated with Wil-Mar Advertising Co. in Sikeston, were indicted May 18, 1965, and pleaded innocent.

William Tanner is president of Pepper Sound Studios, Inc., in Memphis.

A Daily Standard reporter-photographer, Leo L. Schade, was subpeonaed Friday as a witness to identify pictures that he photographed the day after the alleged extortion.

Gemini Astronauts Have Safe Splashdown

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Cernan made the most accurate landing in the U. S. man-in-space program. They parked Gemini 9 less than two miles from the aiming point and only about three miles from the main recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Wasp, and in the view of millions of television watchers.

"On the money" splashdown came at 10 a.m. EDT after a flight of 3 days, 21 minutes, during which Gemini 9 circled the globe 45 times and traveled nearly 1.2 million miles.

While thousands of sailors, wearing their Sunday best, cheered, the Wasp maneuvered alongside and retrieved the astronauts and space craft from the sea 50 minutes after splashdown.

Stafford and Cernan acknowledged the cheers with waves and thumbs-up signals. Both appeared relaxed and in excellent physical condition.

Command pilot Stafford, whose cool, on-the-spot decisions played a key role in the mission, steered the space ship to a touchdown within sight of the carrier and on-deck television cameras, which relayed the dramatic picture via the Early Bird satellite to millions of U. S. homes.

On deck, the spacecraft's hatches were re-opened and the smiling astronauts stood up, waved at the sailors and the TV cameras and shook hands with Navy and space agency officials.

They then shook hands with one another and Stafford rubbed his three-day - old beard and laughed.

The 17-piece ship's band struck up "Anchors Aweigh" as the astronauts headed for a two-hour examination.

The Wasp also retrieved Stafford and Walter M. Schirra Jr. after the Gemini 6 flight in December.

Capt. Gordon E. Hartley, the Wasp's commanding officer, said he put the ship a little short of target just in case Stafford carried out his threat to fly "right down the smokestack."

Stafford, making his second flight into space in six months, was aided in the textbook landing by Cernan, who used the spacecraft computer to help calculate the maneuvers as Gemini 9 sped back through the atmosphere.

He had an assist from an easterly wind that helped blow the craft back toward the carrier.

A helicopter was overhead within seconds and Navy frogmen leaped into the water to attach a flotation collar to the bobbing craft.

The divers reported Stafford and Cernan gave the "thumbs up" signal through their spacecraft window as it bobbed in the four- to five-foot waves.

They appeared in excellent condition, the divers reported.

The astronauts elected to stay in the spacecraft until the Wasp came alongside.

The spacecraft hatch was opened nine minutes after touchdown and Stafford and Cernan stood up. Stafford shook hands with the swimmers.

It was a successful and dramatic end to a flight which had its ups and downs, with one problem after another plaguing the mission before and after the launching.

Duirng 72 hours and 21 minutes in orbit, Cernan and Stafford circled the globe 45 times and traveled nearly 1.2 million miles.

Their fiery return to earth started 160 miles above the Pacific Ocean near the international dateline when the craft's four retro-rockets fired with a jolt at 9:26 a.m. EDT.

The braking action slowed Gemini 9's 17,460-mile-and-hour speed by 300 miles and the craft, caught in the grip of earth's gravity, began the meteoric plunge back through the heat barrier of the earth's atmosphere.

Mission Control Center reported after the landing that the communications through the 34-minute re-entry period were better than on any of 12 previous U. S. man - in - space flights.

Only during a four-minute period when 3,000-degree heat shrouded the spacecraft in an ionization curtain was contact

Crop Decision Expected From Congress

By O. C. Miller
Ozarks News Bureau

WASHINGTON D. C. -- Congress is expected to decide next week on the question of planting a substitute crop on cotton lands which has been washed out by the heavy spring rains.

Briefly the situation is this: The House passed a bill providing that the farmers who did not get their cotton seed in the ground before the rains came could plant another crop on the land under the disaster provision. They could then get the payments just the same as the farmers who had planted the seed and had them washed out.

Rep. Paul Jones introduced a bill, and argued for the provision on the floor of the House. A bill with this provision was passed by the House.

In the Senate a fight on the bill broke out. Senator Symington urged that the farmers who did not get their seed in the ground be given the same rights as those who did, and got the seeds washed out.

He said 30 percent of the land was prepared for the planting but did not get the seeds in the ground. Under the law these could not take advantage of the disaster provision, and plant the cotton acreage in another crop such as soybeans. He also told the Senate that in 25 percent of the land which was planted, the seeds were washed out. These under the law could plant the substitute crop, and get the federal paments.

Senator Symington urged that the disaster plan also apply to the 30 percent that did not get the seeds in the ground. They should be able to plant the land in another crop, and also get the payments.

Senator John Williams of Delaware got an amendment to the Senate bill providing that no payments in excess of 10,000 could be made to a single person.

Rep. Paul Jones said he was badly disappointed that the Senate added the provision.

The conferees will meet soon to iron out the differences between the two bills.

McIntosh and Wilson Trial Begins Today

CAPE GIRARDEAU AP - A defense motion to quash extortion indictments against two southeast Missouri men was dismissed today as their trial began in U.S. District Court.

Joe Dale Wilson, 23, of Portageville and W. R. McIntosh, 45, of Sikeston are charged in federal warrants with extortion and use of interstate facilities with intent to commit a crime of violence.

They are accused of holding Henry Faye Tanner at the now defunct Wil-Mar Advertising Company office in Sikeston where shotgun blasts and blood were found the night of April 23, 1965, by Sikeston police.

A third man, the now deceased Walter Richardson, Jr., was also indicted in connection with the extortion.

The three were arrested the following Saturday night by Federal Bureau of Investigation authorities and were placed in the U.S. Jail at Jackson. They were released the following day on $100,000 bond.

Selection of the jury began after Judge Roy Harper overruled a defense contention that the government did not properly define Missouri statutes, consequently improper designation put the case in a different category.

Wilson and McIntosh, associated with Wil-Mar Advertising Co. in Sikeston, were indicted May 18, 1965, and pleaded innocent.

William Tanner is president of Pepper Sound Studios, Inc., in Memphis.

A Daily Standard reporter-photographer, Leo L. Schade, was subpeonaed Friday as a witness to identify pictures that he photographed the day after the alleged extortion.

Gemini Astronauts Have Safe Splashdown

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Cernan made the most accurate landing in the U. S. man-in-space program. They parked Gemini 9 less than two miles from the aiming point and only about three miles from the main recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Wasp, and in the view of millions of television watchers.

"On the money" splashdown came at 10 a.m. EDT after a flight of 3 days, 21 minutes, during which Gemini 9 circled the globe 45 times and traveled nearly 1.2 million miles.

While thousands of sailors, wearing their Sunday best, cheered, the Wasp maneuvered alongside and retrieved the astronauts and space craft from the sea 50 minutes after splashdown.

Stafford and Cernan acknowledged the cheers with waves and thumbs-up signals. Both appeared relaxed and in excellent physical condition.

Command pilot Stafford, whose cool, on-the-spot decisions played a key role in the mission, steered the space ship to a touchdown within sight of the carrier and on-deck television cameras, which relayed the dramatic picture via the Early Bird satellite to millions of U. S. homes.

On deck, the spacecraft's hatches were re-opened and the smiling astronauts stood up, waved at the sailors and the TV cameras and shook hands with Navy and space agency officials.

They then shook hands with one another and Stafford rubbed his three-day - old beard and laughed.

The 17-piece ship's band struck up "Anchors Aweigh" as the astronauts headed for a two-hour examination.

The Wasp also retrieved Stafford and Walter M. Schirra Jr. after the Gemini 6 flight in December.

Capt. Gordon E. Hartley, the Wasp's commanding officer, said he put the ship a little short of target just in case Stafford carried out his threat to fly "right down the smokestack."

Stafford, making his second flight into space in six months, was aided in the textbook landing by Cernan, who used the spacecraft computer to help calculate the maneuvers as Gemini 9 sped back through the atmosphere.

He had an assist from an easterly wind that helped blow the craft back toward the carrier.

A helicopter was overhead within seconds and Navy frogmen leaped into the water to attach a flotation collar to the bobbing craft.

The divers reported Stafford and Cernan gave the "thumbs up" signal through their spacecraft window as it bobbed in the four- to five-foot waves.

They appeared in excellent condition, the divers reported.

The astronauts elected to stay in the spacecraft until the Wasp came alongisde.

The spacecraft hatch was opened nine minutes after touchdown and Stafford and Cernan stood up. Stafford shook hands with the swimmers.

It was a successful and dramatic end to a flight which had its ups and downs, with one problem after another plaguing the mission before and after the launching.

Duirng 72 hours and 21 minutes in orbit, Cernan and Stafford circled the globe 45 times and traveled nearly 1.2 million miles.

Their fiery return to earth started 160 miles above the Pacific Ocean near the international dateline when the craft's four retro-rockets fired with a jolt at 9:26 a.m. EDT.

The braking action slowed Gemini 9's 17,460-mile-and-hour speed by 300 miles and the craft, caught in the grip of earth's gravity, began the meteoric plunge back through the heat barrier of the earth's atmosphere.

Mission Control Center reported after the landing that the communications through the 34-minute re-entry period were better than on any of 12 previous U. S. man - in - space flights.

Only during a four-minute period when 3,000-degree heat shrouded the spacecraft in an ionization curtain was contact

Crop Decision Expected From Congress

By O. C. Miller
Ozarks News Bureau

WASHINGTON D. C. -- Congress is expected to decide next week on the question of planting a substitute crop on cotton lands which has been washed out by the heavy spring rains.

Briefly the situation is this: The House passed a bill providing that the farmers who did not get their cotton seed in the ground before the rains came could plant another crop on the land under the disaster provision. They could then get the payments just the same as the farmers who had planted the seed and had them washed out.

Rep. Paul Jones introduced a bill, and argued for the provision on the floor of the House. A bill with this provision was passed by the House.

In the Senate a fight on the bill broke out. Senator Symington urged that the farmers who did not get their seed in the ground be given the same rights as those who did, and got the seeds washed out.

He said 30 percent of the land was prepared for the planting but did not get the seeds in the ground. Under the law these could not take advantage of the disaster provision, and plant the cotton acreage in another crop such as soybeans. He also told the Senate that in 25 percent of the land which was planted, the seeds were washed out. These under the law could plant the substitute crop, and get the federal paments.

Senator Symington urged that the disaster plan also apply to the 30 percent that did not get the seeds in the ground. They should be able to plant the land in another crop, and also get the payments.

Senator John Williams of Delaware got an amendment to the Senate bill providing that no payments in excess of 10,000 could be made to a single person.

Rep. Paul Jones said he was badly disappointed that the Senate added the provision.

The conferees will meet soon to iron out the differences between the two bills.

WOODLAND SERENITY

Where does one search for serenity in a world of tension and turmoil? Where can one experience an interlude of peace when man ruthlessly sets self-interest above the common good? There are always places and opportunities to step aside from the traffic rush of life if one will.

When the beauty of June is a benediction on the countryside and the green tide is full on the fields, uplands and hills, one of the sanctuaries is a woodland where a man can walk among friendly trees and absorb the serenity of nature's sanctuary.

The great boles of oaks and beeches, maples and hickories resemble the columns of a cathedral; the interlaced branches above are a roof that closes off the distractions of man-made society.

It is peaceful, quiet and brooding in the soft light. Here and there where shafts of golden light reach the leaf floor, the illumination reminds one of the light that shines through church windows.

In a woodland one can feel the distractions fade. The therapy of the outdoors heals scars that come from elbow-rubbing friction in the marketplace.

Woodland birds make music. One may see a clump of flowers in an open glade; perhaps a mother partridge leads her brood of beady-eyed chicks among the trees. The world today is much with us, and getting and spending we waste our power.

But if one will, when the frustrations multiply and weariness comes, he can walk woodland aisles and recharge the heart.

SPOTLIGHT ON SMOKING

If automobile manufacturers feel put upon by Congress and Ralph Nader, they could derive some comfort from the recent experience of the tobacco industry. The American Cancer Society and the President's Advisory Committee on Smoking and Health have both branded cigarette smoking a definite health hazard. Cigarette packages are now required by federal law to carry a warning message. And yet more Americans are smoking more cigarettes than ever.

Still another review of the effects of the tobacco habit is in the offing. A three-day conference, described as the First International Congress on Smoking and Health, will open in New York City on Sunday, June 5. President of the Congress is E. W. Alton Ochsner, M. C., past president of the American College of Surgeons and of the International Society of Surgery. Other participants will include Dr. Paul Dudley White, Linus Pauling, and former Rep. Walter H. Judd (R Minn.).

It is doubtful that the congress will produce any new and startling conclusions, or that smokers will swear off tobacco if it does. Cigarette sales slumped somewhat after earlier health warnings, but they soon rebounded. Prevention rather than cure of the smoking habit would seem to be the best approach to the problem. Katherine B. Oettinger, head of the federal Children's Bureau, recently reported that some 4,5000 youngsters between 12 and 17 years old begin smoking every day.

LAW ENFORCEMENT TODAY is being degraded, purposely in many instances, by the widespread and indiscriminate use of the term "police brutality."

This practice is called a guilt-by-language process by some individuals. They may be right. For example, the word "juvenile" has been associated with "delinquency" so often and so long that now, when used alone, it has a disagreeable connotation to much of the public.

"Police brutality" conjures up visions of hulking men in uniform clubbing and beating innocent people. Rarely, however, does the term fit the circumstances to which it is applied. It is used in wild accounts of enforcement officers' lifting limp demonstrators who block busy thoroughfares, in references to oral commands by policemen who disperse potential troublemakers, in depicting efforts by officers to halt violations of the law, and in describing any number of other sworn duties performed by policemen.

We know there is a calculated and deliberate attempt by some groups to inflame hositlity against law enforcement by charging "police brutality" without cause. To a large degree they have succeeded. The term is bandied about in all media of communication without serious consideration as to its true meaning or its harmful effect on a profession which is charged with enforcing the basic rules of civilized living.

I agree with a growing number of responsible news editors, public officials, and law-abiding citizens that it is high time to get this "pet slogan" into a better perspective. We do not deny there have been instances of misuse of force by enforcement officers, but such incidents are not as prevalent as the public has been led to believe. A general and accepted principle of the law has been that an officer may use such force as is necessary to make lawful arrests, protect his life, and perform other special duties. Frequently, however, the choice is not his to make; he HAS to use force or be maimed or killed and have the rights of all the people trampled by those who have no respect for law or due process. Even then, his best efforts often are not enough, as evidenced by the appalling number of officers assaulted and killed each year.

Policemen have the same basic rights as others. There is no reason why they should be singled out for ridicule by invalid blanket accusations. The public, the press, and law enforcement itself should launch a concerted drive to stop the semantic indictment of police. Allegations and incidents should be reported and described in realistic, impartial, and truthful terms. If an officer is assaulted while making an arrest and uses undue force to subdue the person, then call it "undue force." If an officer uses profane language to a citizen, then describe it as profane language. If an officer is thought to be biased or prejudiced in his treatment of groups or individuals, then the complaint should so state. But the constant cry of "police brutality" as a catch phrase, exploited and used as camouflage for illegal conduct, is dead wrong. It is a stigmatization of police by rote.

POWER AT THE TOP

The proposal that a portion of federal income tax revenues be returned to the states, so that they can do needed things for themselves instead of having to look to Washington for help, isn't likely to get anywhere in the foreseeable future. It is a highly complex and controversial matter.

But the mere fact that so revolutionary an idea is urged by responsible people is in itself a biting commentary on what has happened to the American system of government.

BOSTON AP -- Henry Hite, who travels from city to city, always calls for his hotel reservations far in advance and asks for twin beds "end to end."

"This never fails to startle reservation clerks," Hite said on a recent Boston visit. "Eventually I explained I stand 8 feet 2 in bare feet.

"In a normal bed I'd be two feet out of it. That's a pun, son."

Hite says that in most hotels workers bolt together twin beds lengthwise and seamstresses sew sheets and blankets together, again end to end.

Hite travels around the country for a meat - packing firm Wilson, making personal appearances in supermarkets. He gets home to Chicago as often as he can to spend a little time with his wife and visit his clothier and shoemaker.

His wife, the former Maria Bertoli, a onetime Chicago dancer, stands 5 feet 3. "This is no gag," says Hite. "We've been happily married for 30 years."

Hite's clothier uses 8½ yards of material for a single suit "and you just don't go into a bootery and ask for a size 22

Another problem is movies, which Hiz enjoys. One time, he says, "a woman in the seat behind me tapped me on the shoulder and asked me to please sit down. I'd been sitting there for a half-hour."

Hite was born Henry Mullins in Atlanta, Ga., 51 years ago. He has seven sisters and five brothers, none of whom is over 5 feet 11. His mother was 5 feet 4 and his father 5 feet 8.

Hite says that by the age of 12 he already was 7 feet 2 "but I stopped growing at the age of 16. For a while I was growing an inch a week. I'd go to bed in long underwear and get up in the morning in shorts."

He adds: "At the age of 11, my family took me to a specialist for a pituitary operation, but I wouldn't go through with it because I was told the hair on one side of my head wouldn't grow back in. And now look, I'm bald anyway."

Hite played high school basketball and football in Atlanta. His teams never lost a game.

"In basketball," he says, "I used to shoot down into the basket and in football I made a first down every time I tripped."

The Hard Way

The founding fathers established a central government of severely limited powers. It was to do what only a central government could adequately do such as to provide for the national defense. The states and local governments were strong and independent entities, entrusted to meet the varying wants, needs and problems of their populations.

The formal structure of state and local government remains. But the foundation has been largely whittled away by legislative acts, by administrative decisions, and by judicial interpretations. In more and more areas of our national life, Washington calls the tune, and all must dance to it.

This is costly in dollars -- the vast administrative bureaucracy must be paid. It is costly in a more important coin -- that of diminished or destroyed state and local rights, obligations, responsibilities, and power of decision. Unless a halt is called, the end result can only be a federal welfare state in which the individual is only a number and all power is concentrated at the top.

SUPPOSE!

Suppose every farmer and rancher was required by law to join and pay dues to a farm and ranch organization. Or suppose every parent of school children was required to be a dues paying member of the PTA. Or suppose every fisherman and hunter was legally compelled to join a game protective association.

These ridiculous ideas, as the Arizona Farm Bureau Federation has pointed out, contain the same logic as that used by labor groups and others who are now seeking repeal of that section of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits the states, if they so choose, to enact Right-to-Work laws.

Twenty of the states have done that. They thus have said, in effect, that it is up to each individual worker to decide whether he wants to join a union or not. He cannot be compelled to join -- on pain of unemployment -- and his employer cannot prevent him from joining. In other words, it is up to the union to demonstrate that its services are worth their price.

If the right to join or not to join any organization is not a fundamental right, what is?

STIFLING COMPETITION

A recent report of the Interstate Commerce Commission provides some interesting and highly significant information concerning the extent of federal regulation of the various modes of transportation.

The railroads and the airlines, it shows, are 100 per cent regulated. But only 33.8 per cent of the motor carriers are regulated, along with a mere 11.1 per cent of the water carriers, including coastal, intercoastal, inland waterway and Great Lakes traffic.

This points up the problem faced by the railroads -- the most efficient movers of freight that man has yet devised -- in competing for traffic with other kinds of transportation. And the solution to that problem does not lie in extending and stiffening regulations. It lies, rather, in a relaxation of regulatory laws and policies, many of them ancient and obsolete, which will permit all the carriers to make the most of their own particular inherent advantages in seeking business.

This is the essential point made in high level study after high level study, in presidential messages to Congress, and in the editorial stand of just about every newspaper which has commented on the matter. Existing regulations simply stifle the forces of competition, to the disadvantage of every shipper and consumer in this land. And inaction by Congress seems to be the road block to progress.

GOOD CAUSE TO SWEAR BY

One project that is bound to draw at least cursory attention is Conrad Cormier's profanity pot.

Each year barber Cormier installs the pot, or bowl, in his shop in Hartford, Conn., and turns cusswords into charity.

The format is simple. Anyone who cuts loose with a naughty word in the shop during Lent has to put a dime in the pot.

This year the Crippled Children's Hospital in Hartford received $101 in swearword revenue -- a record high. Last year the hospital got $79.95.

Most of the 1966 increase, Cormier explains, came from the Cassius Clay fight.

"It brought in $15 all by itself," he reports contentedly.

The way things are going at home and around the world, there is little reason to believe the barbershop discussion group will contribute a lesser amount to the hospital next year.

The cussword fund may, in fact, reach another all-time high -- especially if taxes are raised and Clay keeps talking.

So congratulations to you, barber Cormier, for helping a worthy cause and at the same time perhaps slowing down profanity a bit.

VACATIONERS FOR FREEDOM

The youth of America will be on the move this summer. Increasingly, for young Americans summer vacation means travelling across America to areas of this magnificent country so far unfamiliar to them. This is great for them and for us, for to know their country better is to appreciate it more.

The young vacationers can enhance their pleasure and serve the cause of liberty by becoming Vacationers for Freedom. This is not a grinding chore; it is a stimulating experience. It is an opportunity for youth to show the way to their lagging elders.

Vacationers for Freedom can sing and they will be ~~heard~~, they can speak and their words will be heeded. It is vital that our nation's youth get involved, deeply and personally involved, in the effort to drive home the freedom message. Freedom's enemies work unceasingly at their grim assignment of destruction; Freedom's friends must be at least as diligent.

Youth can get more excited about the positive than the negative; more importantly, they can excite their elders to positive action. Their exuberance, enthusiasm and daring have been misused by the destroyers of freedom too long. These qualities in its youth are among America's greatest natural resources; they must be used for America's future.

Young Americans travelling the length and breadth of their land, singing its praises, singing its songs, speaking its marvelous message of liberty and justice for all can stop the enemy cold.

Young Vacationers for Freedom can strike a mighty blow for freedom, for America and American ideals and make the summer of 1966 a very memorable one. H.L.H

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The surveyor project to explore the moon has been beset by all sorts of snafus. But, with last week's soft landing, at long last it seems to be in high gear.

Previously the space agency's governing board had described the Ranger, which preceded the Surveyor as a "shoot and hope" program, while congress had criticized the project in blistering terms.

However, in early May, American scientists visiting the International Atomic Center in Vienna conferred with Russian scientists, who gave them a report on Luna IX, the Russian capsule which made a soft landing on the moon Feb. 3.

There is only one copy of this report in existence in the United States, and it shows pictures of the Russian landing, accompanied by data regarding the pictures.

Careful study of the Russian report has led American space scientists to the following conclusions:

1. Luna IX was less sophisticated than we originally believed. It took pictures of the moon's surface by ejecting cameras in a cocoon - like box away from the side of the capsule.

2. The capsule itself was not as highly developed as ours. It was made of pliable material which could not carry a man.

Evaluating these studies, space experts have concluded that the United States is not as far behind Russia as previously believed; on the contrary, is probably ahead.

As a result, some scientists believe it may be possible to place American astronauts on the moon's surface prior to 1970, the original goal. They are now aiming at 1968.

MORE DODDISM

The California race for lieutenant governor is attracting attention chiefly because ex-Ambassador Lloyd Hand, LBJ's Chief of Protocol, has gone west to run for the no. 2 spot.

However, the real race is between the President Lieutenant Governor Glenn Anderson, a nice guy with some cases of Doddism in his career, and Tom Braden, a hard - hitting crusader for better education.

Lt. Gov. Anderson when mayor of Hawthorne paid giveaway prices for two city lots acquired by the city for failure to pay taxes. One, purchased on July 22, 1940, for only $10, was "city lot 11, 2nd addition Hawthorne." Ten years later Anderson used the land as security to borrow $8,000, so obviously the land must have been worth more than $10 when he bought it. Whether the mayor of a city should buy land from the city is a matter of some doubt.

Braden, a member of the California board of education and president of the board of trustees of California state college, has been more active in boosting schools than perhaps anyone in the state. He points out that the size of California classes has increased as a result of lessening money for schools, and that the way to improve education is not to talk about sex deviates in the colleges, as right-wing leaders are doing but to get better teachers, build more schoolhouses and vote more money.

Ambassador Hand will be snowed under on election day. The real race will be between Braden and Anderson.

DICK GREGORY CAMPAIGNS

Dick Gregory, the Negro comedian, sent word to Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California offering to campaign for Brown next fall for one week. Gregory said he would urge all California Negroes to vote for Brown's reelection.

This week, however, Gregory is taking the opposite line by campaigning for a Negro candidate against Brown, Dr. Carleton Goodlet of San Francisco, a Democrat who is running in the primary.

Gregory explained that he wanted to encourage the Negro candidate, even though Goodlet had no chance to win, and even America's Conscience Fund, has done a great deal to help rebuild churches and homes destroyed by bombs of bigotry

In California, Brown has such a commanding lead in the Democratic primary that the opposition of Dr. Goodlet will make no difference in the outcome.

However, in the recent Ohio primary, a Negro candidate, Granville Bradley, managed to take 11,000 votes away from Michael Sweeney, the pro-civil rights candidate who came within 500 votes of defeating Rep. Mike Feighan, who voted against civil rights and called Mrs. Roosevelt a "Nigger lover."

In this case, had the Negroes supported a white civil rights candidate they could have defeated an anti-Negro congressman.

MOON MERRY-GO-ROUND

The space agency has decided to build three surveyors in addition to the seven already on hand. All will do the same thing, but each a little more, when launched in preparation for placing an astronaut on the moon. . . Russian Lunar photos indicated a lava-like crust on the moon. It was also concluded that some of the moon's surface is being blown away into space by solor winds. This is deduced from the fact that rocks stick up abruptly as if the wind had blown the surface away from the sides of the rocks . . . Actually, speculation at this stage regarding what's on the moon is like the blind men who examined the elephant. One who felt its tail said, "it's a rope." One who felt its leg said, "it's a tree." And one who felt its side said, "it's a wall." No one will really know exactly what's on the moon until someone gets there.

Inside Labor

Bob Kennedy Tests New Image -- Joins With Militants Of Labor in Assault on Big City Machines

CHICAGO -- Look not to Africa for the big game Bob Kennedy hunts.

What he seeks is nowhere on the black continent.

It is rather in the asphalt jungles of the big cities.

He and those who have talked to him in rare private moments are aware that no New Yorker (and he is that now) ever has become president without fighting Tammany Hall at home and the big city machines across the land.

It is on the political logistics chart. The people expect it.

His chance in New York was not ready-made, but was made ready by liberal-labor leader Alex Rose, the two-hatted hatters' union chief. Together they are battling Tammany's choice for a surrogate benchship which handles hundreds of millions of dollars annually in probated wills.

That will be a clangorous, headlined battle. Basically "Bob" will not be hurt by defeat.

When in a recent tete-a-tete Mr. Kennedy asked Alex, ambulatory essence of laborite politics: "What if we lose?" union president Rose retorted.

"Win or lose, you can't lose if you fight the machine. The people will say you're doing the right thing."

Apparently this has impressed the Kennedy camp. It is gunning for the machine, too, here in the city of the big wind. It is challenging Mayor Richard Daley's absolute power. And again the Kennedy people are in coalition with liberal - labor forces.

The site of battle is the grim South Side Second Congressional District, stretching across part or all of the Fourth to the Tenth Wards (excluding Ward Six).

There, young Abner J. Mikva, former law partner of former labor lawyer Arthur J. Goldberg, is challenging the grand old man of Chicago politics, Congressman Barrett O'Hara.

The challenger is 40 years old. The incumbent, now 84, hit the beaches in Cuba three days after Theodore Roosevelt and the Rough Riders.

Rep. O'Hara, an old newsman and labor radio broadcaster, even veteran movie executive of D. W. Griffith days, is the oldest man in the House. For decades he has been close to the AFL leaders and a good friend of Mayor Daley.

As far as labor recollects, O'Hara has voted right all the way down the line. So he has the full endorsement of the Committee on Political Education (COPE).

But now comes young Mikva to fight him in the June 14 primaries for the Democratic nomination.

And with Mr. Mikva came a split in labor's ranks.

A bloc of unionists, led by friends of Walter Reuther and Bob Kennedy, has broken with COPE, though it is the official political mechansim of the American labor movement.

Backing the contender is AFL-CIO Vice President Ralph Helstein, president of the packinghouse workers, who was put on labor's high council only after Mr. Reuther fought for him.

Mr. Mikva is an intellectual with quite a coterie of young lawyers and champions amongst the Washington's intelligentsia. They have been breaking him into capital society through the cocktail route.

Mr. Mikva, an intense fellow, is "Kennedy" all the way, except in hair-do. The Chicagoan has what the youngsters call a modified "butch" haircut.

He's bright. He works hard. So do his militant assistants and supporters, some of whom are transplanted New Yorkers.

To the sophisticated observer here, the national significance is in the Mikva movement's fight against the Daley machine -- for to battle Rep. O'Hara is to fight Daley and Lyndon Johnson, too. The President is fond of O'Hara and appointed him a delegate to the 20th session of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

Thus with characteristic Kennedy daring, the Senator from New York has taken on many veteran machines.

Not only is he bucking the powerful Tammany machine in New York and the traditionally unbeatable Daley juggernaut here, but Robert Kennedy also is tackling the old-line labor leaders in both cities.

They are lining up behind the official Democrat candidate in both megalopsolises. They are putting out the money and manpower. They may even beat Bob Kennedy and his men in both sectors.

But the Senator will have made his point. He will have plunged into gut politics in the open, alongside the militant liberals of the labor movement -- Alex Rose, Walter Reuther, Ralph Helstein and the official reform blocs of the streets of both cities where the intellectuals gather.

Thus we have the making of the newest of the new Bob Kennedy.

WOODLAND SERENITY

Where does one search for serenity in a world of tension and turmoil? Where can one experience an interlude of peace when man ruthlessly sets self-interest above the common good? There are always places and opportunities to step aside from the traffic rush of life if one will.

When the beauty of June is a benediction on the countryside and the green tide is full on the fields, uplands and hills, one of the sanctuaries is a woodland where a man can walk among friendly trees and absorb the serenity of nature's sanctuary.

The great boles of oaks and beeches, maples and hickories resemble the columns of a cathedral; the interlaced branches above are a roof that closes off the distractions of man-made society.

It is peaceful, quiet and brooding in the soft light. Here and there where shafts of golden light reach the leaf floor, the illumination reminds one of the light that shines through church windows.

In a woodland one can feel the distractions fade. The therapy of the outdoors heals scars that come from elbow-rubbing friction in the marketplace.

Woodland birds make music. One may see a clump of flowers in an open glade; perhaps a mother partridge leads her brood of beady-eyed chicks among the trees. The world today is much with us, and getting and spending we waste our power.

But if one will, when the frustrations multiply and weariness comes, he can walk woodland aisles and recharge the heart.

SPOTLIGHT ON SMOKING

If automobile manufacturers feel put upon by Congress and Ralph Nader, they could derive some comfort from the recent experience of the tobacco industry. The American Cancer Society and the President's Advisory Committee on Smoking and Health have both branded cigarette smoking a definite health hazard. Cigarette packages are now required by federal law to carry a warning message. And yet more Americans are smoking more cigarettes than ever.

Still another review of the effects of the tobacco habit is in the offing. A three-day conference, described as the First International Congress on Smoking and Health, will open in New York City on Sunday, June 5. President of the Congress is E. W. Alton Ochsner, M. C., past president of the American College of Surgeons and of the International Society of Surgery. Other participants will include Dr. Paul Dudley White, Linus Pauling, and former Rep. Walter H. Judd (R Minn.).

It is doubtful that the congress will produce any new and startling conclusions, or that smokers will swear off tobacco if it does. Cigarette sales slumped somewhat after earlier health warnings, but they soon rebounded. Prevention rather than cure of the smoking habit would seem to be the best approach to the problem. Katherine B. Oettinger, head of the federal Children's Bureau, recently reported that some 4,5000 youngsters between 12 and 17 years old begin smoking every day.

LAW ENFORCEMENT TODAY is being degraded, purposely in many instances, by the widespread and indiscriminate use of the term "police brutality."

This practice is called a guilt-by-language process by some individuals. They may be right. For example, the word "juvenile" has been associated with "delinquency" so often and so long that now, when used alone, it has a disagreeable connotation to much of the public.

"Police brutality" conjures up visions of hulking men in uniform clubbing and beating innocent people. Rarely, however, does the term fit the circumstances to which it is applied. It is used in wild accounts of enforcement officers' lifting limp demonstrators who block busy thoroughfares, in references to oral commands by policemen who disperse potential troublemakers, in depicting efforts by officers to halt violations of the law, and in describing any number of other sworn duties performed by policemen.

We know there is a calculated and deliberate attempt by some groups to inflame hositlity against law enforcement by charging "police brutality" without cause. To a large degree they have succeeded. The term is bandied about in all media of communication without serious consideration as to its true meaning or its harmful effect on a profession which is charged with enforcing the basic rules of civilized living.

I agree with a growing number of responsible news editors, public officials, and law-abiding citizens that it is high time to get this "pet slogan" into a better perspective. We do not deny there have been instances of misuse of force by enforcement officers, but such incidents are not as prevalent as the public has been led to believe. A general and accepted principle of the law has been that an officer may use such force as is necessary to make lawful arrests, protect his life, and perform other special duties. Frequently, however, the choice is not his to make; he HAS to use force or be maimed or killed and have the rights of all the people trampled by those who have no respect for law or due process. Even then, his best efforts often are not enough, as evidenced by the appalling number of officers assaulted and killed each year.

Policemen have the same basic rights as others. There is no reason why they should be singled out for ridicule by invalid blanket accusations. The public, the press, and law enforcement itself should launch a concerted drive to stop the semantic indictment of police. Allegations and incidents should be reported and described in realistic, impartial, and truthful terms. If an officer is assaulted while making an arrest and uses undue force to subdue the person, then call it "undue force." If an officer uses profane language to a citizen, then describe it as profane language. If an officer is thought to be biased or prejudiced in his treatment of groups or individuals, then the complaint should so state. But the constant cry of "police brutality" as a catch phrase, exploited and used as camouflage for illegal conduct, is dead wrong. It is a stigmatization of police by rote.

We must mobilize the spiritual forces of mankind. These include not only the far reaching influence of the Pope but the cooperation of the leaders of all religions in Asia as well as on other continents, so that the points of agreement and disagreement may be candidly discussed with each other. Both sides must be persuaded that more can be accomplished by good faith and clearly expressed restraints than by temporary agreements, ambiguous declarations or secret programs designed to infiltrate and conquer other peoples."

The Federal Meat Inspection Act marks its 60th anniversary during 1966. Administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service, it requires that all fresh and processed meat food products moving interstate must be federally inspected for cleanliness and wholesomeness, and that these products be accurately and informatively labeled.

POWER AT THE TOP

The proposal that a portion of federal income tax revenues be returned to the states, so that they can do needed things for themselves instead of having to look to Washington for help, isn't likely to get anywhere in the foreseeable future. It is a highly complex and controversial matter.

But the mere fact that so revolutionary an idea is urged by responsible people is in itself a biting commentary on what has happened to the American system of government.

BOSTON AP -- Henry Hite, who travels from city to city, always calls for his hotel reservations far in advance and asks for twin beds "end to end."

"This never fails to startle reservation clerks," Hite said on a recent Boston visit. "Eventually I explained I stand 8 feet 2 in bare feet.

"In a normal bed I'd be two feet out of it. That's a pun, son."

Hite says that in most hotels workers bolt together twin beds lengthwise and seamstresses sew sheets and blankets together, again end to end.

Hite travels around the country for a meat - packing firm Wilson, making personal appearances in supermarkets. He gets home to Chicago as often as he can to spend a little time with his wife and visit his clothier and shoemaker.

His wife, the former Maria Bertoli, a onetime Chicago dancer, stands 5 feet 3. "This is no gag," says Hite. "We've been happily married for 30 years."

Hite's clothier uses 8½ yards of material for a single suit "and you just don't go into a bootery and ask for a size 22

Another problem is movies, which Hiz enjoys. One time, he says, "a woman in the seat behind me tapped me on the shoulder and asked me to please sit down. I'd been sitting there for a half-hour."

Hite was born Henry Mullins in Atlanta, Ga., 51 years ago. He has seven sisters and five brothers, none of whom is over 5 feet 11. His mother was 5 feet 4 and his father 5 feet 8.

Hite says that by the age of 12 he already was 7 feet 2 "but I stopped growing at the age of 16. For a while I was growing an inch a week. I'd go to bed in long underwear and get up in the morning in shorts."

He adds: "At the age of 11, my family took me to a specialist for a pituitary operation, but I wouldn't go through with it because I was told the hair on one side of my head wouldn't grow back in. And now look, I'm bald anyway."

Hite played high school basketball and football in Atlanta. His teams never lost a game.

"In basketball," he says, "I used to shoot down into the basket and in football I made a first down every time I tripped."

The Hard Way

The founding fathers established a central government of severely limited powers. It was to do what only a central government could adequately do such as to provide for the national defense. The states and local governments were strong and independent entities, entrusted to meet the varying wants, needs and problems of their populations.

The formal structure of state and local government remains. But the foundation has been largely whittled away by legislative acts, by administrative decisions, and by judicial interpretations. In more and more areas of our national life, Washington calls the tune, and all must dance to it.

This is costly in dollars -- the vast administrative bureaucracy must be paid. It is costly in a more important coin -- that of diminished or destroyed state and local rights, obligations, responsibilities, and power of decision. Unless a halt is called, the end result can only be a federal welfare state in which the individual is only a number and all power is concentrated at the top.

SUPPOSE!

Suppose every farmer and rancher was required by law to join and pay dues to a farm and ranch organization. Or suppose every parent of school children was required to be a dues paying member of the PTA. Or suppose every fisherman and hunter was legally compelled to join a game protective association.

These ridiculous ideas, as the Arizona Farm Bureau Federation has pointed out, contain the same logic as that used by labor groups and others who are now seeking repeal of that section of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits the states, if they so choose, to enact Right-to-Work laws.

Twenty of the states have done that. They thus have said, in effect, that it is up to each individual worker to decide whether he wants to join a union or not. He cannot be compelled to join -- on pain of unemployment -- and his employer cannot prevent him from joining. In other words, it is up to the union to demonstrate that its services are worth their price.

If the right to join or not to join any organization is not a fundamental right, what is?

STIFLING COMPETITION

A recent report of the Interstate Commerce Commission provides some interesting and highly significant information concerning the extent of federal regulation of the various modes of transportation.

The railroads and the airlines, it shows, are 100 per cent regulated. But only 33.8 per cent of the motor carriers are regulated, along with a mere 11.1 per cent of the water carriers, including coastal, intercoastal, inland waterway and Great Lakes traffic.

This points up the problem faced by the railroads -- the most efficient movers of freight that man has yet devised -- in competing for traffic with other kinds of transportation. And the solution to that problem does not lie in extending and stiffening regulations. It lies, rather, in a relaxation of regulatory laws and policies, many of them ancient and obsolete, which will permit all the carriers to make the most of their own particular inherent advantages in seeking business.

This is the essential point made in high level study after high level study, in presidential messages to Congress, and in the editorial stand of just about every newspaper which has commented on the matter. Existing regulations simply stifle the forces of competition, to the disadvantage of every shipper and consumer in this land. And inaction by Congress seems to be the road block to progress.

GOOD CAUSE TO SWEAR BY

One project that is bound to draw at least cursory attention is Conrad Cormier's profanity pot.

Each year barber Cormier installs the pot, or bowl, in his shop in Hartford, Conn., and turns cusswords into charity.

The format is simple. Anyone who cuts loose with a naughty word in the shop during Lent has to put a dime in the pot.

This year the Crippled Children's Hospital in Hartford received $101 in swearword revenue -- a record high. Last year the hospital got $79.95.

Most of the 1966 increase, Cormier explains, came from the Cassius Clay fight.

"It brought in $15 all by itself," he reports contentedly.

The way things are going at home and around the world, there is little reason to believe the barbershop discussion group will contribute a lesser amount to the hospital next year.

The cussword fund may, in fact, reach another all-time high -- especially if taxes are raised and Clay keeps talking.

So congratulations to you, barber Cormier, for helping a worthy cause and at the same time perhaps slowing down profanity a bit.

VACATIONERS FOR FREEDOM

The youth of America will be on the move this summer. Increasingly, for young Americans summer vacation means travelling across America to areas of this magnificent country so far unfamiliar to them. This is great for them and for us, for to know their country better is to appreciate it more.

The young vacationers can enhance their pleasure and serve the cause of liberty by becoming Vacationers for Freedom. This is not a grinding chore; it is a stimulating experience. It is an opportunity for youth to show the way to their lagging elders.

Vacationers for Freedom can sing and they will be heard; they can speak and their words will be heeded. It is vital that our nation's youth get involved, deeply and personally involved, in the effort to drive home the freedom message. Freedom's enemies work unceasingly at their grim assignment of destruction; Freedom's friends must be at least as diligent.

Youth can get more excited about the positive than the negative; more importantly, they can excite their elders to positive action. Their exuberance, enthusiasm and daring have been misused by the destroyers of freedom too long. These qualities in its youth are among America's greatest natural resources; they must be used for America's future.

Young Americans travelling the length and breadth of their land, singing its praises, singing its songs, speaking its marvelous message of liberty and justice for all can stop the enemy cold.

Young Vacationers for Freedom can strike a mighty blow for freedom, for America and American ideals and make the summer of 1966 a very memorable one. H.L.H

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The surveyor project to explore the moon has been beset by all sorts of snafus. But, with last week's soft landing, at long last it seems to be in high gear.

Previously the space agency's governing board had described the Ranger, which preceded the Surveyor as a "shoot and hope" program, while congress had criticized the project in blistering terms.

However, in early May, American scientists visiting the International Atomic Center in Vienna conferred with Russian scientists, who gave them a report on Luna IX, the Russian capsule which made a soft landing on the moon Feb. 3.

There is only one copy of this report in existence in the United States, and it shows pictures of the Russian landing, accompanied by data regarding the pictures.

Careful study of the Russian report has led American space scientists to the following conclusions:

1. Luna IX was less sophisticated than we originally believed. It took pictures of the moon's surface by ejecting cameras in a cocoon - like box away from the side of the capsule.

2. The capsule itself was not as highly developed as ours. It was made of pliable material which could not carry a man.

Evaluating these studies, space experts have concluded that the United States is not as far behind Russia as previously believed; on the contrary, is probably ahead.

As a result, some scientists believe it may be possible to place American astronauts on the moon's surface prior to 1970, the original goal. They are now aiming at 1968.

MORE DODDISM

The California race for lieutenant governor is attracting attention chiefly because ex-Ambassador Lloyd Hand, LBJ's Chief of Protocol, has gone west to run for the no. 2 spot.

However, the real race is between the President Lieutenant Governor Glenn Anderson, a nice guy with some cases of Doddism in his career, and Tom Braden, a hard - hitting crusader for better education.

Lt. Gov. Anderson when mayor of Hawthorne paid giveaway prices for two city lots acquired by the city for failure to pay taxes. One, purchased on July 22, 1940, for only $10, was "city lot 11, 2nd addition Hawthorne." Ten years later Anderson used the land as security to borrow $8,000, so obviously the land must have been worth more than $10 when he bought it. Whether the mayor of a city should buy land from the city is a matter of some doubt.

Braden, a member of the California board of education and president of the board of trustees of California state college, has been more active in boosting schools than perhaps anyone in the state. He points out that the size of California classes has increased as a result of lessening money for schools, and that the way to improve education is not to talk about sex deviates in the colleges, as right-wing leaders are doing but to get better teachers, build more schoolhouses and vote more money.

Ambassador Hand will be snowed under on election day. The real race will be between Braden and Anderson.

DICK GREGORY CAMPAIGNS

Dick Gregory, the Negro comedian, sent word to Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California offering to campaign for Brown next fall for one week. Gregory said he would urge all California Negroes to vote for Brown's reelection.

This week, however, Gregory is taking the opposite line by campaigning for a Negro candidate against Brown, Dr. Carleton Goodlet of San Francisco, a Democrat who is running in the primary.

Gregory explained that he wanted to encourage the Negro candidate, even though Goodlet had no chance to win, and even America's Conscience Fund, has done a great deal to help rebuild churches and homes destroyed by bombs of bigotry.

In California, Brown has such a commanding lead in the Democratic primary that the opposition of Dr. Goodlet will make no difference in the outcome.

However, in the recent Ohio primary, a Negro candidate, Granville Bradley, managed to take 11,000 votes away from Michael Sweeney, the pro-civil rights candidate who came within 500 votes of defeating Rep. Mike Feighan, who voted against civil rights and called Mrs. Roosevelt a "Nigger lover."

In this case, had the Negroes supported a white civil rights candidate they could have defeated an anti-Negro congressman.

MOON MERRY-GO-ROUND

The space agency has decided to build three surveyors in addition to the seven already on hand. All will do the same thing, but each a little more, when launched in preparation for placing an astronaut on the moon. . . Russian Lunar photos indicated a lava-like crust on the moon. It was also concluded that some of the moon's surface is being blown away into space by solor winds. This is deduced from the fact that rocks stick up abruptly as if the wind had blown the surface away from the sides of the rocks . . . Actually, speculation at this stage regarding what's on the moon is like the blind men who examined the elephant. One who felt its tail said, "it's a rope." One who felt its leg said, "it's a tree." And one who felt its side said, "it's a wall." No one will really know exactly what's on the moon until someone gets there.

What he seeks is nowhere on the black continent.

It is rather in the asphalt jungles of the big cities.

He and those who have talked to him in rare private moments are aware that no New Yorker (and he is that now) ever has become president without fighting Tammany Hall at home and the big city machines across the land.

It is on the political logistics chart. The people expect it.

His chance in New York was not ready-made, but was made ready by liberal-labor leader Alex Rose, the two-hatted hatters' union chief. Together they are battling Tammany's choice for a surrogate benchship which handles hundreds of millions of dollars annually in probated wills.

That will be a clangorous, headlined battle. Basically "Bob" will not be hurt by defeat.

When in a recent tete-a-tete Mr. Kennedy asked Alex, ambulatory essence of laborite politics: "What if we lose?" union president Rose retorted.

"Win or lose, you can't lose if you fight the machine. The people will say you're doing the right thing."

Apparently this has impressed the Kennedy camp. It is gunning for the machine, too, here in the city of the big wind. It is challenging Mayor Richard Daley's absolute power. And again the Kennedy people are in coalition with liberal - labor forces.

The site of battle is the grim South Side Second Congressional District, stretching across part or all of the Fourth to the Tenth Wards (excluding Ward Six).

There, young Abner J. Mikva, former law partner of former labor lawyer Arthur J. Goldberg, is challenging the grand old man of Chicago politics, Congressman Barrett O'Hara.

The challenger is 40 years old. The incumbent, now 84, hit the beaches in Cuba three days after Theodore Roosevelt and the Rough Riders.

Rep. O'Hara, an old newsman and labor radio broadcaster, even veteran movie executive of D. W. Griffith days, is the oldest man in the House. For decades he has been close to the AFL leaders and a good friend of Mayor Daley.

As far as labor recollects, O'Hara has voted right all the way down the line. So he has the full endorsement of the Committee on Political Education (COPE).

But now comes young Mikva to fight him in the June 14 primaries for the Democratic nomination.

And with Mr. Mikva came a split in labor's ranks.

A bloc of unionists, led by friends of Walter Reuther and Bob Kennedy, has broken with COPE, though it is the official political mechansim of the American labor movement.

Backing the contender is AFL-CIO Vice President Ralph Helstein, president of the packinghouse workers, who was put on labor's high council only after Mr. Reuther fought for him.

Mr. Mikva is an intellectual with quite a coterie of young lawyers and champions amongst the Washington's intelligentsia. They have been breaking him into capital society through the cocktail route.

Mr. Mikva, an intense fellow, is "Kennedy" all the way, except in hair-do. The Chicagoan has what the youngsters call a modified "butch" haircut.

He's bright. He works hard. So do his militant assistants and supporters, some of whom are transplanted New Yorkers.

To the sophisticated observer here, the national significance is in the Mikva movement's fight against the Daley machine -- for to battle Rep. O'Hara is to fight Daley and Lyndon Johnson, too. The President is fond of O'Hara and appointed him a delegate to the 20th session of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

Thus with characteristic Kennedy daring, the Senator from New York has taken on many veteran machines.

Not only is he bucking the powerful Tammany machine in New York and the traditionally unbeatable Daley juggernaut here, but Robert Kennedy also is tackling the old-line labor leaders in both cities.

They are lining up behind the official Democrat candidate in both megalopsolises. They are putting out the money and manpower. They may even beat Bob Kennedy and his men in both sectors.

But the Senator will have made his point. He will have plunged into gut politics in the open, alongside the militant liberals of the labor movement -- Alex Rose, Walter Reuther, Ralph Helstein and the official reform blocs of the streets of both cities where the intellectuals gather.

Thus we have the making of the newest of the new Bob Kennedy.

Yancey Captures Memphis Open

By BOB GILBERT

Both were there Sunday when he needed them for his record-setting journey to a 15-under-par 265, lowest score on the 1966 PGA tour, and $20,000 in first place prize money.

Roy Stone, a touring caddy, telephoned Yancey at the motel and told him he had only 10 minutes to reach the course to tee off on the final 19 holes.

Roy Sanders, Yancey's caddy during the tournament, talked strategy with the young Philadelphian and suggested the 2-iron shot which Yancey said was his best fairway swing of the day.

Yancey, trailing Gene Littler by one stroke going into the final round, fired a four-under-par 66 for a 265 total, one stroke lower than Cary Middlecoff shot in winning the 1961 title.

"I was putting really well," the 27-year-old Yancey said. He birdied five holes and had only one bogey.

Yancey slept late and then watched television coverage of the Gemini 9 space adventure until 20 minutes before time to tee off. The starting time had been advanced because of TV coverage of the tournament.

"At 11:10, Roy called me and said I was due off at 11:20," he said. "I was never so frightened. I just knew I had blown the whole works."

He reached the tee eight minutes before he would have been disqualified.

Littler, at 270, finished second and won $12,000.

Peters Hurls Two-Hitter At Washington

By MURRAY CHASS

Gary Peters is putting less kick into his work this season and getting more kicks out of it.

Peters, who isn't lifting his leg as high this year, brought his foot down on Washington Sunday, pitching a two-hitter as the Chicago White Sox completed a sweep of a doubleheader with a 12-0 victory. They won the opener 4-1.

The 29-year-old left-hander believes a combination of bad timing and incorrect kicking affected his pitching last year.

Tommie Agee supplied much of the White Sox power, driving in all four runs in the opener with a homer and triple and scoring three runs in the second game. Tom McCraw drove in three runs in the nightcap while Don Buford and Smoky Burgess each knocked in two.

Harmon Killebrew's fifth homer in six games snapped a 4-4 deadlock in the sixth inning and sparked Minnesota past Cleveland. The Twins added three runs in the seventh, two on Rich Rollins' single. Max Alvis and Leon Wagner homered for the Indians.

A double by Sam Bowens and Russ Snyder's single in the 12th inning gave Baltimore a victory in the game suspended Saturday night becasue of a city curfew.

But the Athletics stormed back in the regular game as Phil Roof drove in three runs and Ken Harrelson and Bert Campaneris two each.

The first helicopter flew not long after the Wright brothers made their first flight in a conventional airplane. In 1907 the first man-carrying helicopter, built by Paul Cornu, made a free vertical flight. But the design of this machine dates back to Leonard da Vinci who drew plans for, and probably built, a small helicopter model.

Braves Bomb Cards

Atlanta bombed the St. Louis Cardinals 14-4, Sunday while Kansas City salvaged the final game of a four-game series at Baltimore, 9-4.

Before the regular Sunday game, the A's and Orioles resumed play in the 12th inning of a 5-5 game that was suspended at midnight Saturday by a Baltimore curfew.

Russ Snyder wrapped it up for the Orioles with a single to score Sam Bowens who had doubled to open the Baltimore 12th.

Rollie Sheldon, who was tagged with the 6-5, 12-inning suspended game loss, remained on the mound to open the regularly scheduled Sunday contest. For a time it appeared that he might be tagged with two losses on the same day as the Orioles jumped him for three runs on five hits in the first inning.

The A's, however, collected two runs in the second, three in the fifth, and put it out of reach with four more in the ninth.

Ken Harrelson had three hits and drove in two runs. Phil Roof also drove in three runs on a double and a single, and Campy Campaneris pushed across two with his first homer of the season in the ninth.

The victory again lifted the A's past Boston into ninth place in the American League by a half game. Jim Dickson, who hurled two innings of shutout ball in relief, received credit for his first decision of the season. The loss went to Wally Bunker.

The Braves sent ten men to the plate in a 7-run fifth-inning, their biggest single inning of the season, before the Cards could record the first out. St. Louis led 4-3 going into the fifth. Al Jackson took the loss, his fourth against four victories.

St. Louis and Kansas City are both idle today.

Cards To Feature Pre-Game Show

Country and Western music will make its debut at the new Busch Stadium on Saturday nite, June 18, when a "Grand Ole Opry" troupe will perform prior to the Cardinals game with Philadelphia.

Faron Young, of "Hello Walls" fame, and Norma Jean, star of the Porter Wagoner TV Show, will headline the "Grand Ole Opry" group.

Waylon Jennings and the Waylors, sensational new recording band, will be an added attraction for the pre-game show and also will perform between innings.

The special pre-game show begins at 6:15 and continues until the game starts at 7 o'clock.

Norma Jean's record "The Shirt" is presently rated as one of the hot country and western singles while Waylon Jennings album recording "Folk-Country" is currently listed as one of the big sellers.

The Philadelphia series may be the biggest series yet in attendance at the new stadium. The Phils play the Red Birds in single games Friday and Saturday night and in a twin-bill on Sunday, June 19.

The double-header is a make-up of the April 12 postponement.

Tickets at all prices are available for all three dates and may be purchased over the counter or by mail at Busch Memorial Stadium, St. Louis, Missouri 63102.

Cardenas Falls Shy Of Record

by MIKE RATHET

Willie Stargell fell one hit shy of a record. But he will get another chance-- without starting over.

Cardenas, Cincinnati's 160-pound shortstop, slammed four homers and drove in eight runs as the Reds split a doubleheader with Chicago Sunday, winning the opener 8-3, before the Cubs took the nightcap 9-5.

By hitting four homers in a twinbill, Cardenas accomplished a feat that hadn't been done since the 1963 season. But he still fell one shy of the five Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals hit in a 1954 doubleheader.

Cardenas won't get another chance, unless he starts another muscle - flexing streak, but Stargell still has a chance to match the National League and major league records for most consecutive hits.

The Pittsburgh slugger was interrupted by the end of the Pirates' 10-5 victory over Houston after collecting five straight hits, including two homers. And he still had a streak of nine consecutive hits intact.

When the Pirates meet St. Louis Tuesday night he'll get a shot at the NL record of 10 last achieved by Cincinnati's Woodie Williams in 1943--and the major league record of 12 last reached by Walt Dropo of Detroit in 1952.

Elsewhere, San Francisco edged Philadelphia 7-6 in 10 innings and Los Angeles and New York split, the Dodgers crusing to a 16-3 victory before the Mets won the nightcap 3-2.

In the American League, Minnesota thumped Cleveland 9-4, the New York Yankees defeated Boston 5-3, the Chicago White Sox swept Washington 4-1 and 12-0, Detroit took two from California 8-4 and 4-1 and Kansas City belted Baltimore 9-4 after the Orioles had nipped the A's 6-5 in 12 innings in the completion of a game suspended Saturday night.

NAIA Tourney In Final Phase

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. AP -- Eight college baseball teams will be here today for the final phase of the annual battle for the title in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Linfield of Oregon, 22-9 and Guilford of North Carolina, 25-6, open the double-elimination affair at 11 a.m. today.

Following the pair to the diamond the rest of the day will be:

2 p.m. -- Lewis of Illinois, 30-4, vs. New Haven, Conn., 28-4.

6 p.m. -- New Mexico Highlands, 34-10, vs. Missouri Valley, Marshall, Mo., 16-7.

8:30 p.m. -- Omaha, 22-6, vs. Southern Louisiana of Baton Rouge, 17-4.

Omaha and Southern are the only teams returning from the 1965 tournament.

Missouri Valley's Vikings are the first Missouri entry in the NAIA championship series since 1957, when William Jewell College made the grade.

Coach Voleny Ashford of the Vikings said he won't "be looking for any pushovers in this tournament."

He added:

"We have two good starting pitchers in Frank Scorfina and Bob Littleton, but we have little depth."

Scorfina, St. Louis, has a 6-2 record this season, while Littleton of Keytesville, has won four and lost six.

The final game is slated for next Friday night, but should the losers' bracjet finalist win, the title game will be played Saturday night.

Big Weekend For Big Eight Track

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a big weekend for Big Eight track athletes, topped by Jim Ryun's near-miss 3:53.7 shot at the world mile record and a 7-1¾ high jump by Missouri's Steve Herndon, best in the world this season and an all - time Big Eight best.

Big Eight athletes won 11 gold medals, five seconds, 11 thirds and had 35 place-winners combined at three major meets — the Compton Invitational at Los Angeles, the district Federation meet at Houston and the Central Collegiate meet at Notre Dame, where Kansas was third with 41.

Herndon's leap was one-fourth inch above the previous best in league history, a 7-1½ by Oklahoma's Ron Till earlier this season.

Oklahoma State's 3:08.6 mile relay at Compton was second best in Big Eight history to the 3:08.5 by Oklahoma this season. John Perry of OSU won the invitational 880 in 1:48.1 at Compton, and his brother Dave, former OSU star, took the open 880 in 1:48.8 in the same meet, with Jim Metcalf of OSU third at 1:49.

Nebraska's Charlie Greene took the 100 meters in 10.3 at Compton and teammate Dave Crook was third in the 440 at 46.6.

Ryun, the amazing Kansas freshman, missed the world mark at Compton because of a relatively slow first quarter. His quarter times were 59.9, 58.6, 60.0 and 55.2. Michel Jazy of France, in running his 3:53.6 world mark last June 9, had split times of 57.3, 59.2, 60.9 and 56.2.

"I'd like to meet Jazy but I understand it's a little hard to do," Ryun said. "I think I could have run faster. I wasn't tired at all at the finish."

Ryun smashed his own American citizens mark of 3:55.3, which had been the 12th best time ever run. Now he's second on the all-time list and still a good bet to become the first American to smash the world mile record since Glenn Cunningham of Kansas did it 32 years ago.

Missouri's Gene Crews set a shot put mark of 59-8½ at Notre Dame, while John Lawson of Kansas won the mile in 4:05.6 and Gary Schwartz of Kansas took the discus in 179-10, a career best.

Kansas State's Conrad Nightingale won the mile in a meet record 4:03.4 at the Houston USTFF, while the Oklahoma freshmen tied their own national frosh 440 relay mark of 40.7 and OU frosh Larry Smith took the pole vault in 15-6. Nightingale was third in the three-mile and teammate bill Selbe fourth in the 440 in 47.7.

The USTFF nationals at Terre Haute, Ind., this weekend are next.

A MODERN ELECTRONIC ENGINE PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS IS LIKE A DOCTOR'S X-RAY

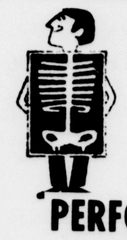

When you go to your Doctor for a checkup, he usually insists on an X-ray, to determine the exact condition of the vital organs that control body processes.

An electronic diagnosis of your engine and its electrical system is like an X-ray in that it determines the exact condition of each part and component that controls car performance.

Many vital engine parts are out of sight. It is impossible, for example, to see the action of the distributor points under actual working conditions. However, with our modern Rotunda Electronic Diagnosis Equipment, the exact condition of all such hidden parts is clearly indicated on the oscilloscope screen. Nothing is left to guesswork--nothing is overlooked.

Let our trained diagnosis technicians give you a complete report on every phase of your engine's performance. It will pay big dividends in helping you to avoid future trouble.

Yancey Captures Memphis Open

By BOB GILBERT

Both were there Sunday when he needed them for his record-setting journey to a 15-under-par 265, lowest score on the 1966 PGA tour, and $20,000 in first place prize money.

Roy Stone, a touring caddy, telephoned Yancey at the motel and told him he had only 10 minutes to reach the course to tee off on the final 19 holes.

Roy Sanders, Yancey's caddy during the tournament, talked strategy with the young Philadelphian and suggested the 2-iron shot which Yancey said was his best fairway swing of the day.

Yancey, trailing Gene Littler by one stroke going into the final round, fired a four-under-par 66 for a 265 total, one stroke lower than Cary Middlecoff shot in winning the 1961 title.

"I was putting really well," the 27-year-old Yancey said. He birdied five holes and had only one bogey.

Yancey slept late and then watched television coverage of the Gemini 9 space adventure until 20 minutes before time to tee off. The starting time had been advanced because of TV coverage of the tournament.

"At 11:10, Roy called me and said I was due off at 11:20," he said. "I was never so frightened. I just knew I had blown the whole works."

He reached the tee eight minutes before he would have been disqualified.

Littler, at 270, finished second and won $12,000.

Peters Hurls Two-Hitter At Washington

By MURRAY CHASS

Gary Peters is putting less kick into his work this season and getting more kicks out of it.

Peters, who isn't lifting his leg as high this year, brought his foot down on Washington Sunday, pitching a two-hitter as the Chicago White Sox completed a sweep of a doubleheader with a 12-0 victory. They won the opener 4-1.

The 29-year-old left-hander believes a combination of bad timing and incorrect kicking affected his pitching last year.

Tommie Agee supplied much of the White Sox power, driving in all four runs in the opener with a homer and triple and scoring three runs in the second game. Tom McCraw drove in three runs in the nightcap while Don Buford and Smoky Burgess each knocked in two.

Harmon Killebrew's fifth homer in six games snapped a 4-4 deadlock in the sixth inning and sparked Minnesota past Cleveland. The Twins added three runs in the seventh, two on Rich Rollins' single. Max Alvis and Leon Wagner homered for the Indians.

A double by Sam Bowens and Russ Snyder's single in the 12th inning gave Baltimore a victory in the game suspended Saturday night because of a city curfew.

But the Athletics stormed back in the regular game as Phil Roof drove in three runs and Ken Harrelson and Bert Campaneris two each.

The first helicopter flew not long after the Wright brothers made their first flight in a conventional airplane. In 1907 the first man-carrying helicopter, built by Paul Cornu, made a free vertical flight. But the design of this machine dates back to Leonard da Vinci who drew plans for, and probably built, a small helicopter model.

Braves Bomb Cards

Atlanta bombed the St. Louis Cardinals 14-4, Sunday while Kansas City salvaged the final game of a four-game series at Baltimore, 9-4.

Before the regular Sunday game, the A's and Orioles resumed play in the 12th inning of a 5-5 game that was suspended at midnight Saturday by a Baltimore curfew.

Russ Snyder wrapped it up for the Orioles with a single to score Sam Bowens who had doubled to open the Baltimore 12th.

Rollie Sheldon, who was tagged with the 6-5, 12-inning suspended game loss, remained on the mound to open the regularly scheduled Sunday contest. For a time it appeared that he might be tagged with two losses on the same day as the Orioles jumped him for three runs on five hits in the first inning.

The A's, however, collected two runs in the second, three in the fifth, and put it out of reach with four more in the ninth.

Ken Harrelson had three hits and drove in two runs. Phil Roof also drove in three runs on a double and a single, and Campy Campaneris pushed across two with his first homer of the season in the ninth.

The victory again lifted the A's past Boston into ninth place in the American League by a half game. Jim Dickson, who hurled two innings of shutout ball in relief, received credit for his first decision of the season. The loss went to Wally Bunker.

The Braves sent ten men to the plate in a 7-run fifth-inning, their biggest single inning of the season, before the Cards could record the first out. St. Louis led 4-3 going into the fifth. Al Jackson took the loss, his fourth against four victories.

St. Louis and Kansas City are both idle today.

Cards To Feature Pre-Game Show

Country and Western music will make its debut at the new Busch Stadium on Saturday nite, June 18, when a "Grand Ole Opry" troupe will perform prior to the Cardinals game with Philadelphia.

Faron Young, of "Hello Walls" fame, and Norma Jean, star of the Porter Wagoner TV Show, will headline the "Grand Ole Opry" group.

Waylon Jennings and the Waylors, sensational new recording band, will be an added attraction for the pre-game show and also will perform between innings.

The special pre-game show begins at 6:15 and continues until the game starts at 7 o'clock.

Norma Jean's record "The Shirt" is presently rated as one of the hot country and western singles while Waylon Jennings album recording "Folk-Country" is currently listed as one of the big sellers.

The Philadelphia series may be the biggest series yet in attendance at the new stadium. The Phils play the Red Birds in single games Friday and Saturday night and in a twin-bill on Sunday, June 19.

The double-header is a make-up of the April 12 postponement.

Tickets at all prices are available for all three dates and may be purchased over the counter or by mail at Busch Memorial Stadium, St. Louis, Missouri 63102.

NAIA Tourney In Final Phase

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. AP -- Eight college baseball teams will be here today for the final phase of the annual battle for the title in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Linfield of Oregon, 22-9 and Guilford of North Carolina, 25-6, open the double-elimination affair at 11 a.m. today.

Following the pair to the diamond the rest of the day will be:

2 p.m. -- Lewis of Illinois, 30-4, vs. New Haven, Conn., 28-4.

6 p.m. -- New Mexico Highlands, 34-10, vs. Missouri Valley, Marshall, Mo., 16-7.

8:30 p.m. -- Omaha, 22-6, vs. Southern Louisiana of Baton Rouge, 17-4.

Omaha and Southern are the only teams returning from the 1965 tournament.

Missouri Valley's Vikings are the first Missouri entry in the NAIA championship series since 1957, when William Jewell College made the grade.

Coach Voleny Ashford of the Vikings said he won't "be looking for any pushovers in this tournament."

He added:

"We have two good starting pitchers in Frank Scorfina and Bob Littleton, but we have little depth."

Scorfina, St. Louis, has a 6-2 record this season, while Littleton of Keytesville, has won four and lost six.

The final game is slated for next Friday night, but should the losers' bracjet finalist win, the title game will be played Saturday night.

Big Weekend For Big Eight Track

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a big weekend for Big Eight track athletes, topped by Jim Ryun's near-miss 3:53.7 shot at the world mile record and a 7-1¾ high jump by Missouri's Steve Herndon, best in the world this season and an all-time Big Eight best.

Big Eight athletes won 11 gold medals, five seconds, 11 thirds and had 35 place-winners combined at three major meets -- the Compton Invitational at Los Angeles, the district Federation meet at Houston and the Central Collegiate meet at Notre Dame, where Kansas was third with 41.

Herndon's leap was one-fourth inch above the previous best in league history, a 7-1½ by Oklahoma's Ron Till earlier this season.

Oklahoma State's 3:08.6 mile relay at Compton was second best in Big Eight history to the 3:08.5 by Oklahoma this season. John Perry of OSU won the invitational 880 in 1:48.1 at Compton, and his brother Dave, former OSU star, took the open 880 in 1:48.8 in the same meet, with Jim Metcalf of OSU third at 1:49.

Nebraska's Charlie Greene took the 100 meters in 10.3 at Compton and teammate Dave Crook was third in the 440 at 46.6.

Ryun, the amazing Kansas freshman, missed the world mark at Compton because of a relatively slow first quarter. His quarter times were 59.9, 58.6, 60.0 and 55.2. Michel Jazy of France, in running his 3:53.6 world mark last June 9, had split times of 57.3, 59.2, 60.9 and 56.2.

"I'd like to meet Jazy but I understand it's a little hard to do," Ryun said. "I think I could have run faster. I wasn't tired at all at the finish."

Ryun smashed his own American citizens mark of 3:55.3, which had been the 12th best time ever run. Now he's second on the all-time list and still a good bet to become the first American to smash the world mile record since Glenn Cunningham of Kansas did it 32 years ago.

Missouri's Gene Crews set a shot put mark of 59-8½ at Notre Dame, while John Lawson of Kansas won the mile in 4:05.6 and Gary Schwartz of Kansas took the discus in 179-10, a career best.

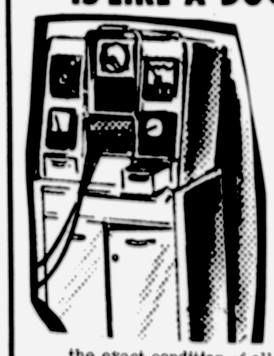

Kansas State's Conrad Nightingale won the mile in a meet record 4:03.4 at the Houston USTFF, while the Oklahoma freshmen tied their own national frosh 440 relay mark of 40.7 and OU frosh Larry Smith took the pole vault in 15-6. Nightingale was third in the three-mile and teammate bill Selbe fourth in the 440 in 47.7.

The USTFF nationals at Terre Haute, Ind., this weekend are next.

A MODERN ELECTRONIC ENGINE PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS
IS LIKE A DOCTOR'S X-RAY

When you go to your Doctor for a checkup, he usually insists on an X-ray, to determine the exact condition of the vital organs that control body processes.
An electronic diagnosis of your engine and its electrical system is like an X-ray in that it determines the exact condition of each part and component that controls car performance.
Many vital engine parts are out of sight. It is impossible, for example, to see the action of the distributor points under actual working conditions. However, with our modern Rotunda Electronic Diagnosis Equipment, the exact condition of all such hidden parts is clearly indicated on the oscilloscope screen. Nothing is left to guesswork--nothing is overlooked.
Let our trained diagnosis technicians give you a complete report on every phase of your engine's performance. It will pay big dividends in helping you to avoid future trouble.

Below Normal Rain For June

Below normal rainfall combined with temperatures near the seasonal normal will tend to put a different emphasis upon the moisture situation in the Missouri Bootheel during June. Field conditions are extremely variable as the month begins. Some wet spots have not fully recovered from heavy May rains while drier, better drained or sandy soils are rapidly nearing the point when moisture will be needed.

May rainfall totals over the Bootheel show up some of this variability:

Malden, 6.77 inches; Poplar Bluff, 6.38 inches; Kennett, 6.09 inches; Portageville, 5.45 inches; Sikeston, 10.37 inches; Caruthersville, 4.35 inches; Charleston, 9.98 inches.

Rainfall in June is likely to range between 2 and 4 inches as an average for the Bootheel. Low pressure centers will generally pass well to the west and north of Missouri, while high pressure is expected to dominate the lower Mississippi Valley. Showers may accompany cool fronts trailing southward from low centers. However, these will be less frequent in June than in previous months and they tend to be weaker as we move toward the Summer season.

High pressure will cut off our major source for moisture from the Gulf of Mexico much of the time. Occasional afternoon and evening shower and thundershower activity can be expected as low level southerly winds bring rising warmth and humidity into the Bootheel. This type of activity is not very reliable as far as supplying agricultural needs at this stage of crop development.

Normal rainfall for June over the Bootheel as a whole is 3.96 inches.

Normals for specific cities are:

Caruthersville, 3.36 inches; Fisk, 4.32 inches; Hayti, Steele, 3.99 inches; Poplar Bluff, 4.39 inches; Dexter, 4.35 inches; Morehouse, 4.10 inches; Parma, 4.06 inches; Sikeston, 4.10 inches.

Short term averages for other cities:

Malden, 3.16 inches, Kennett 3.80 inches, Portageville, 3.76 inches, Charleston, 3.86 inches.

With near normal temperatures during June evaporation and transpiration normally dispose of over 2 inches more moisture than is received by rainfall. Since June rainfall is expected to be light, our moisture deficit is likely to run above that figure. This means that moisture stresses can be anticipated during a period of high moisture demand for corn and the pre-bloom stages of cotton. Irrigation systems will be called upon to relieve stresses, particularly on sandier soils.

June normally produces 18 or 14 days with maximum temperatures above 90 degrees over the Missouri Bootheel. Warm, dry weather may cause problems with spider mites, and thrips may work into late planted cotton especially following the wheat harvest. Farmers are advised to keep a look out for such developments, and to contact their County Extension Director for latest recommendations for controls should these pests show up in significant numbers. Conditions favorable for these insects are usually favorable for application of chemicals. Remember that settling rates are slowed by convective air currents during hot mid-day periods. Winds are less likely to be strong enough to cause drift problems during early forenoon and late afternoon.

June rainfall distribution should allow a number of open periods for haying and wheat harvest. Potatoes will need supplemental moisture for sizing. Near normal temperatures are not as likely to limit tuber development as when we encounter excessively hot conditions in June.

Farmers are advised to pay particular attention to daily and five day weather outlooks as a guide to scheduling activities during this month. By June 6th, the ESSA Weather Bureau teletypewriter circuit for Missouri and Southern Illinois will be available to the following radio stations:

The board also declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.20 per share on preferred stock payable June 30, 1966 to stockholders of record June 13, 1966.

Erwin Canham

Canham Becomes President

Erwin D. Canham, who addressed large non-denominational audiences in St. Louis and Kansas City last month, the Christian Science Church today, a members from around the world convened in Boston for their Centennial-Year annual meeting.

Simultaneously, construction workers one block away were beginning land clearance for the religion's dramatic new expansion of its headquarters area, known as The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

These were the climactic events in this year's observance of the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of Christian Science under the leadership of Mary Baker Eddy in 1866.

To the annual meeting, it brought the biggest attendance in the Church's history, flowing over into the adjacent Civic Auditorium and a nearby theater, where the proceedings were carried on closed-circuit television. An estimated 15,000 people were on hand.

Mr. Canham, who is a well-known journalist and Editor in Chief of The Christian Science Monitor, will serve as President for one year while continuing his Monitor duties. He came to the meeting directly from a major world speaking tour, which he will resume next September in Europe. Capacity audiences have greeted the editor in 34 cities and four countries, thus far, to hear his non-denominational public address on "The Spiritual Revolution," which was initiated this year in connection with the Centennial.

"And now we move into the Second Century," began Mr. Canham, speaking before the annual meeting in his new capacity as Church President. "It is a thrilling moment," but also "urgently challenging," he told the assembly.

"Civilization stands at one of its great crises, perhaps the greatest and most dangerous yet encountered. The world can press forward into the light. Or it can drop back into the darkness.

"False confidence has brought society close to disaster," he said, and summed up three major challenges that must be faced: "destruction of civilization by nuclear warfare. . .unchecked population growth, leading to famine. . .moral destruction of society through sensuality and licentiousness."

These challenges "are to be met successfully nowhere except in human consciousness," he declared.

"The battles to be fought and won are in the hearts and minds of humanity, as individuals strive to understand and apply God's laws. . .the truth of being.

One of the specific contributions of Christian Scientists, he stated, is in bringing out the broad possibilities of "spiritual healing" and spiritual awakening. "There is no problem facing mankind today which cannot be solved through spiritual awakening," he added.

A message to the meeting from The Christian Science Board of Directors noted the "radical changes" taking place in humanity's thinking about "the nature of Deity and God's relation to men."

Read by Clayton Bion Craig, new Chairman of the Board, the message asserted that "the 'God is dead' doctrine certainly does not signify the death of God as Jesus knew Him, or even as Abraham, Moses, Jacob, and the prophets knew Him.

"It does herald the end in human thought of a concept of Deity as a magnified human personality -- and an increasing awareness of the nature of God as infinite Spirit, which Christ Jesus declared Him to be; as omnipresent divine Mind, that mind which was also in Christ Jesus; and the infinite Love which St. John declared constitues the very nature of Deity."

But to overcome and heal the ills that beset our world today, said the message, will require spiritual discipline, "faithfulness to divine Truth and Love. . .bringing to the world a higher concept of God as divine Principle, in the realms of business, government, social service, the political sphere, and in every phase of human thought and action."

Several new steps to improve the church organization and prepare it for "the challenges which lie ahead." were noted by the Directors, as well as in reports to the meeting from different church departments.

Two of the most imprtant innovations mentioned were a new International Department and a new Youth Division for better coordination of the Church's growing operations in these areas.

Similar changes have already added four stories to the proposed height of the new Church Administration Building announced last year as part of the expanded 15-acre "Church Center" now under construction.

The detailed plans call for a 26-story building and other facilities at a cost of more than $8,000,000, with extensive private development on surrounding church-owned land.

The Church Treasurer's report to the annual meeting today noted the establishment of a "Church Center Building Fund," but added that "no specific financial goal has been set, no personal solicition is to be made." Contributions are to be kept on a voluntary basis out of "each member's gratitude."

Other events in connection with the Centennial this year included the publication a few weeks ago of a 100-year report on the Church's spiritual healing experience, titled "A Century of Christian Science Healing"; and a recent ceremony at the Smithsonian Institution accepting a privately-donated marble bust of Mary Baker Eddy into the National Portrait Gallery.

A tribute from Gallery officials stated that "as the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy has earned such recognition" among those who have made "a significant contribution to the lives of their fellow citizens."

Below Normal Rain For June

Below normal rainfall combined with temperatures near the seasonal normal will tend to put a different emphasis upon the moisture situation in the Missouri Bootheel during June. Field conditions are extremely variable as the month begins. Some wet spots have not fully recovered from heavy May rains while drier, better drained or sandy soils are rapidly nearing the point when moisture will be needed.

May rainfall totals over the Bootheel show up some of this variability:

Malden, 6.77 inches; Poplar Bluff, 6.38 inches; Kennett, 6.09 inches; Portageville, 5.45 inches; Sikeston, 10.37 inches; Caruthersville, 4.35 inches; Charleston, 9.98 inches.

Rainfall in June is likely to range between 2 and 4 inches as an average for the Bootheel. Low pressure centers will generally pass well to the west and north of Missouri, while high pressure is expected to dominate the lower Mississippi Valley. Showers may accompany cool fronts trailing southward from low centers. However, these will be less frequent in June than in previous months and they tend to be weaker as we move toward the Summer season.

High pressure will cut off our major source for moisture from the Gulf of Mexico much of the time. Occasional afternoon and evening shower and thundershower activity can be expected as low level southerly winds bring rising warmth and humidity into the Bootheel. This type of activity is not very reliable as far as supplying agricultural needs at this stage of crop development.

Normal rainfall for June over the Bootheel as a whole is 3.96 inches.

Normals for specific cities are:

Caruthersville, 3.36 inches; Fisk, 4.33 inches; New Madrid, 3.99 inches; Poplar Bluff, 4.20 inches; Dexter, 4.35 inches; Morehouse, 4.19 inches, Parma, 4.08 inches, Sikeston, 4.16 inches.

Short term averages for other cities:

Malden, 3.16 inches, Kennett 3.80 inches, Portageville, 3.76 inches, Charleston, 3.86 inches.

With near normal temperatures during June evaporation and transpiration normally dispose of over 2 inches more moisture than is received by rainfall. Since June rainfall is expected to be light, our moisture deficit is likely to run above that figure. This means that moisture stresses can be anticipated during a period of high moisture demand for corn and the pre-bloom stages of cotton. Irrigation systems will be called upon to relieve stresses, particularly on sandier soils.

June normally produces 18 or 14 days with maximum temperatures above 90 degrees over the Missouri Bootheel. Warm, dry weather may cause problems with spider mites, and thrips may work into late planted cotton especially following the wheat harvest. Farmers are advised to keep a look out for such developments, and to contact their County Extension Director for latest recommendations for controls should these pests show up in significant numbers. Conditions favorable for these insects are usually favorable for application of chemicals. Remember that settling rains are slowed by convective air currents during hot mid-day periods. Winds are less likely to be strong enough to cause drift problems during early forenoon and late afternoon.

June rainfall distribution should allow a number of open periods for haying and wheat harvest. Potatoes will need supplemental moisture for sizing. Near normal temperatures are not as likely to limit tuber development as when we encounter excessively hot conditions in June.

Farmers are advised to pay particular attention to daily and five day weather outlooks as a guide to scheduling activities during this month. By June 6th, the ESSA Weather Bureau teletypewriter circuit for Missouri and Southern Illinois will be available to the following radio stations:

Erwin Canham

Canham Becomes President

Erwin D. Canham, who addressed large non-denominational audiences in St. Louis and Kansas City last month, the Christian Science Church today, a members from around the world convened in Boston for their Centennial-Year annual meeting.

Simultaneously, construction workers one block away were beginning land clearance for the religion's dramatic new expansion of its headquarters area, known as The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

These were the climactic events in this year's observance of the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of Christian Science under the leadership of Mary Baker Eddy in 1866.

To the annual meeting, it brought the biggest attendance in the Church's history, flowing over into the adjacent Civic Auditorium and a nearby theater, where the proceedings were carried on closed-circuit television. An estimated 15,000 people were on hand.

Mr. Canham, who is a well-known journalist and Editor in Chief of The Christian Science Monitor, will serve as President for one year while continuing his Monitor duties. He came to the meeting directly from a major world speaking tour, which he will resume next September in Europe. Capacity audiences have greeted the editor in 34 cities and four countries, thus far, to hear his non-denominational public address on "The Spiritual Revolution," which was initiated this year in connection with the Centennial.

"And now we move into the Second Century," began Mr. Canham, speaking before the annual meeting in his new capacity as Church President.

"It is a thrilling moment," but also "urgently challenging," he told the assembly.

"Civilization stands at one of its great crises, perhaps the greatest and most dangerous yet encountered. The world can press forward into the light. Or it can drop back into the darkness.

"False confidence has brought society close to disaster," he said, and summed up three major challenges that must be faced: "destruction of civilization by nuclear warfare. . .unchecked population growth, leading to famine. . .moral destruction of society through sensuality and licentiousness."

These challenges "are to be met successfully nowhere except in human consciousness," he declared.

"The battles to be fought and won are in the hearts and minds of humanity, as individuals strive to understand and apply God's laws. . .the truth of being.

One of the specific contributions of Christian Scientists, he stated, is in bringing out the broad possibilities of "spiritual healing" and spiritual awakening. "There is no problem facing mankind today which cannot be solved through spiritual awakening," he added.

A message to the meeting from The Christian Science Board of Directors noted the "radical changes" taking place in humanity's thinking about "the nature of Deity and God's relation to men."

Read by Clayton Bion Craig, new Chairman of the Board, the message asserted that "the 'God is dead' doctrine certainly does not signify the death of God as Jesus knew Him, or even as Abraham, Moses, Jacob, and the prophets knew Him.

"It does herald the end in human thought of a concept of Deity as a magnified human personality -- and an increasing awareness of the nature of God as infinite Spirit, which Christ Jesus declared Him to be; as omnipresent divine Mind, that mind which was also in Christ Jesus; and the infinite Love which St. John declared constitues the very nature of Deity."

But to overcome and heal the ills that beset our world today, said the message, will require spiritual discipline, "faithfulness to divine Truth and Love. . .bringing to the world a higher concept of God as divine Principle, in the realms of business, government, social service, the political sphere, and in every phase of human thought and action."

Several new steps to improve the church organization and prepare it for "the challenges which lie ahead." were noted by the Directors, as well as in reports to the meeting from different church departments.

Two of the most imprtant innovations mentioned were a new International department and a new Youth Division for better coordination of the Church's growing operations in these areas.

Similar changes have already added four stories to the proposed height of the new Church Administration Building announced last year as part of the expanded 15-acre "Church Center" now under construction.

The detailed plans call for a 26-story building and other facilities at a cost of more than $8,000,000, with extensive private development on surrounding church-owned land.

The Church Treasurer's report to the annual meeting today noted the establishment of a "Church Center Building Fund," but added that "no specific financial goal has been set, no personal solicitiion is to be made." Contributions are to be kept on a voluntary basis out of "each member's gratitude."

Other events in connection with the Centennial this year included the publication a few weeks ago of a 100-year report on the Church's spiritual healing experience, titled "A Century of Christian Science Healing"; and a recent ceremony at the Smithsonian Institution accepting a privately-donated marble bust of Mary Baker Eddy into the National Portrait Gallery.

A tribute from Gallery officials stated that "as the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy has earned such recognition" among those who have made "a significant contribution to the lives of their fellow citizens."

Yancey Captures Memphis Open

By BOB GILBERT

Both were there Sunday when he needed them for his record-setting journey to a 15-under-par 265, lowest score on the 1966 PGA tour, and $20,000 in first place prize money.

Roy Stone, a touring caddy, telephoned Yancey at the motel and told him he had only 10 minutes to reach the course to tee off on the final 19 holes.

Roy Sanders, Yancey's caddy during the tournament, talked strategy with the young Philadelphian and suggested the 2-iron shot which Yancey said was his best fairway swing of the day.

Yancey, trailing Gene Littler by one stroke going into the final round, fired a four-under-par 66 for a 265 total, one stroke lower than Cary Middlecoff shot in winning the 1961 title.

"I was putting really well," the 27-year-old Yancey said. He birdied five holes and had only one bogey.

Yancey slept late and then watched television coverage of the Gemini 9 space adventure until 20 minutes before time to tee off. The starting time had been advanced because of TV coverage of the tournament.

"At 11:10, Roy called me and said I was due off at 11:20," he said. "I was never so frightened. I just knew I had blown the whole works."

He reached the tee eight minutes before he would have been disqualified.

Littler, at 270, finished second and won $12,000.

Peters Hurls Two-Hitter At Washington

By MURRAY CHASS

Gary Peters is putting less kick into his work this season and getting more kicks out of it.

Peters, who isn't lifting his leg as high this year, brought his foot down on Washington Sunday, pitching a two-hitter as the Chicago White Sox completed a sweep of a doubleheader with a 12-0 victory. They won the opener 4-1.

The 29-year-old left-hander believes a combination of bad timing and incorrect kicking affected his pitching last year.

Tommie Agee supplied much of the White Sox power, driving in all four runs in the opener with a homer and triple and scoring three runs in the second game. Tom McCraw drove in three runs in the nightcap while Don Buford and Smoky Burgess each knocked in two.

Harmon Killebrew's fifth homer in six games snapped a 4-4 deadlock in the sixth inning and sparked Minnesota past Cleveland. The Twins added three runs in the seventh, two on Rich Rollins' single. Max Alvis and Leon Wagner homered for the Indians.

A double by Sam Bowens and Russ Snyder's single in the 12th inning gave Baltimore a victory in the game suspended Saturday night becasue of a city curfew.

But the Athletics stormed back in the regular game as Phil Roof drove in three runs and Ken Harrelson and Bert Campaneris two each.

The first helicopter flew not long after the Wright brothers made their first flight in a conventional airplane. In 1907 the first man-carrying helicopter, built by Paul Cornu, made a free vertical flight. But the design of this machine dates back to Leonard da Vinci who drew plans for, and probably built, a small helicopter model.

Braves Bomb Cards

Atlanta bombed the St. Louis Cardinals 14-4, Sunday while Kansas City salvaged the final game of a four-game series at Baltimore, 9-4.

Before the regular Sunday game, the A's and Orioles resumed play in the 12th inning of a 5-5 game that was suspended at midnight Saturday by a Baltimore curfew.

Russ Snyder wrapped it up for the Orioles with a single to score Sam Bowens who had doubled to open the Baltimore 12th.

Rollie Sheldon, who was tagged with the 6-5, 12-inning suspended game loss, remained on the mound to open the regularly scheduled Sunday contest. For a time it appeared that he might be tagged with two losses on the same day as the Orioles jumped him for three runs on five hits in the first inning.

The A's, however, collected two runs in the second, three in the fifth, and put it out of reach with four more in the ninth.

Ken Harrelson had three hits and drove in two runs. Phil Roof also drove in three runs on a double and a single, and Campy Campaneris pushed across two with his first homer of the season in the ninth.

The victory again lifted the A's past Boston into ninth place in the American League by a half game. Jim Dickson, who hurled two innings of shutout ball in relief, received credit for his first decision of the season. The loss went to Wally Bunker.

The Braves sent ten men to the plate in a 7-run fifth-inning, their biggest single inning of the season, before the Cards could record the first out. St. Louis led 4-3 going into the fifth. Al Jackson took the loss, his fourth against four victories.

St. Louis and Kansas City are both idle today.

Cards To Feature Pre-Game Show

Country and Western music will make its debut at the new Busch Stadium on Saturday nite, June 18, when a "Grand Ole Opry" troupe will perform prior to the Cardinals game with Philadelphia.

Faron Young, of "Hello Walls" fame, and Norma Jean, star of the Porter Wagoner TV Show, will headline the "Grand Ole Opry" group.

Waylon Jennings and the Waylors, sensational new recording band, will be an added attraction for the pre-game show and also will perform between innings.

The special pre-game show begins at 6:15 and continues until the game starts at 7 o'clock.

Norma Jean's record "The Shirt" is presently rated as one of the hot country and western singles while Waylon Jennings album recording "Folk-Country" is currently listed as one of the big sellers.

The Philadelphia series may be the biggest series yet in attendance at the new stadium. The Phils play the Red Birds in single games Friday and Saturday night and in a twin-bill on Sunday, June 19.

The double-header is a make-up of the April 12 postponement.

Tickets at all prices are available for all three dates and may be purchased over the counter or by mail at Busch Memorial Stadium, St. Louis, Missouri 63102.

Cardenas Falls Shy Of Record

by MIKE RATHET

Leo Cardenas fell one homer shy of a record. He won't get another chance--without starting over.

Willie Stargell fell one hit shy of a record. But he will get another chance-- without starting over.

Cardenas, Cincinnati's 160-pound shortstop, slammed four homers and drove in eight runs as the Reds split a doubleheader with Chicago Sunday, winning the opener 8-3, before the Cubs took the nightcap 9-5.

By hitting four homers in a twinbill, Cardenas accomplished a feat that hadn't been done since the 1963 season. But he still fell one shy of the five Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals hit in a 1954 doubleheader.

Cardenas won't get another chance, unless he starts another muscle - flexing streak, but Stargell still has a chance to match the National League and major league records for most consecutive hits.

The Pittsburgh slugger was interrupted by the end of the Pirates' 10-5 victory over Houston after collecting five straight hits, including two homers. And he still had a streak of nine consecutive hits intact.

When the Pirates meet St. Louis Tuesday night he'll get a shot at the NL record of 10-last achieved by Cincinnati's Woodie Williams in 1943--and the major league record of 12-last reached by Walt Dropo of Detroit in 1952.

Elsewhere, San Francisco edged Philadelphia 7-6 in 10 innings and Los Angeles and New York split, the Dodgers crusing to a 16-3 victory before the Mets won the nightcap 3-2.

In the American League, Minnesota thumped Cleveland 9-4, the New York Yankees defeated Boston 5-3, the Chicago White Sox swept Washington 4-1 and 12-0, Detroit took two from California 8-4 and 4-1 and Kansas City belted Baltimore 9-4 after the Orioles had nipped the A's 6-5 in 12 innings in the completion of a game suspended Saturday night.

NAIA Tourney In Final Phase

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. AP -- Eight college baseball teams will be here today for the final phase of the annual battle for the title in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Linfield of Oregon, 22-9 and Guilford of North Carolina, 25-6, open the double-elimination affair at 11 a.m. today.

Following the pair to the diamond the rest of the day will be:

2 p.m. -- Lewis of Illinois, 30-4, vs. New Haven, Conn., 28-4.

6 p.m. -- New Mexico Highlands, 34-10, vs. Missouri Valley, Marshall, Mo., 16-7.

8:30 p.m. -- Omaha, 22-6, vs. Southern Louisiana of Baton Rouge, 17-4.

Omaha and Southern are the only teams returning from the 1965 tournament.

Missouri Valley's Vikings are the first Missouri entry in the NAIA championship series since 1957, when William Jewell College made the grade.

Coach Voleny Ashford of the Vikings said he won't "be looking for any pushovers in this tournament."

He added:

"We have two good starting pitchers in Frank Scorfina and Bob Littleton, but we have little depth."

Scorfina, St. Louis, has a 6-2 record this season, while Littleton of Keytesville, has won four and lost six.

The final game is slated for next Friday night, but should the losers' bracjet finalist win, the title game will be played Saturday night.

Big Weekend For Big Eight Track

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a big weekend for Big Eight track athletes, topped by Jim Ryun's near-miss 3:53.7 shot at the world mile record and a 7-1¾ high jump by Missouri's Steve Herndon, best in the world this season and an all-time Big Eight best.

Big Eight athletes won 11 gold medals, five seconds, 11 thirds and had 35 place-winners combined at three major meets — the Compton Invitational at Los Angeles, the district Federation meet at Houston and the Central Collegiate meet at Notre Dame, where Kansas was third with 41.

Herndon's leap was one-fourth inch above the previous best in league history, a 7-1½ by Oklahoma's Ron Till earlier this season.

Oklahoma State's 3:08.6 mile relay at Compton was second best in Big Eight history to the 3:08.5 by Oklahoma this season. John Perry of OSU won the invitational 880 in 1:48.1 at Compton, and his brother Dave, former OSU star, took the open 880 in 1:48.8 in the same meet, with Jim Metcalf of OSU third at 1:49.

Nebraska's Charlie Greene took the 100 meters in 10.3 at Compton and teammate Dave Crook was third in the 440 at 46.6.

Ryun, the amazing Kansas freshman, missed the world mark at Compton because of a relatively slow first quarter. His quarter times were 59.9, 58.6, 60.0 and 55.2. Michel Jazy of France, in running his 3:53.6 world mark last June 9, had split times of 57.3, 59.2, 60.9 and 56.2.

"I'd like to meet Jazy but I understand it's a little hard to do," Ryun said. "I think I could have run faster. I wasn't tired at all at the finish."

Ryun smashed his own American citizens mark of 3:55.3, which had been the 12th best time ever run. Now he's second on the all-time list and still a good bet to become the first American to smash the world mile record since Glenn Cunningham of Kansas did it 32 years ago.

Missouri's Gene Crews set a shot put mark of 59-8½ at Notre Dame, while John Lawson of Kansas won the mile in 4:05.6 and Gary Schwartz of Kansas took the discus in 179-10, a career best.

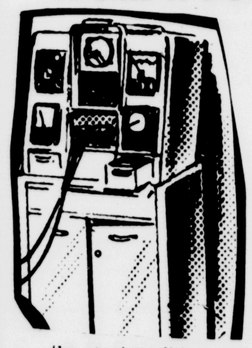

Kansas State's Conrad Nightingale won the mile in a meet record 4:03.4 at the Houston USTFF, while the Oklahoma freshmen tied their own national frosh 440 relay mark of 40.7 and OU frosh Larry Smith took the pole vault in 15-6. Nightingale was third in the three-mile and teammate bill Selbe fourth in the 440 in 47.7.

The USTFF nationals at Terre Haute, Ind., this weekend are next.

A MODERN ELECTRONIC ENGINE PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS
IS LIKE A DOCTOR'S X-RAY

When you go to your Doctor for a checkup, he usually insists on an X-ray, to determine the exact condition of the vital organs that control body processes.
An electronic diagnosis of your engine and its electrical system is like an X-ray in that it determines the exact condition of each part and component that controls car performance.
Many vital engine parts are out of sight. It is impossible, for example, to see the action of the distributor points under actual working conditions. However, with our modern Rotunda Electronic Diagnosis Equipment, the exact condition of all such hidden parts is clearly indicated on the oscilloscope screen. Nothing is left to guesswork--nothing is overlooked.
Let our trained diagnosis technicians give you a complete report on every phase of your engine's performance. It will pay big dividends in helping you to avoid future trouble.

Yancey Captures Memphis Open

By BOB GILBERT

Both were there Sunday when he needed them for his record-setting journey to a 15-under-par 265, lowest score on the 1966 PGA tour, and $20,000 in first place prize money.

Roy Stone, a touring caddy, telephoned Yancey at the motel and told him he had only 10 minutes to reach the course to tee off on the final 19 holes.

Roy Sanders, Yancey's caddy during the tournament, talked strategy with the young Philadelphian and suggested the 2-iron shot which Yancey said was his best fairway swing of the day.

Yancey, trailing Gene Littler by one stroke going into the final round, fired a four-under-par 66 for a 265 total, one stroke lower than Cary Middlecoff shot in winning the 1961 title.

"I was putting really well," the 27-year-old Yancey said. He birdied five holes and had only one bogey.

Yancey slept late and then watched television coverage of the Gemini 9 space adventure until 20 minutes before time to tee off. The starting time had been advanced because of TV coverage of the tournament.

"At 11:10, Roy called me and said I was due off at 11:20," he said. "I was never so frightened. I just knew I had blown the whole works."

He reached the tee eight minutes before he would have been disqualified.

Littler, at 270, finished second and won $12,000.

Peters Hurls Two-Hitter At Washington

By MURRAY CHASS

Gary Peters is putting less kick into his work this season and getting more kicks out of it.

Peters, who isn't lifting his leg as high this year, brought his foot down on Washington Sunday, pitching a two-hitter as the Chicago White Sox completed a sweep of a doubleheader with a 12-0 victory. They won the opener 4-1.

The 29-year-old left-hander believes a combination of bad timing and incorrect kicking affected his pitching last year.

Tommie Agee supplied much of the White Sox power, driving in all four runs in the opener with a homer and triple and scoring three runs in the second game. Tom McCraw drove in three runs in the nightcap while Don Buford and Smoky Burgess each knocked in two.

Harmon Killebrew's fifth homer in six games snapped a 4-4 deadlock in the sixth inning and sparked Minnesota past Cleveland. The Twins added three runs in the seventh, two on Rich Rollins' single. Max Alvis and Leon Wagner homered for the Indians.

A double by Sam Bowens and Russ Snyder's single in the 12th inning gave Baltimore a victory in the game suspended Saturday night because of a city curfew.

But the Athletics stormed back in the regular game as Phil Roof drove in three runs and Ken Harrelson and Bert Campaneris two each.

The first helicopter flew not long after the Wright brothers made their first flight in a conventional airplane. In 1907 the first man-carrying helicopter, built by Paul Cornu, made a free vertical flight. But the design of this machine dates back to Leonard da Vinci who drew plans for, and probably built, a small helicopter model.

Braves Bomb Cards

Atlanta bombed the St. Louis Cardinals 14-4, Sunday while Kansas City salvaged the final game of a four-game series at Baltimore, 9-4.

Before the regular Sunday game, the A's and Orioles resumed play in the 12th inning of a 5-5 game that was suspended at midnight Saturday by a Baltimore curfew.

Russ Snyder wrapped it up for the Orioles with a single to score Sam Bowens who had doubled to open the Baltimore 12th.

Rollie Sheldon, who was tagged with the 6-5, 12-inning suspended game loss, remained on the mound to open the regularly scheduled Sunday contest. For a time it appeared that he might be tagged with two losses on the same day as the Orioles jumped him for three runs on five hits in the first inning.

The A's, however, collected two runs in the second, three in the fifth, and put it out of reach with four more in the ninth.

Ken Harrelson had three hits and drove in two runs. Phil Roof also drove in three runs on a double and a single, and Campy Campaneris pushed across two with his first homer of the season in the ninth.

The victory again lifted the A's past Boston into ninth place in the American League by a half game. Jim Dickson, who hurled two innings of shutout ball in relief, received credit for his first decision of the season. The loss went to Wally Bunker.

The Braves sent ten men to the plate in a 7-run fifth-inning, their biggest single inning of the season, before the Cards could record the first out. St. Louis led 4-3 going into the fifth. Al Jackson took the loss, his fourth against four victories.

St. Louis and Kansas City are both idle today.

Cards To Feature Pre-Game Show

Country and Western music will make its debut at the new Busch Stadium on Saturday nite, June 18, when a "Grand Ole Opry" troupe will perform prior to the Cardinals game with Philadelphia.

Faron Young, of "Hello Walls" fame, and Norma Jean, star of the Porter Wagoner TV Show, will headline the "Grand Ole Opry" group.

Waylon Jennings and the Waylors, sensational new recording band, will be an added attraction for the pre-game show and also will perform between innings.

The special pre-game show begins at 6:15 and continues until the game starts at 7 o'clock.

Norma Jean's record "The Shirt" is presently rated as one of the hot country and western singles while Waylon Jennings album recording "Folk-Country" is currently listed as one of the big sellers.

The Philadelphia series may be the biggest series yet in attendance at the new stadium. The Phils play the Red Birds in single games Friday and Saturday night and in a twin-bill on Sunday, June 19.

The double-header is a make-up of the April 12 postponement.

Tickets at all prices are available for all three dates and may be purchased over the counter or by mail at Busch Memorial Stadium, St. Louis, Missouri 63102.

Cardenas Falls Shy Of Record

by MIKE RATHET

Leo Cardenas fell one homer shy of a record. He won't get another chance--without starting over.

Willie Stargell fell one hit shy of a record. But he will get another chance-- without starting over.

Cardenas, Cincinnati's 160-pound shortstop, slammed four homers and drove in eight runs as the Reds split a doubleheader with Chicago Sunday, winning the opener 8-3, before the Cubs took the nightcap 9-5.

By hitting four homers in a twinbill, Cardenas accomplished a feat that hadn't been done since the 1963 season. But he still fell one shy of the five Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals hit in a 1954 doubleheader.

Cardenas won't get another chance, unless he starts another muscle - flexing streak, but Stargell still has a chance to match the National League and major league records for most consecutive hits.

The Pittsburgh slugger was interrupted by the end of the Pirates' 10-5 victory over Houston after collecting five straight hits, including two homers. And he still had a streak of nine consecutive hits intact.

When the Pirates meet St. Louis Tuesday night he'll get a shot at the NL record of 10 last achieved by Cincinnati's Woodie Williams in 1943--and the major league record of 12 last reached by Walt Dropo of Detroit in 1952.

Elsewhere, San Francisco edged Philadelphia 7-6 in 10 innings and Los Angeles and New York split, the Dodgers crusing to a 16-3 victory before the Mets won the nightcap 3-2.

In the American League, Minnesota thumped Cleveland 9-4, the New York Yankees defeated Boston 5-3, the Chicago White Sox swept Washington 4-1 and 12-0, Detroit took two from California 8-4 and 4-1 and Kansas City belted Baltimore 9-4 after the Orioles had nipped the A's 6-5 in 12 innings in the completion of a game suspended Saturday night.

Linfield of Oregon, 22-9 and Guilford of North Carolina, 25-6, open the double-elimination affair at 11 a.m. today.

Following the pair to the diamond the rest of the day will be:

2 p.m. -- Lewis of Illinois, 30-4, vs. New Haven, Conn., 28-4.

6 p.m. -- New Mexico Highlands, 34-10, vs. Missouri Valley, Marshall, Mo., 16-7.

8:30 p.m. -- Omaha, 22-6, vs. Southern Louisiana of Baton Rouge, 17-4.

Omaha and Southern are the only teams returning from the 1965 tournament.

Missouri Valley's Vikings are the first Missouri entry in the NAIA championship series since 1957, when William Jewell College made the grade.

Coach Voleny Ashford of the Vikings said he won't "be looking for any pushovers in this tournament."

He added:

"We have two good starting pitchers in Frank Scorfina and Bob Littleton, but we have little depth."

Scorfina, St. Louis, has a 6-2 record this season, while Littleton of Keytesville, has won four and lost six.

The final game is slated for next Friday night, but should the losers' bracjet finalist win, the title game will be played Saturday night.

Big Weekend For Big Eight Track

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a big weekend for Big Eight track athletes, topped by Jim Ryun's near-miss 3:53.7 shot at the world mile record and a 7-1¾ high jump by Missouri's Steve Herndon, best in the world this season and an all-time Big Eight best.

Big Eight athletes won 11 gold medals, five seconds, 11 thirds and had 35 place-winners combined at three major meets — the Compton Invitational at Los Angeles, the district Federation meet at Houston and the Central Collegiate meet at Notre Dame, where Kansas was third with 41.

Herndon's leap was one-fourth inch above the previous best in league history, a 7-1½ by Oklahoma's Ron Till earlier this season.

Oklahoma State's 3:08.6 mile relay at Compton was second best in Big Eight history to the 3:08.5 by Oklahoma this season. John Perry of OSU won the invitational 880 in 1:48.1 at Compton, and his brother Dave, former OSU star, took the open 880 in 1:48.8 in the same meet, with Jim Metcalf of OSU third at 1:49.

Nebraska's Charlie Greene took the 100 meters in 10.3 at Compton and teammate Dave Crook was third in the 440 at 46.6.

Ryun, the amazing Kansas freshman, missed the world mark at Compton because of a relatively slow first quarter. His quarter times were 59.9, 58.6, 60.0 and 55.2. Michel Jazy of France, in running his 3:53.6 world mark last June 9, had split times of 57.3, 59.2, 60.9 and 56.2.

"I'd like to meet Jazy but I understand it's a little hard to do," Ryun said. "I think I could have run faster. I wasn't tired at all at the finish."

Ryun smashed his own American citizens mark of 3:55.3, which had been the 12th best time ever run. Now he's second on the all-time list and still a good bet to become the first American to smash the world mile record since Glenn Cunningham of Kansas did it 32 years ago.

Missouri's Gene Crews set a shot put mark of 59-8½ at Notre Dame, while John Lawson of Kansas won the mile in 4:05.6 and Gary Schwartz of Kansas took the discus in 179-10, a career best.

Kansas State's Conrad Nightingale won the mile in a meet record 4:03.4 at the Houston USTFF, while the Oklahoma freshmen tied their own national frosh 440 relay mark of 40.7 and OU frosh Larry Smith took the pole vault in 15-6. Nightingale was third in the three-mile and teammate bill Selbe fourth in the 440 in 47.7.

The USTFF nationals at Terre Haute, Ind., this weekend are next.

A MODERN ELECTRONIC ENGINE PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS
IS LIKE A DOCTOR'S X-RAY

When you go to your Doctor for a checkup, he usually insists on an X-ray, to determine the exact condition of the vital organs that control body processes.
An electronic diagnosis of your engine and its electrical system is like an X-ray in that it determines the exact condition of each part and component that controls car performance.
Many vital engine parts are out of sight. It is impossible, for example, to see the action of the distributor points under actual working conditions. However, with our modern Rotunda Electronic Diagnosis Equipment, the exact condition of all such hidden parts is clearly indicated on the oscilloscope screen. Nothing is left to guesswork--nothing is overlooked.
Let our trained diagnosis technicians give you a complete report on every phase of your engine's performance. It will pay big dividends in helping you to avoid future trouble.

Below Normal Rain For June

Below normal rainfall combined with temperatures near the seasonal normal will tend to put a different emphasis upon the moisture situation in the Missouri Bootheel during June. Field conditions are extremely variable as the month begins. Some wet spots have not fully recovered from heavy May rains while drier, better drained or sandy soils are rapidly nearing the point when moisture will be needed.

Malden, 6.77 inches; Poplar Bluff, 6.38 inches; Kennett, 6.09 inches; Portageville, 5.45 inches; Sikeston, 10.37 inches; Caruthersville, 4.35 inches; Charleston, 9.98 inches.

Rainfall in June is likely to range between 2 and 4 inches as an average for the Bootheel. Low pressure centers will generally pass well to the west and north of Missouri, while high pressure is expected to dominate the lower Mississippi Valley. Showers may accompany cool fronts trailing southward from low centers. However, these will be less frequent in June than in previous months and they tend to be weaker as we move toward the Summer season.

High pressure will cut off our major source for moisture from the Gulf of Mexico much of the time. Occasional afternoon and evening shower and thundershower activity can be expected as low level southerly winds bring rising warmth and humidity into the Bootheel. This type of activity is not very reliable as far as supplying agricultural needs at this stage of crop development.

Normal rainfall for June over the Bootheel as a whole is 3.96 inches.

Normals for specific cities are:

Caruthersville, 3.36 inches; Fisk, 4.32 inches; Hayti Station, 3.99 inches; Poplar Bluff, 4.30 inches; Dexter, 4.35 inches; Morehouse, 4.19 inches; Parma, 4.06 inches; Sikeston, 4.10 inches.

Short term averages for other cities:

Malden, 3.16 inches, Kennett 3.80 inches, Portageville, 3.76 inches, Charleston, 3.86 inches.

With near normal temperatures during June evaporation and transpiration normally dispose of over 2 inches more moisture than is received by rainfall. Since June rainfall is expected to be light, our moisture deficit is likely to run above that figure. This means that moisture stresses can be anticipated during a period of high moisture demand for corn and the pre-bloom stages of cotton. Irrigation systems will be called upon to relieve stresses, particularly on sandier soils.

June normally produces 18 or 14 days with maximum temperatures above 90 degrees over the Missouri Bootheel. Warm, dry weather may cause problems with spider mites, and thrips may work into late planted cotton especially following the wheat harvest. Farmers are advised to keep a look out for such developments, and to contact their County Extension Director for latest recommendations for controls should these pests show up in significant numbers. Conditions favorable for these insects are usually favorable for application of chemicals. Remember that settling rates are slowed by convective air currents during hot mid-day periods. Winds are less likely to be strong enough to cause drift problems during early forenoon and late afternoon.

June rainfall distribution should allow a number of open periods for haying and wheat harvest. Potatoes will need supplemental moisture for sizing. Near normal temperatures are not as likely to limit tuber development as when we encounter excessively hot conditions in June.

Farmers are advised to pay particular attention to daily and five day weather outlooks as a guide to scheduling activities during this month. By June 6th, the ESSA Weather Bureau teletypewriter circuit for Missouri and Southern Illinois will be available to the following radio stations:

Erwin Canham

Canham Becomes President

Erwin D. Canham, who addressed large non-denominational audiences in St. Louis and Kansas City last month, the Christian Science Church today, a members from around the world convened in Boston for their Centennial-Year annual meeting.

Simultaneously, construction workers one block away were beginning land clearance for the religion's dramatic new expansion of its headquarters area, known as The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

These were the climactic events in this year's observance of the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of Christian Science under the leadership of Mary Baker Eddy in 1866.

To the annual meeting, it brought the biggest attendance in the Church's history, flowing over into the adjacent Civic Auditorium and a nearby theater, where the proceedings were carried on closed-circuit television. An estimated 15,000 people were on hand.

Mr. Canham, who is a well-known journalist and Editor in Chief of The Christian Science Monitor, will serve as President for one year while continuing his Monitor duties. He came to the meeting directly from a major world speaking tour, which he will resume next September in Europe. Capacity audiences have greeted the editor in 34 cities and four countries, thus far, to hear his non-denominational public address on "The Spiritual Revolution," which was initiated this year in connection with the Centennial.

"And now we move into the Second Century," began Mr. Canham, speaking before the annual meeting in his new capacity as Church President. "It is a thrilling moment," but also "urgently challenging," he told the assembly.

"Civilization stands at one of its great crises, perhaps the greatest and most dangerous yet encountered. The world can press forward into the light. Or it can drop back into the darkness.

"False confidence has brought society close to disaster," he said, and summed up three major challenges that must be faced: "destruction of civilization by nuclear warfare. . .unchecked population growth, leading to famine. . .moral destruction of society through sensuality and licentiousness."

These challenges "are to be met successfully nowhere except in human consciousness," he declared.

"The battles to be fought and won are in the hearts and minds of humanity, as individuals strive to understand and apply God's laws. . .the truth of being.

One of the specific contributions of Christian Scientists, he stated, is in bringing out the broad possibilities of "spiritual healing" and spiritual awakening. "There is no problem facing mankind today which cannot be solved through spiritual awakening," he added.

A message to the meeting from The Christian Science Board of Directors noted the "radical changes" taking place in humanity's thinking about "the nature of Deity and God's relation to men."

Read by Clayton Bion Craig, new Chairman of the Board, the message asserted that "the 'God is dead' doctrine certainly does not signify the death of God as Jesus knew Him, or even as Abraham, Moses, Jacob, and the prophets knew Him.

"It does herald the end in human thought of a concept of Deity as a magnified human personality -- and an increasing awareness of the nature of God as infinite Spirit, which Christ Jesus declared Him to be; as omnipresent divine Mind, that mind which was also in Christ Jesus; and the infinite Love which St. John declared constitues the very nature of Deity."

But to overcome and heal the ills that beset our world today, said the message, will require spiritual discipline, "faithfulness to divine Truth and Love. . .bringing to the world a higher concept of God as divine Principle, in the realms of business, government, social service, the political sphere, and in every phase of human thought and action."

Several new steps to improve the church organization and prepare it for "the challenges which lie ahead." were noted by the Directors, as well as in reports to the meeting from different church departments.

Two of the most imprtant innovations mentioned were a new International Department and a new Youth Division for better coordination of the Church's growing operations in these areas.

Similar changes have already added four stories to the proposed height of the new Church Administration Building announced last year as part of the expanded 15-acre "Church Center" now under construction.

The detailed plans call for a 26-story building and other facilities at a cost of more than $8,000,000, with extensive private development on surrounding church-owned land.

The Church Treasurer's report to the annual meeting today noted the establishment of a "Church Center Building Fund," but added that "no specific financial goal has been set, no personal solicition is to be made." Contributions are to be kept on a voluntary basis out of "each member's gratitude."

Other events in connection with the Centennial this year included the publication a few weeks ago of a 100-year report on the Church's spiritual healing experience, titled "A Century of Christian Science Healing"; and a recent ceremony at the Smithsonian Institution accepting a privately-donated marble bust of Mary Baker Eddy into the National Portrait Gallery.

A tribute from Gallery officials stated that "as the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy has earned such recognition" among those who have made "a significant contribution to the lives of their fellow citizens."

Below Normal Rain For June

Below normal rainfall combined with temperatures near the seasonal normal will tend to put a different emphasis upon the moisture situation in the Missouri Bootheel during June. Field conditions are extremely variable as the month begins. Some wet spots have not fully recovered from heavy May rains while drier, better drained or sandy soils are rapidly nearing the point when moisture will be needed.

May rainfall totals over the Bootheel show up some of this variability:

Malden, 6.77 inches; Poplar Bluff, 6.38 inches; Kennett, 6.09 inches; Portageville, 5.45 inches; Sikeston, 10.37 inches; Caruthersville, 4.35 inches; Charleston, 9.98 inches.

Rainfall in June is likely to range between 2 and 4 inches as an average for the Bootheel. Low pressure centers will generally pass well to the west and north of Missouri, while high pressure is expected to dominate the lower Mississippi Valley. Showers may accompany cool fronts trailing southward from low centers. However, these will be less frequent in June than in previous months and they tend to be weaker as we move toward the Summer season.

High pressure will cut off our major source for moisture from the Gulf of Mexico much of the time. Occasional afternoon and evening shower and thundershower activity can be expected as low level southerly winds bring rising warmth and humidity into the Bootheel. This type of activity is not very reliable as far as supplying agricultural needs at this stage of crop development.

Normal rainfall for June over the Bootheel as a whole is 3.96 inches.

Normals for specific cities are:

Caruthersville, 3.36 inches; Fisk, 4.33 inches; New Madrid, 3.99 inches; Poplar Bluff, 4.35 inches; Dexter, 4.35 inches; Morehouse, 4.19 inches, Parma, 4.06 inches, Sikeston, 4.16 inches.

Short term averages for other cities:

Malden, 3.16 inches, Kennett 3.80 inches, Portageville, 3.76 inches, Charleston, 3.86 inches.

With near normal temperatures during June evaporation and transpiration normally dispose of over 2 inches more moisture than is received by rainfall. Since June rainfall is expected to be light, our moisture deficit is likely to run above that figure. This means that moisture stresses can be anticipated during a period of high moisture demand for corn and the pre-bloom stages of cotton. Irrigation systems will be called upon to relieve stresses, particularly on sandier soils.

June normally produces 13 or 14 days with maximum temperatures above 90 degrees over the Missouri Bootheel. Warm, dry weather may cause problems with spider mites, and thrips may work into late planted cotton especially following the wheat harvest. Farmers are advised to keep a look out for such developments, and to contact their County Extension Director for latest recommendations for controls should these pests show up in significant numbers. Conditions favorable for these insects are usually favorable for application of chemicals. Remember that settling rates are slowed by convective air currents during hot mid-day periods. Winds are less likely to be strong enough to cause drift problems during early forenoon and late afternoon.

June rainfall distribution should allow a number of open periods for haying and wheat harvest. Potatoes will need supplemental moisture for sizing. Near normal temperatures are not as likely to limit tuber development as when we encounter excessively hot conditions in June.

Farmers are advised to pay particular attention to daily and five day weather outlooks as a guide to scheduling activities during this month. By June 6th, the ESSA Weather Bureau teletypewriter circuit for Missouri and Southern Illinois will be available to the following radio stations:

Erwin Canham

Canham Becomes President

Erwin D. Canham, who addressed large non-denominational audiences in St. Louis and Kansas City last month, the Christian Science Church today, a members from around the world convened in Boston for their Centennial-Year annual meeting.

Simultaneously, construction workers one block away were beginning land clearance for the religion's dramatic new expansion of its headquarters area, known as The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

These were the climactic events in this year's observance of the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of Christian Science under the leadership of Mary Baker Eddy in 1866.

To the annual meeting, it brought the biggest attendance in the Church's history, flowing over into the adjacent Civic Auditorium and a nearby theater, where the proceedings were carried on closed-circuit television. An estimated 15,000 people were on hand.

Mr. Canham, who is a well-known journalist and Editor in Chief of The Christian Science Monitor, will serve as President for one year while continuing his Monitor duties. He came to the meeting directly from a major world speaking tour, which he will resume next September in Europe. Capacity audiences have greeted the editor in 34 cities and four countries, thus far, to hear his non-denominational public address on "The Spiritual Revolution," which was initiated this year in connection with the Centennial.

"And now we move into the Second Century," began Mr. Canham, speaking before the annual meeting in his new capacity as Church President. "It is a thrilling moment," but also "urgently challenging," he told the assembly.

"Civilization stands at one of its great crises, perhaps the greatest and most dangerous yet encountered. The world can press forward into the light. Or it can drop back into the darkness.

"False confidence has brought society close to disaster," he said, and summed up three major challenges that must be faced: "destruction of civilization by nuclear warfare. . .unchecked population growth, leading to famine. . .moral destruction of society through sensuality and licentiousness."

These challenges "are to be met successfully nowhere except in human consciousness," he declared.

"The battles to be fought and won are in the hearts and minds of humanity, as individuals strive to understand and apply God's laws. . .the truth of being.

One of the specific contributions of Christian Scientists, he stated, is in bringing out the broad possibilities of "spiritual healing" and spiritual awakening. "There is no problem facing mankind today which cannot be solved through spiritual awakening," he added.

A message to the meeting from The Christian Science Board of Directors noted the "radical changes" taking place in humanity's thinking about "the nature of Deity and God's relation to men."

Read by Clayton Bion Craig, new Chairman of the Board, the message asserted that "the 'God is dead' doctrine certainly does not signify the death of God as Jesus knew Him, or even as Abraham, Moses, Jacob, and the prophets knew Him.

"It does herald the end in human thought of a concept of Deity as a magnified human personality -- and an increasing awareness of the nature of God as Infinite Spirit, which Christ Jesus declared Him to be; as omnipresent divine Mind, that mind which was also in Christ Jesus; and the infinite Love which St. John declared constitues the very nature of Deity."

But to overcome and heal the ills that beset our world today, said the message, will require spiritual discipline, "faithfulness to divine Truth and Love. . .bringing to the world a higher concept of God as divine Principle, in the realms of business, government, social service, the political sphere, and in every phase of human thought and action."

Several new steps to improve the church organization and prepare it for "the challenges which lie ahead." were noted by the Directors, as well as in reports to the meeting from different church departments.

Two of the most imprtant innovations mentioned were a new International Department and a new Youth Division for better coordination of the Church's growing operations in these areas.

Similar changes have already added four stories to the proposed height of the new Church Administration Building announced last year as part of the expanded 15-acre "Church Center" now under construction.

The detailed plans call for a 26-story building and other facilities at a cost of more than $8,000,000, with extensive private development on surrounding church-owned land.

The Church Treasurer's report to the annual meeting today noted the establishment of a "Church Center Building Fund," but added that "no specific financial goal has been set, no personal solicition is to be made." Contributions are to be kept on a voluntary basis out of "each member's gratitude."

Other events in connection with the Centennial this year included the publication a few weeks ago of a 100-year report on the Church's spiritual healing experience, titled "A Century of Christian Science Healing"; and a recent ceremony at the Smithsonian Institution accepting a privately-donated marble bust of Mary Baker Eddy into the National Portrait Gallery.

A tribute from Gallery officials stated that "as the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy has earned such recognition" among those who have made "a significant contribution to the lives of their fellow citizens."

The proceeds from the 24th annual circus will be for Shriners Hospital for crippled and burned children, and 25 other local child health and welfare agencies without distinction.

ST. LOUIS -- Hundreds of Shriners from Moolah Temple Shrine Clubs in Eastern Missouri today had launched their advertising and ticket sales campaign for the 24th Annual Moolah Circus and Fireworks Display to be held here at Public Schools Stadium June 29 through July 4, it was announced by Loren Willhoft, circus chairman and Moolah's chief rabban.

"As usual we are counting upon both industry and individuals from all of Eastern Missouri to purchase both program advertising and tickets, and to attend the circus," Willhoft said.

He added that business and industry which is not solicited for advertising or tickets and who wish to participate may get in touch with the Shrine Club in their area, or by writing directly to Moolah Temple, 3821 Lindell boulevard, St. Louis, Missouri 63108.

Taking an active part in the campaign are members from the following clubs, each of which covers a number of towns surrounding the cities mentioned:

Capital, Jefferson city, Three Rivers, Poplar Bluff, Nemo, Hannibal, Tiger, Columbia, Four Rivers, Sullivan, Ecmo, Farmington, Little Dixie, Mexico, Semo, Sikeston, Daniel Boone, Wentzville and South St. Louis County, Kirkwood.

Pointing out that the benefit is held for Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children here, and 25 local children health and welfare agencies without distinction, Willhoft issued an invitation to all residents of Eastern Missouri "to visit our hospital and see first-hand how the funds raised through the circus are employed." The hospital provided totally free care to approximately 4,000 needy afflicted children last year.

Held nightly at 8:15, the circus will emphasize aerial excitement and animal and comedy acts with particular emphasis on acts that appeal to children. A nightly feature will be a balloon ascension.

At intermission all of the colorful Shrine parade units and including 12 lighted floats, the champion Mounted Lancers, the Clowns, the Motor Patrol, the Arab Marching Patrol, the Band, the Drum and Bugle Corps will parade through the darkened stadium.

Another highlight of the "circus festival" will be the Moolah Parade based on the theme "Dreams of Childhood" to be held June 27, at 8:15 p.m. through downtown St. Louis. All of Moolah's units, lighted floats, circus elephants and lions will be in the line of March as will be Shrine units from a seven - state area.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Symington Directs Increased Medical Service for Military

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., will direct Senate hearings on a bill to expand medical benefits for military personnel, both active and retired.

The military medicare measure was approved by a unanimous 356-0 House vote on May 11 and referred to the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., appointed Symington, former secretary of the Air Force, chairman of a subcommittee to conduct Senate hearings tentatively scheduled to start late this month.

The bill, asked by the administration, would make the benefits effective July 1 and permit medical treatment in civilian hospitals if facilities were not available in military institutions.

Patients would have to meet part of the hospital costs.

The House Armed Services Committee said the measure proposes the same level of health benefits for military personnel and their families that now is available to nonmilitary personnel and their families that now is available to nonmilitary federal employees.

The bill would expand a 1956 military medicare act which limits treatment for active duty personnel in civilian centers.

The measure also would require that 5 per cent of bed space in new military hospitals be set aside for retired personnel and their dependents. It also would authorize a program for care, training and special education of handicapped children of active duty personnel.

The House report estimated cost of the program at more than $1 billion over a five-year period.

There were about 56 registered English language newspapers being published in India in 1964.

ORAN: The 1966 Seniors of Oran High School made an all-day Senior Trip to Memphis the middle part of May. The bus left bright and early at four o'clock with a load of eager seniors. Their first stop was in Portageville where they ate breakfast. Upon their arrival in Memphis they headed for the Memphis zoo and lingered until until eleven o'clock.

From there they went to the Pink Palace which is a museum. While their they saw many Indian relics, different types of African animal heads, relics of early America and many more interesting things. The lunch hour found them all at the Plaza enjoying a delicious meal.

Following lunch, they went to the Cotton Carnival where they were to spend the rest of the day. The carnival was filled with exciting rides and games which were enjoyed by all the seniors. During the afternoon some of the senior went to a move or went shopping.

Shrine Circus Dates Announced

Loren Willhoft, Chief Rabban of Moolah Shrine Temple, 3821 Lindell boulevard, who has been appointed general chairman of the 1966 Annual Shrine Circus and Fireworks Display, June 29, 30, July 1, 2, 3, 4. The proceeds from the 24th annual circus will be for Shriners Hospital for crippled and burned children, and 25 other local child health and welfare agencies without distinction.

ST. LOUIS -- Hundreds of Shriners from Moolah Temple Shrine Clubs in Eastern Missouri today had launched their advertising and ticket sales campaign for the 24th Annual Moolah Circus and Fireworks Display to be held here at Public Schools Stadium June 29 through July 4, it was announced by Loren Willhoft, circus chairman and Moolah's chief rabban.

"As usual we are counting upon both industry and individuals from all of Eastern Missouri to purchase both program advertising and tickets, and to attend the circus," Willhoft said.

He added that business and industry which is not solicited for advertising or tickets and who wish to participate may get in touch with the Shrine Club in their area, or by writing directly to Moolah Temple, 3821 Lindell boulevard, St. Louis, Missouri 63108.

Taking an active part in the campaign are members from the following clubs, each of which covers a number of towns surrounding the cities mentioned:

Capital, Jefferson city, Three Rivers, Poplar Bluff, Nemo, Hannibal, Tiger, Columbia, Four Rivers, Sullivan, Ecmo, Farmington, Little Dixie, Mexico, Semo, Sikeston, Daniel Boone, Wentzville and South St. Louis County, Kirkwood.

Pointing out that the benefit is held for Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children here, and 25 local children health and welfare agencies without distinction, Willhoft issued an invitation to all residents of Eastern Missouri "to visit our hospital and see first-hand how the funds raised through the circus are employed." The hospital provided totally free care to approximately 4,000 needy afflicted children last year.

Held nightly at 8:15, the circus will emphasize aerial excitement and animal and comedy acts with particular emphasis on acts that appeal to children. A nightly feature will be a balloon ascension.

At intermission all of the colorful Shrine parade units and including 12 lighted floats, the champion Mounted Lancers, the Clowns, the Motor Patrol, the Arab Marching Patrol, the Band, the Drum and Bugle Corps will parade through the darkened stadium.

Another highlight of the "circus festival" will be the Moolah Parade based on the theme "Dreams of Childhood" to be held June 27, at 8:15 p.m. through downtown St. Louis. All of Moolah's units, lighted floats, circus elephants and lions will be in the line of March as will be Shrine units from a seven - state area.

Members of the divan or ruling body of Moolah's almost 11,000 members in Eastern Missouri who head circus committees are:

Walter T. Smith, Jr., co-chairman; Dr. Robert Rainey, publicity; Delbert Miller, Jr., parade; Edward W. Garnholz special projects; Samuel C Kraus, Jr., advertising; Don I. Biggs and Robert C. Conyers, chairman and co- chairman respectively of a second advertising committee and Arthur C. Haack, general service.

Tickets may be purchased from any Shriner, Moolah temple, 3821 Lindell boulevard, or Goldie's Ticket Office, 812 Olive street. General Admission for adults is $1.75; two children a total of $1.75; one child under 12 $1; reserved seats are 75 cents extra and boxes, $1.50 extr.

In addition to Shriner's Hospital, Moonlah Temple contributes to a large number of local child health and welfare organizations, including the following: Masonic Home of Missouri, Lutheran Orphan's Home, Jewish Child Welfare Association, Salvation Army, Mercita Hall, Missouri Baptist Children's Home, Christian Woman's Benevolent Association, Elias Michael School for Crippled Children.

Symington Directs Increased Medical Service for Military

WASHINGTON AP -- Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., will direct Senate hearings on a bill to expand medical benefits for military personnel, both active and retired.

The military medicare measure was approved by a unanimous 356-0 House vote on May 11 and referred to the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., appointed Symington, former secretary of the Air Force, chairman of a subcommittee to conduct Senate hearings tentatively scheduled to start late this month.

The bill, asked by the administration, would make the benefits effective July 1 and permit medical treatment in civilian hospitals if facilities were not available in military institutions.

Patients would have to meet part of the hospital costs.

The House Armed Services Committee said the measure proposes the same level of health benefits for military personnel and their families that now is available to nonmilitary personnel and their families that now is available to nonmilitary federal employees.

The bill would expand a 1956 military medicare act which limits treatment for active duty personnel in civilian centers.

The measure also would require that 5 per cent of bed space in new military hospitals be set aside for retired personnel and their dependents. It also would authorize a program for care, training and special education of handicapped children of active duty personnel.

The House report estimated cost of the program at more than $1 billion over a five-year period.

There were about 56 registered English language newspapers being published in India in 1964.

Oran High Senior Trip

ORAN: The 1966 Seniors of Oran High School made an all-day Senior Trip to Memphis the middle part of May. The bus left bright and early at four o'clock with a load of eager seniors. Their first stop was in Portageville where they ate breakfast. Upon their arrival in Memphis they headed for the Memphis zoo and lingered until until eleven o'clock.

From there they went to the Pink Palace which is a museum. While their they saw many Indian relics, different types of African animal heads, relics of early America and many more interesting things. The lunch hour found them all at the Plaza enjoying a delicious meal.

Following lunch, they went to the Cotton Carnival where they were to spend the rest of the day. The carnival was filled with exciting rides and games which were enjoyed by all the seniors. During the afternoon some of the senior went to a move or went shopping.

In the evening, there was a parade on the Mississippi River which consisted of beautifully decorated barges with cotton scenes. On one of the barges was the Cotton Queen and King. An impressive sight which no one will forget was the million dollar Yacht that was displayed.

The Seniors had a wonderful time and want to thank Mr. Dennis Wheeler, Miss Darlene Tate, and Mr. and Mrs. John Arbuckle for being their sponsors on this unforgettable day.

JUNIOR HIGH PICNIC

Hodges Named Superintendent Of Richland District

CHARLESTON -- Bill Hodges, assistant superintendent of schools for the R-1 District, said today he will resign that position to become superintendent of the Richland (Essex and Gray Ridge) Reorganized School District.

Superintendent W. R. Pierce Jr. who will be leaving July to accept another position, said he understands the R-1 board will meet Friday to interview an applicant for the superintendent's position, and will probably consider Hodges' resignation at that time.

Hodges' resignation is the most recent in a series of administrator resignations this spring. Others include:

-Bill Harris, hired in February as evaluator of federal programs, leaving to accept a position with a junior college in Pensacola, Fla.

-O. W. Farwell, principal of the Eugene Field, Mark Twain, and Wyatt Elementary Schools, leaving to accept a position in Plattsburg.

-Dick Clough, federal program coordinator, who has requested reassignment to the classroom.

Only the Farwell position has been filled. Kenneth House, principal for several years at the Bertrand Elementary School, has been reassigned to the Eugene Field and Mark Twain positions.

Another administrative vacancy exists, that of assistant high school principal. A temporary assignment to this post was made in January, when LaWayne Law was transferred to the Anniston Junior High principalship, but no permanent replacement for Law has yet been found.

Mr. Hodges came to Charleston in 1959 as assistant football coach and started the first guidance and counseling program in the Charleston schools the next year.

In 1964 he became principal at the high school, a position he held until July 1965, when he became assistant superintendent. Mr. Hodges and his family plan to move about July 1.

Matthews School Plans Head Start Program

MATTHEWS -- The Matthews R-5 School District has tentatively been approved for a summer Head Start program, Supt. Lester M. King announced.

This program is primarily designed for economically deprived children in the district who lack the necessary growth and development to make the proper adjustment into the first grade of school, Mr. King said.

Most of the children eligible for the program have registered, he said. To be eligible a child must be six years old by Sept. 15.

The Head Start program and the remedial reading program will begin June 13. Both programs will run for eight weeks, and transportation and hot lunches will be furnished to everyone attending, Mr. King explained.

Classes will be from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. These programs are sponsored by the federal government so there will be no expense to the parents, the superintendent added.

Four buses will cover the district and the pickup time will be about the same time as the regular school buses.

Anyone wishing to enroll a child can come to or call the Matthews school on June 13 at 8:30 a.m., Mr. King said.

Charleston Historical Society Plans Banquet

Members of the Mississippi County Historical Society have announced plans for a potluck banquet for Thursday night, June 9, in the Charleston Methodist Church basement, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Richard Brownlee, director and secretary of the State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia, will be the featured speaker. His services as a speaker and counselor in the formation and operation of such organizations, are in great demand and the Mississippi County society is very fortunate to be able to book Brownlee for the Thursday night meeting. He will be accompanied by his assistant Jim Moss, and both will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Moore while here.

The Historical Society will furnish the barbecue. East Prairians will provide the bread and drinks. Everyone else is asked to bring a covered dish.

In order to plan for the dinner meeting it will be necessary to have a rather close count on attendance. Those who plan to attend are asked to contact any one of the following persons:

Mrs. Audley Brown, Mu 3-6450
Mrs. Joe Ellis Jr., MU 3-4735
Mrs. Sam Jones, NI 9-2294
Mrs. Paul Schneider, NI 9-3110
Mrs. V. Goodin, MU 3-6665
Mrs. Jack Small, OR 5-3261

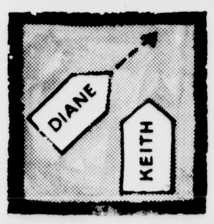

Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Goodin are from Charleston, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Schneider live in East Prairie, and Mrs. Small lives in Wyatt.

Members of the board of directors met Tuesday night to plan the June 9 meeting. The directors emphasize this is a county-wide organization, and members are solicited in every community in the county. Membership is now over 200, and no concerted drive or campagin has been made. Most of the present members signed up voluntarily and without solicitation. In addition, many former Mississippi Countians now living in other sections of the country, have mailed in supporting memberships.

The directors considered several tentative locations where objects of historic interest may be displayed.

Caruthersville Annexation Vote Set for June 7

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Caruthersville voters will go to the polls next Tuesday, June 7, to decide what Mayor B. F. Rogers describes as "one of the communities most pressing issues," expansion.

Residents will cast their ballots either for or against the annexation of an estimated 800 acres into the corporate city limits of Caruthersville. The area proposed to become a part of the city virtually surrounds the present city limits with only two small breaks.

Mayor Rogers said Tuesday that the territory proposed for annexation will increase the current population by only about 200 or so but that the important factor is that the city needs the additional land for both housing and industrial development in the future.

At the present time, pipe has already been strung to most areas proposed for annexation and the water lines will be laid in a matter of weeks if the proposal carries on Tuesday. Sewer service will be extended to the new territory as soon as possible, having been included in the project now awaiting federal funds.

All the city services will be available in the new area immediately if the issue is passed by the voters, such as fire and police protection. However, taxes cannot be collected on that propoerty until next year under Missouri law.

He said there is no way to tell right now just how much the annexation would increase the city's assessed valuation but indicated that it would not be any tremendous amount. The tax value of the land now is not the primary concern, Rogers added, but the important thing is having it available for future development.

"As it stands now," the mayor continued. "Caruthersville just does not have much vacant property that can be used for new homes or businesses, if the city is to grow and develop as it should there should be such property available in the city limits."

Most of the 800 acres to be annexed with voter approval is unimproved farm land which would be suitable and more valuable for the purposes Mayor Rogers descriged.

Only one property owner threatened serious court action when the proposal was in the hands of Circuit Court Judge William L. Ragland and Mayor Rogers said that was due to an error in the land description. It was settled with a revision of the plan and eliminated the need for any public hearing.

IRS To Mail Notices For Quarter

ST. LOUIS, -- The Internal Revenur Service said today that the mailing of notices for the second installment of the 1966 Estimated Tax is later than usual for this calendar quarter but began last week and is almost complete.

Most of the notices will be in the hands of the post office by June 5, 1966. In some cases, Mr. E. O. Bookwalter, District Director of Internal Revenue Service for the State of Missouri said, where the taxpayer has made an error in his declaration, Form 1040ES, such as an incorrect or omitted Social Security number, there may be an additional delay of a few days before notices are received.

Mr. Bookwalter said that individual taxpayers who filed Declarations of Estimated Federal Income Tax must pay the second installment of tax due in any event on the 1966 estimate by Wednesday, June 15, 1966.

A PLANS FOR PROGRESS COMPANY AND AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Hodges Named Superintendent Of Richland District

CHARLESTON -- Bill Hodges, assistant superintendent of schools for the R-1 District, said today he will resign that position to become superintendent of the Richland (Essex and Gray Ridge) Reorganized School District.

Superintendent W. R. Pierce Jr. who will be leaving July to accept another position, said he understands the R-1 board will meet Friday to interview an applicant for the superintendent's position, and will probably consider Hodges' resignation at that time.

Hodges' resignation is the most recent in a series of administrator resignations this spring. Others include:

-Bill Harris, hired in February as evaluator of federal programs, leaving to accept a position with a junior college in Pensacola, Fla.

-O. W. Farwell, principal of the Eugene Field, Mark Twain, and Wyatt Elementary Schools, leaving to accept a position in Plattsburg.

-Dick Clough, federal program coordinator, who has requested reassignment to the classroom.

Only the Farwell position has been filled. Kenneth House, principal for several years at the Bertrand Elementary School, has been reassigned to the Eugene Field and Mark Twain positions.

Another administrative vacancy exists, that of assistant high school principal. A temporary assignment to this post was made in January, when LaWayne Law was transferred to the Anniston Junior High principalship, but no permanent replacement for Law has yet been found.

Mr. Hodges came to Charleston in 1959 as assistant football coach and started the first guidance and counseling program in the Charleston schools the next year.

In 1964 he became principal at the high school, a position he held until July 1965, when he became assistant superintendent. Mr. Hodges and his family plan to move about July 1.

Matthews School Plans Head Start Program

MATTHEWS -- The Matthews R-5 School District has tentatively been approved for a summer Head Start program, Supt. Lester M. King announced.

This program is primarily designed for economically deprived children in the district who lack the necessary growth and development to make the proper adjustment into the first grade of school, Mr. King said.

Most of the children eligible for the program have registered, he said. To be eligible a child must be six years old by Sept. 15.

The Head Start program and the remedial reading program will begin June 13. Both programs will run for eight weeks, and transportation and hot lunches will be furnished to everyone attending, Mr. King explained.

Classes will be from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. These programs are sponsored by the federal government so there will be no expense to the parents, the superintendent added.

Four buses will cover the district and the pickup time will be about the same time as the regular school buses.

Anyone wishing to enroll a child can come to or call the Matthews school on June 13 at 8:30 a.m., Mr. King said.

Charleston Historical Society Plans Banquet

Members of the Mississippi County Historical Society have announced plans for a potluck banquet for Thursday night, June 9, in the Charleston Methodist Church basement, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Richard Brownlee, director and secretary of the State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia, will be the featured speaker. His services as a speaker and counselor in the formation and operation of such organizations, are in great demand and the Mississippi County society is very fortunate to be able to book Brownlee for the Thursday night meeting. He will be accompanied by his assistant Jim Moss, and both will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Moore while here.

The Historical Society will furnish the barbecue. East Prairians will provide the bread and drinks. Everyone else is asked to bring a covered dish.

In order to plan for the dinner meeting it will be necessary to have a rather close count on attendance. Those who plan to attend are asked to contact any one of the following persons:

Mrs. Audley Brown, Mu 3-6450
Mrs. Joe Ellis Jr., MU 3-4735
Mrs. Sam Jones, NI 9-2294
Mrs. Paul Schneider, NI 9-3110
Mrs. V. Goodin, MU 3-6665
Mrs. Jack Small, OR 5-3261

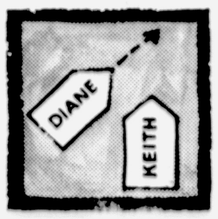

Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Goodin are from Charleston, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Schneider live in East Prairie, and Mrs. Small lives in Wyatt.

Members of the board of directors met Tuesday night to plan the June 9 meeting. The directors emphasize this is a county-wide organization, and members are solicited in every community in the county. Membership is now over 200, and no concerted drive or campaign has been made. Most of the present members signed up voluntarily and without solicitation. In addition, many former Mississippi Countians now living in other sections of the country, have mailed in supporting memberships.

The directors considered several tentative locations where objects of historic interest may be displayed.

Yes. You see, Keith's a defensive driver, so when Diane goes to pass him, he'll help. If there's a car coming in the other direction, he'll slow down to let Diane back into his lane. That'll not only help Diane pass—but it'll defend Keith from a multi-car crash. Are you a defensive driver?

Caruthersville Annexation Vote Set for June 7

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Caruthersville voters will go to the polls next Tuesday, June 7, to decide what Mayor B. F. Rogers describes as "one of the communities most pressing issues," expansion.

Residents will cast their ballots either for or against the annexation of an estimated 800 acres into the corporate city limits of Caruthersville. The area proposed to become a part of the city virtually surrounds the present city limits with only two small breaks.

Mayor Rogers said Tuesday that the territory proposed for annexation will increase the current population by only about 200 or so but that the important factor is that the city needs the additional land for both housing and industrial development in the future.

At the present time, pipe has already been strung to most areas proposed for annexation and the water lines will be laid in a matter of weeks if the proposal carries on Tuesday. Sewer service will be extended to the new territory as soon as possible, having been included in the project now awaiting federal funds.

All the city services will be available in the new area immediately if the issue is passed by the voters, such as fire and police protection. However, taxes cannot be collected on that propoerty until next year under Missouri law.

He said there is no way to tell right now just how much the annexation would increase the city's assessed valuation but indicated that it would not be any tremendous amount. The tax value of the land now is not the primary concern, Rogers added, but the important thing is having it available for future development.

"As it stands now," the mayor continued. "Caruthersville just does not have much vacant property that can be used for new homes or businesses, if the city is to grow and develop as it should there should be such property available in the city limits."

Most of the 800 acres to be annexed with voter approval is unimproved farm land which would be suitable and more valuable for the purposes Mayor Rogers descriged.

Only one property owner threatened serious court action when the proposal was in the hands of Circuit Court Judge William L. Ragland and Mayor Rogers said that was due to an error in the land description. It was settled with a revision of the plan and eliminated the need for any public hearing.

IRS To Mail Notices For Quarter

ST. LOUIS, -- The Internal Revenur Service said today that the mailing of notices for the second installment of the 1966 Estimated Tax is later than usual for this calendar quarter but began last week and is almost complete.

Most of the notices will be in the hands of the post office by June 5, 1966. In some cases, Mr. E. O. Bookwalter, District Director of Internal Revenue Service for the State of Missouri said, where the taxpayer has made an error in his declaration, Form 1040ES, such as an incorrect or omitted Social Security number, there may be an additional delay of a few days before notices are received.

Mr. Bookwalter said that individual taxpayers who filed Declarations of Estimated Federal Income Tax must pay the second installment of tax due in any event on the 1966 estimate by Wednesday, June 15, 1966.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 Years Ago
June 6, 1916

John Sutton and family left Thursday for Illinois where they will make their future home.

One of the most appreciated musical events ever given in Sikeston was the recital in the Malone Theatre Wednesday evening by William Rushing and his pupils assisted by Miss Allie Howard, soprano, who was in splendid voice. Henry Hunter Skillman's selections on the violin received much applause. The hit of the evening, however, was little Miss Evelyn Smith, whose performance was exceedingly good. Those participating on the program were: Glen Hoskins, Helen Kready, Ruth McCoy, Martha Gresham, Kathryn Jewell, Dola Roush, Kathryn Clark, Nica Calvin, Irma Wilson, Miss Howard and Mr. Rushing.

The government thermometer at the Farm Bureau registered 93 in the shade Wednesday and the wind blew a gale. It was a very uncomfortable day.

40 Years Ago
June 6, 1926

Cape Girardeau - Plans at headquarters in the interest of the $100,000 campaign for funds with which to build the new Southeast Missouri Hospital are now being completed for the teams campaign both in Cape and the surrounding communities.

J. H. Tyre purchased the stock of J. H. Vowels in the Pinnell Store Co., last week. Mr. Tyre has been connected with the Pinnell Co., for some time and he will continue in this capacity.

30 Years Ago
June 6,1936

Evelyn Klein entertained a group of her friends Wednesday night with a bunking party. The invited guests were: Sue Tanner, Carolyn Weltecke, Alice Van Horne, Patsy Ruth Gntles, Shirley Shainberg, Betty Lou Shankle and Wilma Ruth Shankelford of Washington, Ind.

Miss Alice Walton is now preparing plans for a five-room English cottage Mrs. William E. Northington will build this summer on ground directly north of the Kate Austin house she owns. The house will face North Ranney avenue and will have a stucco exterior. The new residence will be occupied by Mrs. Irma Wilson Allen, who will be a member of the Sikeston school faculty next term.

The new home Mrs. Florence Marshall is building on the southeast corner of North Kingshighway and Lake street is modeled after one Thomas Jefferson designed in 1802 and built in Virginia. J. A. Sutterfield is building it.

20 Years Ago
June 6, 1946

Miss Martha Stevens entertained complimenting bride-to-be Miss Margaret Ann Hatfield with a buffet-supper and shower, on June 1. Miss Hatfield will be married to Charles L. Proffer, Jr., on June 11.

Rex Theatre, tomorrow, "Strange Confession" with Lon Chaney. Malone Theatre, tomorrow, "Saratoga Trunk" with Ingrid Bergman and Gary Cooper.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Ray moved this Thursday to 422 East Gladys street, which house they recently purchased from the Chas. H. Butlers.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cotton moved to 217 South Ranney Wednesday.

THE PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

MONDAY, JUNE 6, 1966

Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee: because he trusteth in Thee. (Isaiah 26:3)

PRAYER: Dear God, grant that we may enthrone Thee in our lives so that Thou wilt occupy first place in our heart, soul, and mind. Teach us that only when we are armed in Thy strength we are able to withstand evil and carry out Thy will; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

DAILY SIKESTON STANDARD
Sikeston, Missouri

Patriots who will write letters to friends abroad have again scored a signal victory in the upset election of Joaquin Balaguer. They created world sentiment which overcame the alleged "world opinion" promulgated and exported by the dupes and slaves of communists in the United States. They will be diligent in promoting Balaguer's inauguration and successful administration.

Exodus' Pharaoh

Many historians believe Ramses II was the pharaoh of Egypt at the time of the exodus under Moses and that the exodus took place between 1301 and 1234 B.C.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a working man and has always made a modest salary. We have managed to raise and educate our four children by following my mother's rule: "Eat it all. Wear it out. Sew it up. Do without."

Now that the children are on their own, things could be a lot easier financially, except for one thing. My husband goes on a drinking spree every two or three weeks and places long-distance telephone calls to friends all over North America. He calls people he hasn't seen in years, like his old Marine buddies. I can tell by the end of the conversation that some of these people don't even remember him.

Furthermore, I can't get it through his head about the different time zones. We live in Santa Barbara. Last night he called a buddy in Buffalo at 11:00 p.m. and wondered why he didn't get a big hello. He got mad and yelled, "How do you like that jerk -- asleep at 11:00 o'clock?"

I tried to explain that while it is 11:00 o'clock in California it is 2:00 a.m. in New York. He said I was crazy.

It burns me up that I have to hunt for bargains to save a few pennies on canned goods while my husband squanders hundreds of dollars on drunken nonsense that he can't even remember the next day. Please tell me what to do. --VERY ANNOYED

Dear Very: Ask around and determine if any of your local friends have husbands who are similarly afflicted. The boys could form a group known as Telephone Drunks Anonymous. When they get stiff they can call each other up and talk their heads off. This would be a heckuva lot cheaper than calling Buffalo.

If you can't turn up anyone, try waving last month's phone bill before his bloodshot eyes when he begins to go off the deep end. It might help -- depending on how smashed he is.

Dear Ann Landers: I had an appointment with my doctor today and something happened that upset me terribly.

When the nurse left the room I picked up the doctor's chart. I had read only a few sentences when the nurse rushed back into the room, snatched the chart from my hands and shouted, "You are NOT supposed to see this."

I said, "Why not? It's about ME, isn't it?" The nurse did not answer. She went to the doctor and told him that I had begun to read the chart and had gotten angry when she took it away.

The doctor sided with the nurse and I blew my top. I told him if I couldn't see the chart I didn't want to see HIM either. He said, "If that's the way you feel, good-bye."

Please tell me if this is a common practice or if my doctor is just plain mean.
---EAU CLAIRE, WIS.

Dear Eau Claire: I know of no physician who allows his patients to see the charts -- and for very good reason.

A chart contains the doctor's impressions and suspicions. A patient might interpret these notations as a final diagnosis and be unduly concerned.

If you described the nurse's behavior accurately she was unnecessarily rough with you. I think she owes you an apology -- and you owe the doctor one.

Confidential to MARRYING FOR FREEDOM: You may find yourself with LESS freedom than before, "Miss 19." True, your parents won't be able to bug you as in days of yore, but marriage carries with it some crushing responsibilities. What you have in mind could mean a more restrictive type of "imprisonment." Cool it, Sister.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry -- Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 Years Ago
June 6, 1916

John Sutton and family left Thursday for Illinois where they will make their future home.

One of the most appreciated musical events ever given in Sikeston was the recital in the Malone Theatre Wednesday evening by William Rushing and his pupils assisted by Miss Allie Howard, soprano, who was in splendid voice. Henry Hunter Skillman's selections on the violin received much applause. The hit of the evening, however, was little Miss Evelyn Smith, whose performance was exceedingly good. Those participating on the program were: Glen Hoskins, Helen Kready, Ruth McCoy, Martha Gresham, Kathryn Jewell, Dola Roush, Kathryn Clark, Nica Calvin, Irma Wilson, Miss Howard and Mr. Rushing.

The government thermometer at the Farm Bureau registered 93 in the shade Wednesday and the wind blew a gale. It was a very uncomfortable day.

Cape Girardeau - Plans at headquarters in the interest of the $100,000 campaign for funds with which to build the new Southeast Missouri Hospital are now being completed for the teams campaign both in Cape and the surrounding communities.

Evelyn Klein entertained a group of her friends Wednesday night with a bunking party. The invited guests were: Sue Tanner, Carolyn Weltecke, Alice Van Horne, Patsy Ruth Gntles, Shirley Shainberg, Betty Lou Shankle and Wilma Ruth Shankelford of Washington, Ind.

Miss Alice Walton is now preparing plans for a five-room English cottage Mrs. William E. Northington will build this summer on ground directly north of the Kate Austin house she owns. The house will face North Ranney avenue and will have a stucco exterior. The new residence will be occupied by Mrs. Irma Wilson Allen, who will be a member of the Sikeston school faculty next term.

The new home Mrs. Florence Marshall is building on the southeast corner of North Kingshighway and Lake street is modeled after one Thomas Jefferson designed in 1802 and built in Virginia. J. A. Sutterfield is building it.

20 Years Ago
June 6, 1946

Miss Martha Stevens entertained complimenting bride-to-be Miss Margaret Ann Hatfield with a buffet-supper and shower, on June 1. Miss Hatfield will be married to Charles L. Proffer, Jr., on June 11.

THE PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

MONDAY, JUNE 6, 1966

Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee: because he trusteth in Thee. (Isaiah 26:3)

PRAYER: Dear God, grant that we may enthrone Thee in our lives so that Thou wilt occupy first place in our heart, soul, and mind. Teach us that only when we are armed in Thy strength we are able to withstand evil and carry out Thy will; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

To the Editor
DAILY SIKESTON STANDARD
Sikeston, Missouri

Patriots who will write letters to friends abroad have again scored a signal victory in the upset election of Joaquin Balaguer. They created world sentiment which overcame the alleged "world opinion" promulgated and exported by the dupes and slaves of communists in the United States. They will be diligent in promoting Balaguer's inauguration and successful administration.

Constructively,

Many historians believe Ramses II was the pharaoh of Egypt at the time of the exodus under Moses and that the exodus took place between 1301 and 1234 B.C.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a working man and has always made a modest salary. We have managed to raise and educate our four children by following my mother's rule: "Eat it all. Wear it out. Sew it up. Do without."

Now that the children are on their own, things could be a lot easier financially, except for one thing. My husband goes on a drinking spree every two or three weeks and places long-distance telephone calls to friends all over North America. He calls people he hasn't seen in years, like his old Marine buddies. I can tell by the end of the conversation that some of these people don't even remember him.

Furthermore, I can't get it through his head about the different time zones. We live in Santa Barbara. Last night he called a buddy in Buffalo at 11:00 p.m. and wondered why he didn't get a big hello. He got mad and yelled, "How do you like that jerk -- asleep at 11:00 o'clock?"

I tried to explain that while it is 11:00 o'clock in California it is 2:00 a.m. in New York. He said I was crazy.

It burns me up that I have to hunt for bargains to save a few pennies on canned goods while my husband squanders hundreds of dollars on drunken nonsense that he can't even remember the next day. Please tell me what to do. --VERY ANNOYED

Dear Very: Ask around and determine if any of your local friends have husbands who are similarly afflicted. The boys could form a group known as Telephone Drunks Anonymous. When they get stiff they can call each other up and talk their heads off. This would be a heckuva lot cheaper than calling Buffalo.

If you can't turn up anyone, try waving last month's phone bill before his bloodshot eyes when he begins to go off the deep end. It might help -- depending on how smashed he is.

Dear Ann Landers: I had an appointment with my doctor today and something happened that upset me terribly.

When the nurse left the room I picked up the doctor's chart. I had read only a few sentences when the nurse rushed back into the room, snatched the chart from my hands and shouted, "You are NOT supposed to see this."

I said, "Why not? It's about ME, isn't it?" The nurse did not answer. She went to the doctor and told him that I had begun to read the chart and had gotten angry when she took it away.

The doctor sided with the nurse and I blew my top. I told him if I couldn't see the chart I didn't want to see HIM either. He said, "If that's the way you feel, good-bye."

Please tell me if this is a common practice or if my doctor is just plain mean.
---EAU CLAIRE, WIS.

Dear Eau Claire: I know of no physician who allows his patients to see the charts -- and for very good reason.

A chart contains the doctor's impressions and suspicions. A patient might interpret these notations as a final diagnosis and be unduly concerned.

If you described the nurse's behavior accurately she was unnecessarily rough with you. I think she owes you an apology -- and you owe the doctor one.

Confidential to MARRYING FOR FREEDOM: You may find yourself with LESS freedom than before, "Miss 19." True, your parents won't be able to bug you as in days of yore, but marriage carries with it some crushing responsibilities. What you have in mind could mean a more restrictive type of "imprisonment." Cool it, Sister.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry -- Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NAME GAME — Thanks to Mrs. John C. O'Neal, above, and her husband of New York City, the Agriculture Department's coquettish foreign pest symbol now has a name. The O'Neals came up with "Pestina" to win a naming contest sponsored by the Air Transport Assn. The hitchhiking cutie had been nameless since 1963 when the department began using her to remind travelers that souvenirs from overseas can harbor pests capable of millions of dollars of crop damage.

98,000 Veterans Eligible For Viet Nam Benefits

Washington D. C. -- Missouri has 98,000 veterans who are eligible for benefits from the new Viet Nam G.I. Bill of Rights which went into effect today, according to the Information department of the Veterans Administration.

The vill is patterned after the G.I. Bill of Rights passed near the close of World War II, and was extended by an amendment to include the Korean War Veterans. The Viet Nam amendment to the bill provides several of the same type of benefits to veterans, in the way of assistance in getting an education, and loans for certain type of purchases.

The G.I. Bill as applied to the veterans of the Korean war expired in January 1955. If a person has served for 18 days or longer in the armed forces of his country, and has received an honorable discharge, he is entitled to the benefits. Some of the period of service may be before the Jan. 1955 cutoff date, but some of it must be since that time. It is primarily for Viet Nam Veterans.

Types of Benefits

A veteran is entitled to get $100 per month for schooling if he has no dependents. If he has one, he'll get $125, and if two or more he will get $150 a month. He will get the payments for 36 months of schoolings, or for four school years. Generally he can shorten the period by summer attendance.

The veteran also may get a guaranteed loan up to $7,500 for the purchase of a home, or other property. It follows the G.I. Bill provisions.

If the veteran lives in an area in which funds are not available for loans he may get a $17,500 direct loan or up to 60 percent of the purchase price of the home, or other property, whichever is less.

Veterans also are entitled to other types of benefits such as employment assistance, preference for federal employment, medical and dental care, and burial benefits.

on tax anticipation loans and the rate to be paid the college on time deposits while serving as the depository for the institution.

The tax anticipation loans would provide money for operation of the college until the first tax revenues are received. Such loans are the routine way of financing newly organized colleges, Dr. Westover said. It has been a common practice in other areas of the state.

The eight banks which will be asked for bids are the institutions in Poplar Bluff and the banks at Fisk, Piedmont, Van Buren, Grandin and Doniphan.

A committee of the board was appointed to contact the Poplar Bluff Loan and Building Assn., regarding the use of the old High School Building, 507 Vine St., as a site for opening the college. Board President Bud Holloway named himself, John Garver and Ben Bidewell as members of the committee to inquire about the building, which is adjacent to the Holloway Building.

Bidewell, who was out of town and could not attend last night's meeting, was elected treasurer of the board.

The next board meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 23, at the Chamber of Commerce offices. The meetings are open to the public.

Kiwanis is now established in eight Western European countries. The first club was chartered in Vienna in May of 1963.

Kiwanis International is relatively new outside the United States and Canada. Delegates to the organization's 46th annual convention in 1961 adopted a resolution favoring expansion into other countries. This policy was implemented in 1962 with the establishment of the Kiwanis Club of Tijuana, Baja California, Mexico.

Kiwanis today, one year after the celebration of its Golden Anniversary, has a membership of some 275,000 men in 5,400 clubs in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Western Europe, the Caribbean, and the Far East.

on tax anticipation loans and the rate to be paid the college on time deposits while serving as the depository for the institution.

The tax anticipation loans would provide money for operation of the college until the first tax revenues are received. Such loans are the routine way of financing newly organized colleges, Dr. Westover said. It has been a common practice in other areas of the state.

The eight banks which will be asked for bids are the institutions in Poplar Bluff and the banks at Fisk, Piedmont, Van Buren, Grandin and Doniphan.

A committee of the board was appointed to contact the Poplar Bluff Loan and Building Assn., regarding the use of the old High School Building, 507 Vine St., as a site for opening the college. Board President Bud Holloway named himself, John Garver and Ben Bidewell as members of the committee to inquire about the building, which is adjacent to the Holloway Building.

Bidewell, who was out of town and could not attend last night's meeting, was elected treasurer of the board.

The next board meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 23, at the Chamber of Commerce offices. The meetings are open to the public.

"Have you got us in sight?" Stafford asked as Gemini 9 drifted down on its 84-foot chute.

The aircraft carrier Wasp advised that it did and added: "The whole world has you in sight."

The sailors on the Wasp crowded the deck as the big carrier turned to approach the spacecraft in the water and haul it aboard. They were cheering the astronauts riding in the mild seas.
